COREAN BORDER BATTLE RAGES INTO THIRD DAY

Soviet Planes Bomb Frontier Towns.

TOKIO, Aug. 3 [Wednesday].—(AP)—After night-long aerial and artillery bombardments soviet Russia hurled a large body of troops, supported by thirty tanks, against Japanese positions at Shachofeng at 6 a. m. today, an army communique reported.

Japanese army sources said the Russians were repulsed with "heavy losses."

[Dispatches from the front received in Tokio said the Russians used six divisions of troops in the attack. A Russian division, according to latest figures, contains from 15,000 to 14,000 men. Military observers doubted there was that large a Russian force in the disputed sector.]

Dominates Soviet Naval Harbor.

Shachofeng is a point near Changkufeng, dominating height in the Possiet bay region on the ill-defined border of Russian Siberia, the Japanese colony of Corea and the Japanese protectorate of Manchukuo. The region is about 150 miles southwest of Russia's important far eastern naval and military base of Vladivostok. Possiet bay is a soviet naval anchorage.

The Japanese communique, describing the attack, said "Japanese troops waited until the soviets were within 230 yards, then charged and broke the Russian attack in hand to hand fighting."

The Russians quickly reformed their lines and returned to the assault an hour later, but again were repulsed.

Use Most Modern Equipment.

Meager information showed both sides were heavily armed with the most modern equipment. The Russians were using small, fast tanks, and the Japanese apparently were forewarned of this type of weapon and were well supplied with batteries of armor piercing anti-tank guns.

The Japanese war office estimated the Russians already had lost nearly thirty tanks in the engagements, eleven of which fell into Japanese hands.

The foreign office said Foreign Minister Gen. Kazushige Ugaki and War Minister Lieut. Gen. Seishiro Itagaki were "watching developments with perfect calmness" and were ready to settle the incident diplomatically—but that all negotiations were based on a recognition of Changkufeng as part of Manchukuan territory.

A foreign office spokesman said that the first secretary to the embassy in Moscow lodged a new protest yesterday against "soviet lawlessness," but that no reply had been received. Ambassador Mamoru Shigemitsu was to present another protest directly to the Russian foreign minister, Maxim Litvinov, today.

Corean Towns Bombed.

Today's battle apparently was the most determined since the series of engagements over the frontier position began on Sunday.

Official sources said, furthermore, that Russian air squadrons today bombed Kojo, a town on the Corean side of the border, "causing numerous civilian casualties." Yesterday, also, soviet planes were said to have bombed Corean villages, causing civilian casualties. Fifteen bombers were said to have made the attacks, also bombing the railway which parallels the Tumen river. Railway service was interrupted between Yuki, on the seacoast, and Kirin, Manchukuo.

Order Air Raid Precautions.

The fear of further soviet air raids caused the Japanese war ministry to place Fuquoka and Osaka prefectures of Japan proper under semi-military restrictions. Fukuoka is the westernmost prefecture and Osaka includes the great central industrial district. Both are believed within bombing range of Vladivostok.

The air raid precautions were extended to the entire eastern coast of Corea and are expected to continue for some time. The precautions include restrictions against exposing lights at night. Radio broadcasts of weather conditions were dis-

EX-PROSECUTOR LINKED TO N. Y. POLICY RACKET

Dewey Also Names Two Judges.

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey charged today that the man he succeeded, William C. Dodge, was among the public officials influenced, intimidated, or bribed by Tammany Leader James J. Hines, alleged political fixer for the Dutch Schultz policy ring.

Dewey also named Magistrate Hulon Capshaw and the late Magistrate Francis Erwin as others influenced by Hines and his associates, who are charged with conspiracy in the operation of a $100,000,000 a year policy game racket in New York City.

The names were contained in a bill of particulars handed to Lloyd Paul Stryker, counsel for Hines, on order of Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora.

Others, Dewey Hints.

Dewey indicated that others, "the names of whom are not presently known to the district attorney," would figure in the conspiracy trial of Hines, which is to open Aug. 15.

Neither Dodge, Capshaw, nor Erwin was charged with a crime. It was merely alleged that they were among those who had been influenced, by intimidation or bribery, in the handling of policy cases.

Shortly after Dewey's action Chief Magistrate Jacob Gould Schurman relieved Capshaw of his duties until further notice.

In addition to the three names, Dewey gave to the defense a mass of other information. This included details as to how and where the policy games were operated and places where Hines and the other defendants are alleged to have met to discuss plans for influencing judges.

Davis Pleads Guilty.

At the same time, J. Richard [Dixie] Davis, disbarred attorney and alleged mouthpiece of the Schultz gang, took the first step in his agreement with Dewey to testify against Hines. Davis pleaded guilty to all thirteen counts of the indictments in which he is charged with participating in the policy racket.

After Davis pleaded guilty it appeared for a time that Justice Pecora would remand him to the Tombs prison.

Davis, who grimaced as he replied, "Guilty," was suddenly tense when the court rebuked the district attorney's office for its recent tolerance of Davis' trips to visit his sweetheart, Hope Dare.

It was only after Charles P. Grimes, assistant district attorney, had promised to supply the court with a full record of these events that Justice Pecora consented to parole Davis to the custody of District Attorney Dewey.

Defense Motion Denied.

Justice Pecora also denied without comment a motion by Hines' counsel for permission to inspect the minutes of the indicting grand jury.

Davis' guilty plea leaves Hines virtually alone to face trial. All his codefendants have either turned state's evidence or are missing, except one. He is Martin [Moe] Weintraub, a lawyer who handled the policy cases in court. The list of those prepared to tell what they know is a long one.

Dewey, when asked whether he planned action against Capshaw and Dodge, said: "No comment. I have a trial on my hands."

Dodge, who went into political retirement when he was refused renomination by Tammany hall in the last election, could not be reached. Matthew T. Saltzman, one of his law partners, said, however, he did not believe Dodge knew he was to be named in Dewey's bill of particulars.

Magistrate Capshaw emphatically denied Dewey's charge. "I have never been bribed, intimidated, or influenced by Hines or any one else in any case," he declared.

Swarms of Grasshoppers Seen in De Kalb County

Sycamore, Ill., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Swarms of grasshoppers are appearing throughout northern De Kalb county, according to reports from farmers in this area. At present they are found in legume and hay fields and in fence rows.

JUNGLE STORIES

The Black Leopard lived in a great Jungle. Many other animals lived there, too. The Black Leopard's name was Purge. The other animals loved Purge. Purge always preyed for their sakes and he provided many delicious feasts for their palates.

All of the wild animals grew fat, and they were very sassy to the domesticated animals that labored in the Vineyard. Do you see the poor oxen working in the field? See the coyotes yapping at the working animals? Purge sent the coyotes to harry the poor beasts.

"They are our enemies," said Purge, who never remembered a favor nor forgot a fault, "and we must destroy them."

"Whom will we prey on when they are destroyed?" asked the little cheetah, anxious to insure his own future.

"We will prey on each other, cheetah," drawled the three buzzards.

This broke up the weekly meeting of the Jungle Club.

QUESTIONS: Do you see the jackal gnawing at the bone? Do you see the Earle-y bird with the worm? Do you see the pretty skunk? See the little cheetah? There are thousands of little cheetahs in the foothills of Washington.

England Bars Dog; Blind Girl Refuses to Land

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Hazel Hurst, an American girl who is blind, refused to land in England today when it was learned that her Alsatian dog guide, Babe, could not land with her. Miss Hurst is 25 years old and from Oneonta, N. Y.

Miss Hurst reached the London docks last night on the steamer American Merchant from New York. She had planned a lecture tour in England with Babe to demonstrate how blind people can get about with the aid of a dog.

Despite her guarantee that the dog had been inoculated against rabies and would not be allowed to have contact with other dogs in England, the ministry of agriculture today decided that the dog could not be brought into the country without the usual six months' quarantine.

"First Time I Felt Blind."

Miss Hurst wept when she heard the ministry's ruling and announced she would abandon the tour, remain aboard the ship and return to New York when the vessel leaves on Friday.

"It is the first time I ever felt blind in my life," Miss Hurst said. "In depriving me of Babe the authorities would be taking the eyes I have provided for myself through her. I do not feel safe being guided by a human being. There is no question of my going ashore without Babe. I am useless without her."

Because of the ministry's uncompromising attitude, Miss Hurst asserted she "never wants to come to England again."

"Can't Make Special Case."

A ministry official, explaining the refusal to relax the quarantine regulations, said:

"If we made an exception in Miss Hurst's case that would be a loophole for others. We cannot make this a special case and break the law."

The American embassy decided to take no action over the ministry's ban.

"It is a matter of plain law," an embassy official said. "There is nothing we can do about it."

JOSE HAS AN EYE FOR BEAUTY, BY DAMN, IN ANY MAN'S LANGUAGE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Mayor José Tormas Diego of Ponce, Porto Rico, ran into difficulty with the English language today, but conveyed his general ideas just the same. He came out of the hospital after an appendicitis operation, but declared he had "plenty of tripes left" for combatting terrorists who attempt to assassinate officials on the island. He was referring to the recent attempt to kill Gov. Blanton Winship in Ponce.

"If I could speak the English by the books," said the mayor, "I would blow their nose, by damn I am."

Then he praised the treatment he received in the hospital from American nurses. "These girl," he said, "she's making very fine care of me. Very beautiful, too."

CHRISTMAS MENU NOTE: TURKEY HASH 1 DAY ONLY

Beltsville, Md., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Experiments designed to end the Christmas turkey hash season on Dec. 26 instead of on Jan. 1, are nearing completion at the department of agriculture's experimental station.

The reason the hash season lasts so long, experts explained, is that the average turkey at the prime age of 28 weeks weighs 18 to 20 pounds. This is too much for the average family to consume at one meal, even if the in-laws are included.

The department of agriculture has set out to change all this by producing a lighter turkey. They finally succeeded, by interbreeding with wild turkeys, in producing a bird that weighs twelve pounds at the prime age, 28 weeks.

Jewish Doctors in Germany Deprived of Their Licenses

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—(AP)—All Jewish physicians in Germany are to be deprived of "approbations"—licenses to practice—by an order published tonight. The order briefly states that from Sept. 30 all such licenses will become void. The number of Jews this new decree affects is estimated at between 6,000 and 7,000.

German Court Puts Limit on Wife's Buying

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—How much of a husband's earnings a German wife may spend within the law was disclosed today by a Hamburg court in the case of a woman who bought a vacuum cleaner on the instalment plan without her husband's consent.

The court ruled that wives cannot contract to pay for any object that costs more than one-third of the husband's monthly income.

Earns $85 a Month.

Testimony disclosed that the husband had an income of $85 a month to support himself, his wife, and baby. Consequently the court ruled that the wife was not justified in promising to pay $30 for a vacuum cleaner.

Family financial affairs also preoccupy Germany's labor trustees, it was indicated in another case in Kurhessen. A worker who was called upon to pay for the support of his child said his income was too small. It was charged, however, that he worked only forty hours a week to dodge his financial obligations toward the child.

Must Work Overtime.

His employer testified he repeatedly had urged the defendant to work overtime. When the defendant refused a labor trustee summoned the worker. The labor trustee ordered the father to work sixty hours a week, which will enable him to pay for the child's upkeep.

As punishment for his lack of responsibility the worker will receive only his regular wages without drawing extra pay for overtime.

YEAR'S HOTTEST WEATHER SEEN FOR CITY TODAY

Steady southwest winds yesterday brought the heat of baking prairies to Chicago, driving the temperature up to 92 degrees at 4 p. m., equaling the year's heat record, which was set on July 25. It will be hotter today, with a probable maximum temperature of 96 degrees in the afternoon, according to Forecaster J. R. Lloyd. There is a possibility that the heat wave will be broken tomorrow, however.

Heiress' Son Charges She Died of Poison

BY WAYNE THOMIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—An extraordinary turn was given to the court proceedings in the Mabelle Horlick Sidley death inquest today. William H. Sidley of Racine, Wis., only son of Mrs. Sidley, filed an affidavit with the court clerk in which he said it was his belief that his mother died as the result of slow poisoning.

Mrs. Sidley died here July 6, three months after she had made a will in which she left one-third of her estate to W. Perkins Bull, her Toronto lawyer and business adviser for many years. She was heiress to one-third of the Horlick malted milk fortune and left an estate valued up to nine million dollars.

Mrs. Sidley died in Bull's home where she had been a guest for more than a year.

Charges Not Public.

The text of young Sidley's poison charges may never be made public. The affidavit merely has been placed with the court clerk to be used at some future time when produced before a justice of the court. Thus the charges are only the belief of young Sidley.

Sidley made and filed the affidavit as part of his fight to have the inquest into the death of his mother resumed. Four of the executors of the estate have sought by injunction to have the inquest abandoned, contending that an autopsy already has established the cause of death.

In attempting to have the inquest abandoned the four executors contended that Dr. Smirle Lawson, chief coroner of Toronto, cannot legally conduct an inquest into Mrs. Sidley's death on the grounds that he attended her as a private physician. This is denied by Dr. Lawson and Mrs. Sidley's son, who is the fifth executor of the estate.

Son Feared Worst.

Sidley's affidavit states that he consulted Dr. Lawson in Lawson's capacity as coroner, not as a physician. After his mother's death, he continued, he feared the worst—that his mother had been murdered.

The affidavit, which is less than 300 words in length, gives none of Sidley's reasons for believing his mother was poisoned, but indicates he made them plain to the coroner. The inquest was begun on July 26 and interrupted by an injunction suit filed by the four executors.

The son's statement was turned over to attorneys for the crown, who delivered it to the clerk of the high court.

1934 Will To Be Offered.

Young Sidley, who under the April will, will receive a share of the estate the same size as Bull's, intends later to contest the document. He is joined in opposing the April will by an uncle, A. J. Horlick, brother of his mother. They will attempt to probate a will made in 1934, leaving the bulk of her fortune to the son.

Another uncle, William Horlick, is one of the four executors who are

TWO VIRGINIA RUBBER STAMP MEN DEFEATED

The Primaries

VIRGINIA—Representative Howard W. Smith (D.) in the 8th district, target of New Deal purgers, won over William E. Dodd Jr., 100 per cent Roosevelt supporter. In the 2d district Representative Norman R. Hamilton, Roosevelt backer, was defeated by former Representative Colgate W. Darden.

MISSOURI—Senator Bennett Champ Clark, who has opposed President Roosevelt's chief measures, has a lead of landslide proportion in his contest for renomination in the Demorcatic primary. Returns from 2,177 precincts of 4,428 gave Clark 228,882 votes; Davis, 35,885; Meredith, 18,057; Young, 12,643. Returns from 1,893 precincts gave Boss Pendergast's Supreme court nominee, Judge James V. Billings, 199,403 votes to 173,879 for Gov. Lloyd Stark's nominee, Judge James Douglas.

KANSAS—The Rev. Gerald B. Winrod, pamphleteer and evangelist, ran third in the Kansas Republican race for the United States senate nomination. The contest lay between Clyde M. Reed, former governor, and Dallas Knapp. Returns from 1,493 precincts out of 2,708 gave Reed, 56,420; Knapp, 34,316; Winrod, 30,032. For governor 975 precincts gave Ratner, 40,315; McGugin, 25,868; Thompson, 18,828; Newcomer, 9,910. Story on page 2.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Candidates running on New Deal platforms were defeated tonight in both of Virginia's Democratic congressional primary tests, with Representative Howard W. Smith of the 8th district overwhelming his 100 per cent Roosevelt rival, William E. Dodd Jr., son of a former ambassador to Germany, by a margin of 3 to 1.

Smith, who is on the Nonpartisan league's [C. I. O.] "blacklist" and whom Dodd denounced as a member of the house rules committee group which held up action on the wage hour bill, polled 19,601 to Dood's 6,530 on the basis of unofficial returns from 209 of 219 precincts.

Dodd Concedes Defeat.

Dodd conceded defeat after Smith's margin continued to pile up with little chance of remaining unreported precincts materially changing the result.

Smith, who was first elected in 1930, made only one campaign promise—a reiteration of that of 1930—to vote according to his discretion in congress. Smith carried Alexandria, home town of C. I. O. chieftain John L. Lewis, 3,100 to Dodd's 1,435.

Dodd, who campaigned on a 100 per cent Roosevelt platform, had the backing of John L. Lewis' C. I. O. as well as the blessing of Secretary Harold L. Ickes, who injected himself into the campaign by charging that Smith was seeking to ride into office again on the "coat tails of PWA."

Ickes said, as a matter of fact, Smith when in congress had voted against the PWA. Dodd's candidacy also was approved by the Daily Worker, the communist daily newspaper in New York. Dodd was put into the race by the Tommy Corcoran-Ben Cohen group in the White House.

Smith a Byrd-Glass Type.

Representative Smith, a wing-collared Virginian of the Byrd-Glass school, in his speeches declared that the youthful Dodd proposed to be a mere automaton—a rubber stamp such as required by Hitler or Mussolini. Smith insisted that he would not be 100 per cent subservient to any president.

Within the district where Smith routed Dodd are the homes of four presidents—Washington's, Mount Vernon; Jefferson's, Monticello; Monroe's Ash Lawn, and Madison's Montpelier. It includes Upperville and Warrenton, called the two richest towns per capita in the world, and Hells Bottom, one of the poorest communities in the nation.

In the second district, where the Roosevelt issue was less sharply defined, former Rep. Colgate W. Darden led Rep. Norman R. Hamilton, who was elected over Darden two years ago on a pro-Roosevelt platform, by 18,907 to 17,283, on the basis of complete unofficial returns from all of the 128 precincts. W. Bruce Shafer, a third contender for the nomination, was far behind. Hamilton conceded Darden's nomination.

Hamilton declared in his campaign speeches "I am a Democrat and stanch supporter of the President." Darden proclaimed himself as an independent, while Shafer termed both Hamilton and Darden "economic royalists."

W. Va. Congressmen Lead.

Charleston, W. Va., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Three of West Virginia's congressmen appeared victorious in primary returns tonight, while the state senate contests found administration men behind in three races and ahead in seven.

The leads piled up, with half the precincts in, by Representatives Robert L. Ramsey in the first, Andrew Edmiston in the third, and George W. Johnson in the fourth, made it almost certain they will run for reëlection in November. Three other Democratic congressmen were unopposed.

The congressional races found this situation prevailing:

Ramsay, in 170 of 326 precincts had 15,744 votes to 11,492 for Attorney Frank C. Haymond of Fairmont.

Edmiston in 337 of 479 precincts had 27,749 to 12,763 for J. Alfred Taylor of Fayetteville.

The Republican race in the third showed in 262 precincts former Judge H. Roy Waugh of Buckhannon with 8,753, Clyde Ash of Wilsonburg with 3,950, and Ott Rader of Summerville with 3,066.

Johnson walked away from Edgar Utterback of Parkersburg and in 135 of 441 precincts has 13,476 to 2,543 for Utterback.

On the Republican side in the fourth Raymond Humphreys of Huntington, 1936 nominee, had 8,853 in 162 precincts while Isaac Underwood of Middlebourne polled 6,113.

With the exception of two districts, Democratic candidates for state senatorial nominations who bore state administration approval were leading their opponents.

TWO FACE TRIAL TODAY FOR C. I. O. STRIKE TURMOIL

Trial of two men arrested during a C. I. O. demonstration before the Waukegan courthouse on July 16 is scheduled to start today before Justice of the Peace Henry F. Wallenwein in Waukegan.

The men are Morris Wright, 550 Center avenue, Lake Bluff, a reporter for the Peoples Press, and Loren Ford, 1532 Belvidere street, Waukegan, a laborer. They were charged with unlawful assembly in connection with the demonstration for strikers at the Chicago Hardware Foundry in North Chicago.

The trial of a third man, Oakley Mills, the strike leader, was postponed until Aug. 12. Mills is taking part in negotiations for a contract between the C. I. O. union and the foundry. The foundry agreed to negotiate a contract as part of a settlement of the strike.

LEWIS TO SPEAK BEFORE TROOPS AT CAMP GRANT

Camp Grant, Ill., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Senator James Hamilton Lewis today informed Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn, commander of the 33d Division that he would accept an invitation to speak here next Sunday, visitors' day. The senator will make a thirty minute talk to the 9,000 guardsmen assembled here for the annual field training period and to thousands of visitors.

Following the senator's address and noon mess the visitors will see the 33d Division military show, presented last June in Chicago, reënacted.

Another hot sun scorched the training areas of Camp Grant today as the state troops continued a strenuous program of military exercises supervised by regular army officers.

CLARK LEADS, 3-1, IN MISSOURI RACE OVER THREE FOES

Pendergast Candidate Is Ahead by 25,000.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 2.—(AP)—With the first metropolitan returns from Missouri's primary election matching a trend shown in early rural reports, United States Senator Bennett Champ Clark was headed tonight for Democratic renomination by a decisive margin.

Returns from 2,177 of the state's 4,428 precincts gave him 228,882 votes against a combined total of 66,585 for his three opponents.

In the state Supreme court race, a contest involving warfare between T. J. Pendergast, Kansas City boss, and Gov. Lloyd C. Stark, incomplete returns gave James V. Billings, Pendergast's candidate, a lead over the governor's candidate, Judge James M. Douglas.

Billings Leads by 25,000.

In 2,474 of the state's 4,428 precincts, including 421 of 548 in Jackson county [Kansas City], the vote was: Billings, 199,403; Douglas, 173,879. The total includes only 50 precincts of 783 in St. Louis, Douglas' home city, where he is expected to poll a heavy vote. Douglas is leading in 85 of the state's 114 counties.

Reports of light Republican voting everywhere indicated a state-wide G. O. P. invasion of the Democrats' civil war. There were pronounced demands for Democratic ballots in Kansas City's south side, where the Republicans are strongest, and in normally Republican wards in St. Louis.

Clark's candidacy was the one place where the warring Stark and Pendergast factions found common ground. The senator's supporters hoped for an overwhelming vote to enhance Clark's stature as presidential material in 1940.

Foes Pose as New Dealers.

Two of his three opponents, Willis H. Meredith of Poplar Bluff and Joseph T. Davis of St. Louis, campaigned as avowed "100 per cent New Dealers," although without a friendly gesture from President Roosevelt. The third candidate is Robert I. Young of St. Joseph.

On the Republican side, former Gov. Henry S. Caulfield of St. Louis, drafted by party leaders to run for the senatorial nomination, was opposed by Ray E. White, a St. Louis county real estate dealer.

All thirteen of the state's congressmen are up for renomination. Dewey Short, the lone Republican, and five of the Democrats have no primary opposition.

ROOSEVELT SIGNS BIRD REFUGE ORDERS ON SHIP

ABOARD U. S. S. HOUSTON, Cocos Island, Costa Rica, Aug. 2.—(AP)—In the lush tropic setting of this island President Roosevelt today signed orders for bird refuges back home and approved routine recommendations which reached him from Washington, D. C.

The President gave up his bouts with sharks and sailfish for a day when a pouch full of official documents arrived by ship from Panama. He converted a cabin on the Houston into a seagoing executive office and went to work. But the work period was brief. He signed orders establishing migratory bird refuges at Fort Tyler, N. Y., and West Sister Island, O.

FOUND DEAD ON RAILWAY TRACKS.

An inquest into the death of Albert Roth, continued yesterday until Aug. 18. His body 31 years old, 1619 Pearson street, was was found early yesterday morning on the Chicago and North Western railway tracks near Western avenue. Police said it had apparently been struck by a north bound train.

Election Winners

Clyde M. Reed (left), former governor, was leading in the Republican senate primary in Kansas. Circuit Judge James V. Billings (right) was leading in Supreme court judgeship race which was regarded as test of Missouri Democratic machine. Billings was backed by Tom Pendergast, Kansas City boss.

MILITIA LEAVES STATE ON EVE OF TENNESSEE VOTE

Ends Threat of Troops in Memphis.

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 2.—(AP)—The last detachment of Tennessee's National Guard entrained tonight for maneuvers in south Mississippi, removing any likelihood that Gov. Gordon Browning would order guardsmen to patrol the Democratic primary Thursday in Memphis, stronghold of the governor's opposition.

Browning, who was termed a "swashbuckling governor" by Federal Judge John D. Martin in Memphis for considering the military patrol, reiterated earlier statements that they would not be sent to national Committeeman E. H. Crump's citadel "unless I change my mind."

Browning, who has said his decision on the troops would have "no relation to any injunction," was enjoined by Martin from sending them to Memphis. The judged termed Browning a "tyrannical despot." The governor retorted that Martin's order was "a disgrace to the bench" and that the jurist "ought to be impeached."

The hullabaloo about the troops overshadowed other developments in Browning's renomination race against three opponents, including Prentice Cooper, attorney who is backed by Crump, and senior United States Senator K. D. McKellar, who controls federal patronage.

Crump and McKellar also are supporting A. Tom Stewart, a district attorney general, for the junior United States senate seat of George L. Berry, Browning ally.

Berry has three other opponents, among them Representative J. Ridley Mitchell and Dr. John R. Neal, Knoxville lawyer,

KANSANS SPURN REVIVALIST FOR SENATE NOMINEE

Winrod Runs Third; Reed Far in the Lead.

Topeka, Kas., Aug. 2.—(AP)—The Rev. Gerald B. Winrod, spellbinding revivalist, ran behind the leaders tonight in the Kansas Republican senatorial primary. Former Gov. Clyde M. Reed led his closest rival, Dallas Knapp, an attorney, by 22,000 votes.

Payne H. Ratner, state senator from Parsons, was leading in the Republican gubernatorial nomination in incomplete returns, with Harold McGugin, former congressman, a brisk second. Ratner showed a more consistent following in an analysis of the first returns, with special support in the populous Kansas City [Wyandotte county] area.

Knapp in Second Place.

Complete returns from 1,493 precincts out of 2,708 gave Reed 56,420; Knapp, 34,316; Winrod, 30,032, and the Rev. J. C. Fisher, Methodist minister, 14,710.

In the Republican primary race for the governorship 975 precincts gave Ratner 40,315 votes; McGugin, 25,868; Charles W. Thompson, 18,828; Carl Newcomer, 9,910.

The Republican senatorial nominee will oppose Sen. George McGill, Democrat, in November. McGill had one primary opponent, Joe Dohner, a Peabody farmer, but the senator was running far in front on early returns.

Both Reed and Knapp were sharply critical of Roosevelt administration policies throughout their campaigns.

Charged With New Deal Tinge.

Some political enemies had accused Reed of leaning toward some of the radical White House policies. McGill was rated an ardent Roosevelt supporter.

In turning down Winrod, Republicans heeded pleas of National Committee Chairman John Hamilton and a group of state leaders. The evangelist was accused of Nazi sympathies and intolerance, accusations he denied.

Gov. Walter A. Huxman, Democratic incumbent, was without primary opposition.

A POLICEMAN'S 6TH SENSE TRAPS FORMER CONVICT

For no reason other than a policeman's sixth sense Sergt. Clarence Sweeney stopped Barney Frederickson, 34 years old, as he was driving at Sheridan and Irving Park roads yesterday.

In the car Sergt. Sweeney found three summer sausages, two Thuringer sausages, fifty packages of cigarets, and a box of chewing gum. Frederickson said he won them in a dice game or maybe it was poker or possibly he won them in a picnic raffle.

His finger prints were sent to the bureau of identification. Back came his diploma, showing an eighteen year record as a graduate of the Bridewell and Joliet penitentiary in burglary, robbery, and other larceny. Sentenced to Joliet Jan. 18, 1927, as a robber, he was paroled in 1931, returned as a parole violator in 1932, and finally discharged from parole last June 9.

TRAIN KILLS CROSSING WATCHMAN.

Michael Flaherty, 64 years old, 8504 Summit avenue, a gate crossing watchman for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, was fatally injured last night when he was struck by a passenger train at 89th and Morgan streets. He died in Little Company of Mary hospital.

LEWIS TO LEAVE SENATE IN 1939 TO PRACTICE LAW

Post Must Be Filled for Three Years.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Senator James Hamilton Lewis [D., Ill.], who was elected in 1936 for a third term in the senate, said today he would resign in 1939, after the close of the first session of the 76th congress. His term expires Jan. 3, 1943, so that his resignation in 1939 would leave more than three years of the term to a successor.

Senator Lewis. A. P. Wirephoto.

"I would have resigned this year, but for the fact that I felt I should continue my support of President Roosevelt in his great work," Lewis said. "By retiring in 1939, my successor can be chosen in the 1940 election without putting the state of Illinois to the expense of a special election."

Since the 1940 general election will not be held until November, Lewis' resignation at the close of 1939 would make it necessary for Gov. Horner to appoint a temporary successor to serve in the 1940 session of congress.

Points to Family Obligations.

Lewis said he felt that he could better fulfill his obligations to his family by retiring and resuming his law practice.

"The state has honored me greatly already by electing me to the senate," he declared. "I feel that the honor should be shared with others."

Since his first election to the senate in 1912, Lewis has been a conspicuous national figure known to thousands of tourists from all parts of the country for his celebrated pink whiskers, now a dusty gray, for nis courtly manners and his elegant raiment. Characteristic attire for the venerable J. Ham consists of a rich brown frock coat, a fawn colored waistcoat, a purple ascot tie with matching handkerchief in the breast pocket, and pearl gray gloves and spats.

Admitted to Seattle Bar.

Lewis was admitted to the bar in Seattle, Wash., and served a term as congressman at large from Washington before moving to Chicago, in 1903. He was corporation council of Chicago from 1905 to 1907 and United States senator, under the Wilson administration, from 1913 to 1919. He was defeated for reëlection in 1918, but was elected in 1930 and again in 1936. He was the senate Democratic whip under the Wilson administration and has served in that capacity since his return to the senate in 1931.

A member of the foreign relations committee, in which he takes great pride, Senator Lewis has manifested more concern about international than domestic affairs.

A consistent supporter of President Roosevelt, he declared yesterday that an attempt by the President to obtain a third term would destroy the Democratic party. Lewis expressed doubt that the President would seek a third term.

Horner Can't Be Reached.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Gov. Horner could not be reached tonight for comment on Senator James Hamilton Lewis' announcement that he will resign next year. The governor is vacationing in Wisconsin and his aids refused to reveal the place. Horner frequently has been mentioned as a possible successor to Lewis.

90 TODAY; SHE CELEBRATES.

Sycamore, Ill., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Mrs. Ellen Strong of this community will celebrate her 90th birthday tomorrow.

HATTIE CARAWAY FACES HOT FIGHT FOR SENATE SEAT

Gov. Bailey Also Has Stiff Battle in Primary.

Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—In a political year in which the breaking of precedents has become commonplace, political leaders here are predicting Arkansas voters will abandon custom and not reward one term with another. The incumbents who face a hard fight for renomination in the primary next Tuesday are United States Senator Hattie W. Caraway and Gov. Carl E. Bailey, both Democrats. The Republican vote in this state is negligible and Democratic nomination is tantamount to election.

Mrs. Caraway, who served out the unexpired term of her late husband, and then, with the aid of the late Huey Long of Louisiana, won reëlection for a full term, is opposed by Congressman John L. McClellan of Malvern, who is completing his second term in the house of representatives.

Gets Presidential Blessing.

Mrs. Caraway waited until two weeks ago to start her campaign. The delay was said to have been caused by her desire to await a friendly nod from President Roosevelt when he crossed the country on his congressional stumping tour.

She rode across the state on the presidential train and introduced Mr. Roosevelt when he made a brief stop. Her reward was to be mentioned as a friend of the President, which appears to have had little effect upon the voters. The issue is whether the people want a man or woman on the job, and Mrs. Caraway is the only woman ever elected to the senate, although others have been appointed.

Gov. Bailey is asking for reëlection so he may complete the program he has started during his eighteen months in office. His opponent, Judge R. A. Cook of Little Rock, charges him with insincerity, extravagance, and broken promises.

Judge Wins Support.

Judge Cook's plea for support, which is finding an attentive ear among large audiences where he has spoken, is based upon the business administration he has given to Pulaski county [Little Rock] in the last four years. He changed a deficit of several hundred thousand dollars to a surplus of an equal sum.

Registration for the primary is the heaviest in Arkansas since 1930. Three hundred and thirty-five thousand voters are eligible. Only a few thousand are Republicans.

Democratic leaders expect a vote of about 230,000 in the primary and a heavier vote in November.

Boss Pendergast's Wife Denied Vote in Primary

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Mrs. T. J. Pendergast, wife of Kansas City's Democratic boss, was denied a vote in Missouri's primary election today. When Mrs. Pendergast called at the polling place for a ballot, precinct officials found she had forgotten to sign registration affidavits.

Labor Leader Addresses Party Conference.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, told the midsummer conference of the program committee of the Republican national committee last night that "Big Government" now is the real menace to American liberties and aspirations.

Matthew Woll.

On the evening program at Thorne hall on the Chicago campus of Northwestern university he spoke from the same platform with Louis K. Comstock, president of the Merchants' association of New York. Their joint topic was "Coöperation Between Labor and Industry." They were on common ground on many points. Both condemned the present operation of the Wagner act.

Urges Collective Reasoning.

Woll chose as his individual text "Labor Will Coöperate." Comstock talked for collective reasoning as a substitute for collective bargaining. Neither mentioned President Roosevelt by name but both, in effect, criticized the Roosevelt policies and performances as extremely injurious to the final settlement of the labor problem.

Woll laid the foundation for his general assault on the present situation with impressions gained during a recent two months' trip in Europe.

"Europe today faces either another world war or else bankruptcy and social revolution," he said. "This is the logical consequence of nationalism run riot.

"What this whole present trend signifies is the peril to civilization of the growth of the totalitarian state. This growing centralization of authority is dangerously augmenting the powers of government and diminishing thereby both the scope and the resources for private enterprise and initiative. The extent to which we as a people are influenced by this trend to that degree will we have limited and restricted our system of free enterprise.

"We are now entering an era of 'big government.' The outward manifestations are mounting deficits, increased tax burdens, and swollen budgets. Where this all may lead us no one can tell.

Business Men Alarmed.

"Not many years ago we were being warned of the peril of 'big business.' We were told about a great invisible power that was seeking to control the processes of government. We are now seeing the menace of 'big government,' which is not only controling the destinies of business and utilizing the public credit to perpetuate political parties in power but is making the individual a pawn of the state.

"Today the business community is alarmed by the intrusion of government into the whole area of our economic life. It complains of taxes and public indebtedness while it favors the benefits of inflationary public spending.

"There are still those employers who dream and imagine that their business is purely a personal affair and who propose to run it to suit themselves. If our system of private enterprise is to continue, if business management is to continue to function under our present economic order, then it must be willing to accept the responsibility of providing for others besides its own."

Woll asserted that business brought upon itself the intervention of government in its disputes with labor. It was the employers, he said, that first used the power of government in their affairs, a use, he said, that proved to be a two-edged sword.

"The state, which in the past has proved a buttress for the employer and oppressor of labor," he said, "has now become a buttress for labor and an oppressor for the employers.

"The shoe is on the other foot. The lesson from this chapter of history seems to me clear. He who invokes the aid of the state to redress a grievance may eventually feel the state's power for grievances to which he is a party."

The speaker described the Wagner act as a one-sided law, produced in a characteristic American effort, he said, to repair by law the inequities of decades.

Demands Amendment.

"Now that this step has been taken," he continued, "it probably will be difficult to retrace it. That the law should be amended is beyond question. Its weaknesses and maladministration are becoming more pronounced and notorious each day."

Woll said that labor views with apprehension the spreading structure of boards, commissions, and committes, of rules, regulations, restrictions, and limitations placed on the economic community. He said undue intervention by government produces strangulation.

Comstock, in discussing the Wagner act, said that while the Supreme court has held the law constitutional, the decision does not mean that the law is good or bad or that it will carry out its declared purposes.

"It has been left for you and me and countless others," he said, "to say that the act is an inadequate and unethical piece of political experimentation which will fall of its own weight if given time."

Other speakers on the evening program were Donald W. Hornbeck and Mrs. James E. Hollingsworth, both representatives of the Young Republican National Federation.

Court Guards Son

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Mrs. Helen Fortescue Reynolds.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Julian Louis Reynolds, son of a manufacturer here, held the rights of guardianship of his one year old son today under a court order granted after he charged his wife, Mrs. Helene Fortescue Reynolds, with intemperate drinking, and with showing more interest in a stage career than in her child.

Judge Julien Gunn, in Henrico county Circuit court, also forbade the removal of the child, Richard Roland, from Virginia without approval of the court.

Mrs. Reynolds is seeking custody of the child in New York courts and has asked for legal separation on the grounds that Reynolds displayed "uncontrolable temper and insane jealousy" in the two years of their married life. She asked a $2,000 monthly allowance pending the settlement of her suit.

SENATE INQUIRY RAPS KENTUCKY VOTE SCANDALS

Campaign Abuses Called Deplorable in Report.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—The senate committee on campaign expenditures today called attention to political scandals in Kentucky, where President Roosevelt's "Dear Alben" Barkley, majority leader of the senate, is opposed for renomination in next Saturday's primary by Gov. A. B. [Happy] Chandler.

Conditions in Kentucky, said a preliminary report issued by the senate committee, are deplorable and should arouse the conscience of the nation.

Without going into particulars in its preliminary report, the committee confirmed charges repeatedly made in the tempestuous Kentucky senatorial campaign. The charges are that WPA relief workers and federal employés are being coerced by the Barkley forces and that Gov. Chandler's machine is making use of state officials entrusted with the distribution of federal funds for old age pensions and unemployment insurance.

Hints Widespread Shakedown.

Chairman Morris Sheppard [D., Tex.], commenting on the preliminary Kentucky investigation, indicated that federal and state employés are being shaken down for campaign contributions on a large scale.

Yesterday Senator Barkley reported to the committee that no public funds or political patronage had been used in behalf of his campaign for renomination.

President Roosevelt, however, had spoken with considerably more candor in telling the people at Covington, Ky., on July 8, why they should return his "Dear Alben" to the senate. He gave Barkley credit for a flow of federal cash into the state, aggregating 280 million dollars in outright allocations from the treasury and $50,000,000 in grants to be matched with state funds for highways and flood control. He made it plain that Gov. Chandler, if elected to the senate, would not be so successful in getting funds from Washington.

Likened to Tennessee.

The committee report indicated that conditions in Kentucky are just as bad as in Tennessee, where "every scheme and questionable device that can be used in a political contest to raise funds to influence votes and control the election is in full swing," according to a previous committee report.

"The evidence thus far presented convinces the committee that a deplorable situation exists in Kentucky," said the report. "It is certain that organized efforts have been and are being made to control the vote of those on relief work, and that contributions have been sought and obtained from federal employés, in behalf of one of the senatorial candidates.

"It is equally certain that state officials charged in part with the distribution of federal funds for old age assistance and for unemployment compensation have been required to contribute from their salaries and of their services in the interest of another candidate for the United States senate.

Want Inquiry to Continue.

"These facts should arouse the conscience of the country. They imperil the right of the people to a free and unpolluted ballot.

"Your committee feels that its investigation in Kentucky should continue, whatever may be the outcome of the primary, in order that the full facts may be developed and presented to the senate for its consideration and action."

While the committee report indicates that Gov. Chandler's forces are using the same methods employed by Barkley and his campaign managers, the newly expanded WPA relief workers' army would give Barkley a tremendous advantage.

The federal machine in Kentucky numbers 69,000 on the WPA and 2,000 in administrative agencies, conservatively estimated to control 200,000 of the 500,000 votes expected to be cast in the Saturday primary. The state pay roll, dominated by Gov. Chandler, is estimated at 17,000.

Investigator to Return.

The preliminary report was issued by Chairman Sheppard with the concurrence of Senator David I. Walsh [D., Mass.] and Senator Wallace White Jr. [R., Me.] Chairman Sheppard said the investigator, H. Ralph Burton, a Washington lawyer, would return to Kentucky, where he has a staf of assistants in the field. The investigation will be continued after the primary election, Senator Sheppard declared, for purpose of submitting a report to the senate, regardless of the primary outcome.

Asked whether the facts might warant refusing a senate seat to the successful candidate, Senator Sheppard replied: "We can not say at this time. That will depend upon future developments.

Sheppard also said the committee would await further developments when asked whether Harry L. Hopkins, WPA administrator, would be called.

U. S. FARM RULE IS MAIN ISSUE AT NEBRASKA POLLS

Five Seek Congress Seats on Their Records.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—The Roosevelt program for the political control of farm crops will be the sole issue of national importance for Nebraska primary voters to consider when they go to the polls Tuesday, Aug. 9, to nominate candidates for congress, governor, and other state offices, and for the second term of the unicameral legislature.

Nebraska's five congressmen, four Democrats and one Republican, all seeking renomination, are being challenged chiefly on the issue of their attitude toward the administration crop control plan.

There is no senatorial contest this year. The terms of Senator George W. Norris, radical Roosevelt supporter, and Senator Edward R. Burke, Democratic foe of the administration, do not expire until 1943 and 1941, respectively.

Governor Seeks Third Term.

Gov. Robert Leroy Cochran, who has won national attention by his economical state administration and his policy of "pay as you go," is seeking the Democratic nomination for an unprecedented third consecutive term.

Cochran's most vociferous opponent for the nomination, Franz C. Radke, a Lincoln attorney and ally of former Gov. Charles W. Bryan, is campaigning against the governor's policy of limiting old age assistance and highway expenditures, and has attacked the idea of a third term.

Leading contender for the Republican governership nomination is Charles J. Warner, Waverly farmer, veteran of twenty-six years in the legislature and speaker of the first unicameral session. His rivals are Kenneth H. Gedney, Hastings architect; Dr. Vernon R. Thomas of Omaha, president of the Nebraska league of taxpayers and home owners, who is urging a $5,000 homestead tax exemption, and Robert G. Ross of Lexington.

Farm Benefits Favored.

The farm issue is being raised in the first district against Congressman Henry C. Luckey of Lincoln, a Democrat, who voted against the 1938 farm act, and in the 5th district, comprising western Nebraska, against Congressman Harry B. Coffee of Chadron, also a Democrat. Luckey is opposed for renomination by Irvin Lechliter, Auburn lawyer, who announced as a "100 per cent" Roosevelt candidate, but later declared he would be "no rubber stamp."

Lechliter favors extension of farm benefits and security, as do Leon M. Wondra, Lincoln real estate man, and A. P. Fitzsimmon, Tecumseh physician.

Republicans out for Luckey's place are George Heinke, Nebraska City attorney and organizer of the Nebraska Grain Belt Liberty league to fight crop control, and Oren S. Copeland, mayor of Lincoln.

Backs Roosevelt 100%.

Democratic Congressman Charles F. McLaughlin of Omaha is opposed for renomination in the 2d district by William J. Shallcross, Bellevue fruit farmer, who indorses all Roosevelt measures, and Foster May, Omaha radio news commentator.

M. F. Mulvaney, president of the Omaha school board and an investment banker, and Jack Lee, Omaha lawyer, are the Republican candidates.

Don't Keep on Having Constipation!

If constipation's got you down—so you feel heavy, tired and dopey—it's time you did something about it. And something more than taking a physic! You should get at the cause of the trouble.

If you eat only the things most people do, the chances are that a very simple fact causes your constipation—you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean heavy food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is your trouble, eat crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day and drink plenty of water. All-Bran is not only rich in "bulk"—it also contains the natural intestinal tonic, vitamin B_1.

RUSSIAN TROOPS WITH 30 TANKS REPULSED BY JAPS

Red Planes Bomb Corean Border Towns.

continued for fear the information might be used by the Russians.

The cabinet yesterday heard War Minister Itagaki outline the border situation, which took precedence over all other matters of government. Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoe then went to report to the emperor.

The war office description of yesterday's unsuccessful Russian attempt to retake Changkufeng hill—first occupied by soviet patrols on July 11, then recaptured by Japanese on July 31—was as follows:

The attack started with an artillery bombardment in midmorning. Soon eight soviet tanks entered the battle, followed by infantrymen who surged toward the hills from both the north and the south.

Ten soviet bombers, flying in formation, raided Changkufeng and nearby villages.

Japanese forces occupying the disputed territory drove back the attacking tanks and infantrymen. Soviet casualties since Sunday were said to have totaled 250; Japanese casualties were reported as 30 killed and 67 wounded.

Jap Planes Prepared.

The war office referring to the air raids declared: "Planes are ready and we must answer." The Corean army had said it was prepared for an emergency and warned that "enemy positions can not resist" if Corean planes take the air.

A member of an official group declared Japan was capable of engaging in a major conflict with Rusia despite the fighting in China.

In the Changkufeng area Japan has military stores and barracks which could house 250,000 troops. The Kwantung army, the Japanese force in Manchukuo, was said to be equipped to fight for a year with virtually no assistance from Japan proper.

Moscow Orders Firm Stand.

MOSCOW, Aug. 3.—[Wednesday.]—(AP)—The crash of bombs and thunder of artillery in the battle for the strategic height dominating far off Possiet bay on the Manchukuo-Corean-Siberian border evoked an anxious echo in Moscow today.

Soviet statesmen, however, had not relinquished hope of preventing the outbreak of a widespread conflict with Japan. They were convinced that weakness in the face of armed provocation would only hasten the spread of hostilities. Soviet troops, therefore, were stubbornly standing their ground.

Repeatedly, Moscow warned Tokio of the grave consequences of continuing the Changkufeng conquest. Soviet circles, however, discouraged any sensational predictions of inevitable war, and still looked for a peaceful solution.

Report Japanese Losses.

Tass, official news agency, in an account of yesterday's conflict, said Japanese troops "resumed the offensive" against Changkufeng in soviet territory and that fighting for the hill lasted all day.

Soviet artillery fire and air bombing caused the Japanese "tremendous losses" as they crossed into Russian territory, the agency, reported.

Reports of flights of soviet bombers over Corean and Manchukuan territory which were circulated by Japanese agencies and newspapers, Tass said, were "emphatically refuted by competent soviet circles."

The agency asserted that since the start of the conflict the soviet government had declared it intended only to defend its own territory, and that both land and air forces were obeying these instructions.

May Get Out of Hand.

Le Journal de Moscou, a French language newspaper, in an editorial circulated by Tass, warned Japan she must realize that "local conflicts" may "easily grow into a general conflict."

"One cannot recommend to Japan to subject the peaceableness of the soviet union to trials indefinitly," the paper continued. "The U. S. S. R. will not tolerate any violation of its borders . . . the soviet government will never tolerate that irresponsible elements of the Japanese military clique or desperate politicians should organize the murder of soviet frontier guards or attacks on certain Red army units.

"Faced with these facts the soviet government is compelled to take sufficiently effective measures not only to put an end to concrete violations of its borders, but also, once and for all, to put an end to similar provocative sallies of Japanese-Manchurians."

Japan, Germany, and Italy, which are considered here as the "Fascist bloc of aggressors," are represented as pursuing a coördinated policy of provocation in an effort to involve the soviets in far-reaching military actions on one front while the Fascists prepare for aggression on another.

Japs Repulse Attack; Guard Against Soviet Air Raids

Japan today ordered observance of air raid precautions in Fukuoka and Osaka prefectures of Japan and the eastern coast of Corea after repeated bombing of Corean border villages by soviet planes. Large map locates Changkufeng area which Japanese and Russians both claim. Japanese hold Changkufeng hill, which dominates the soviet naval anchorage in Possiet bay, and today repulsed a new soviet attack to recapture the hill. Inset map locates Changkufeng area in relation to Japan and Asia.

U. S. ENVOY TO BERLIN TO TALK WITH BRITISH MEDIATOR IN PRAGUE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—Hugh R. Wilson, United States ambassador to Germany, left Berlin today in an American navy department plane to visit Warsaw and Prague. He will confer with American diplomatic representatives in Poland and Czechoslovakia on the central European situation.

Wilson also expects to talk with Viscount Runciman in Prague. Runciman, unofficial British mediator in the conflict between the Czech government and the German minority, left London today for Prague. He will arrive there tomorrow.

Wilson was scheduled to stay in Warsaw tonight. He will fly to Prague tomorrow.

Gives Blood to Tenant; Later Sued for $20,000

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Otto Klein filed a $20,000 damage suit in Circuit court this afternoon against Lloyd Howe, his landlord. Some months ago Howe contributed blood to Klein when a transfusion was declared necessary after an operation. Klein claims he was pushed down a porch steps by Howe in a quarrel over rent April 5 and that in falling he injured the thigh on which the operation had been performed.

15,000 Homes Under Water as Floods Ravage Japan

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Aug. 2.—The cities of Kobe, Osaka, and Kyoto and surrounding districts were flooded today as a result of torrential rains. More than 15,000 homes are under water. Esime prefecture reported nine dead, six injured, and four missing. Many bridges and dikes collapsed. Extensive farm lands were destroyed.

NAZIS BAN ALIEN ARMY MEN IN NEW RESERVED AREAS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—The German government announced in the official Gazette today new reserved areas where members of foreign military forces will not be allowed to travel. They extend around Koenigsberg, Angerburg, Allenstein, and Elbing along the East Prussian border. Another region begins near the Baltic coast and is projected along the Oder river to the Polish and Czech borders.

In Bavaria the reserved area runs from Hof to Cham. The islands of Burkum, Norderney, Heligoland, and Sylt are reserved areas.

CHINESE BREACH YANGTZE DIKES TO FLOOD OUT JAPS

Waters Cover Land in Path of Hankow Advance.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 3.—[Wednesday.]—(AP)—The Chinese army today cut dikes of the mighty Yangtze river to halt the steady advance of Japanese against Hankow, China's provisional capital.

Japanese said a large area of farm land was flooded when the Chinese broke the river's retaining walls 125 miles downstream from Hankow and ten miles above Kiukiang, important river port previously taken by the Japanese.

In severing the Yangtze dikes, the Chinese repeated their strategy of June when they halted the Japanse attack on Chengchow, railway junction 300 miles north of Hankow, by breaking the dikes of the famous Yellow river, "China's sorrow."

Japs Reach Hankow Highway.

Just before the Yangtze flood waters were released the Japanese had announced the capture of Hwangmei, a town twenty-five miles north of Kiukiang. Seizure of this town placed the Japanese advance guard astride "a very good highway on the north bank of the Yangtze to Hankow," the Japanese said.

Chinese denied Japanese reports of gains along the Yangtze, saying the invaders were "virtually stalled" by brisk Chinese opposition and the prospect of advancing through the flooded zone.

Behind the Yangtze river front, meanwhile, swift raids of Chinese guerrilla troops menaced effective Japanese control of conquered territory. The Japanese army, in what was widely termed a tacit recognition of the guerrilla menace, estimated 500 Chinese irregulars were killed in the last two days in an area between Shanghai and Hangchow bay to the south and extending 100 miles inland.

Americans Are Safe.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Nelson T. Johnson, American ambassador to China, relayed to the state department today a Japanese report that all Americans were safe in the Yangtze river city of Kiukiang, scene of heavy Chinese-Japanese fighting. Johnson reported his departure from Hankow to Chungking, new Chinese war capital, 550 miles up the Yangtze.

DOZER FALLS IN LAKE; DROWNS.

A Negro fisherman was drowned yesterday when he fell asleep and rolled off the rocks into the lake at the foot of 39th street. Other fishermen knew him only as "Moore."

MRS. JOHNSON'S RADIO SET GOES OUT, RIGHT IN MIDDLE OF PROGRAM

Mrs. R. M. Johnson was never one to believe in banshees, spirits, pixies, elves, or ghosts until last night. Mrs. Johnson was rocking in her chair and listening to a radio program in her home at 112 South East avenue, Oak Park.

Without warning the radio stopped. The lights went out. Mrs. Johnson screamed. There was a noise at the window. And then, apparently without human aid, her radio left the table and disappeared out the window, which opens on an alley.

Mrs. Johnson dashed to the window. She found the screen had been pulled away and the radio wires cut, short circuiting the lighting system. And getting down from the top of his automobile where he had stood was a man with her radio in his arms. In another moment he had fled.

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Charles Potter, a young seaman, was one of the most cheerful and talkative patients in the United States Marine hospital on Staten Island today. Interned with a broken arm, he was telling, with one handed flourishes, the story of his "rescue" at sea.

Potter, working aboard the Isthmian line steamer, Chicasaw City, broke his arm in a shipboard accident off the Georgia coast. The fracture was of a serious nature and the master of the Chicasaw City radioed for medical assistance.

The Santa Rosa, flagship of the Grace Line, responded. She steamed close to the Chicasaw City, a line was thrown, and the injured seaman was transferred to the New York bound vessel in a bosun' chair.

The aerial ride was without incident, Potter said today, but it was a thriller, nonetheless.

LOYALIST DRIVE PIERCES REBEL FLANK ON EBRO

Spanish Government Wins Strategic Village.

HENDAYE, France [at the Spanish Frontier], Aug. 2.—(AP)—The tide of battle for control of the Ebro river valley in eastern Spain swung to the government today when its troops captured Pobla de Mazaluca. This key village, on the left flank of Gen. Francisco Franco's rebel lines, fell into government control after a battle of several hours against stubborn insurgent resistance.

Though Pobla de Mazaluca is but a sun baked hamlet, it is located on strategic heights overlooking the Ebro valley north of Gandesa. Its capture meant the insurgent lines north of Gandesa had broken, opening the way toward a score of villages along the Matarrana river plateau.

Ruin Franco's Attack Plan.

Elsewhere on the Ebro front the loyalist offensive, begun July 25, met little success.

South of beleaguered Gandesa the main battle was for possession of a score of little hills rising along the valley of the Canaleta river.

There the insurgents, strengthened by troops from the drive toward Valencia, which is now stalled, hoped to smash through government lines along the Canaleta toward the junction with the Ebro. The government wrecked Franco's strategy by striking first, however. Before dawn a general government offensive was begun and the insurgents in the Canaleta area did not counter-attack until late in the day.

Meanwhile, on the south side of the rebels' corridor to the Mediterranean, government troops drove a new wedge into insurgent territory with an attack toward Albarracin, 20 miles west of Teruel.

The loyalist defense ministry in Barcelona, provisional government capital, announced its forces captured five important hill positions and the towns of Griegos, Guadalaviar, and Frias de Albarracin. These towns lie about 15 miles west of Albarracin, key to communication lines behind the insurgents' eastern front.

Sentence 23 to Death.

MADRID, Aug 2.—(AP)—Twenty men and three women were sentenced to death today on charges of treason in a mass trial of 195 persons. The death sentences must be approved by the government in council. Other defendants received terms varying from six to thirty years. Thirteen men and three women were discharged but remanded for trial on the lesser charge of disaffection toward the régime, and seventeen men and six women were acquitted.

WOMAN FALLS FROM 2D FLOOR.

Mrs. Ethel Wilkerson, 44 years old, 2254 Madison street, was seriously injured last night when she fell from a second floor porch of her home as the railing collapsed.

Racket Principals

Indicted Official Tells Council He Is Innocent

City Treasurer Ernest W. Mau of Berwyn, under indictment on a charge of embezzlement of city funds, last night protested his innocence in a letter to the city council. Mau said he had no intention of resigning and that he was confident the charge would be proved false. He is accused of diverting $3,726 from the special assessment fund.

YOUTHS OF ITALY LOYAL FASCISTS! RETORT TO POPE

Racial Doctrin Defended by Anti-Jewish Leader.

CREMONA, Italy, Aug. 2.—(AP)—The newspaper Il Regime Fascista today asserted Italian youth would choose Fascism if it had to decide between loyalty to the Fascist state and Catholic Action. The newspaper is published by Roberto Farinacci, former secretary of the Fascist party and an anti-Semitic leader in Italy.

Its statement evidently was inspired by Pope Pius' declaration last Thursday, during his discussion of Fascism racial doctrin, that: "Who injures Catholic Action injures the pope and who injures the pope dies." [The latter was interpreted to mean "dies spiritually."]

Il Régime Fascista in its statement on Catholic Action, a lay organization of the church, declared it "would be absurd to pretend that the pope should make common cause with Catholic Action."

Strikes New Note in Row.

It struck a new note in the church-state controversy precipitated by the pope's criticism of the Fascist racial doctrin formulated July 14 which declares Italians are an Aryan race and that Jews do not belong to it. Premier Mussolini last Saturday tartly retorted that a suggestion the doctrin was copied from Germany was "simply absurd."

Farinacci's newspaper, mouthpiece of an extremist wing of the Fascist party, three months ago raised the question of compatibility of simultaneous membership in Catholic Action and the Fascist party.

In a renewal of its campaign it said today: "It is said Catholic Action represents the church and that to harm it will be to go against the holy father.

Points to Concordat.

"Beyond the fact that Fascism knows no limit and barriers when it battles for the nation and Italian civilization, and that previously in 1921 it knew how to triumph over the coalition of popular [that is clerical] forces of communists, socialists, and democrats, we do not believe supreme forces can make common cause with Catholic Action which, according to the concordat, must not concern itself with political problems which interest the state.

[The Fascist party was organized in 1921 and its members entered parliament for the first time. The concordat which authorized Catholic Action to function "outside any political party" was among the Lateran treaties of Sept. 11, 1929, by which the church and the state settled a 58 year old controversy over papal sovereignty.]

Refers to Spanish War.

"Nor would he [the pope] himself be able to permit, without great embarrassment, that at Castel Gandolfo newlyweds should be presented to him of diverse races as will be the case if Catholic Italians should unite with Negroes, Asiatics, or Hebrews.

"But it would be absurd to pretend the pope should make common cause with Catholic Action, especially in France where youths of L'Aube, of La Croix, and other Catholic publications for a long time have been outraging the church, making alliances with its enemies, and contrary to every papal encyclical arrayed themselves in behalf of Spanish Reds [government forces], assassins of priests and destroyers of churches."

DODGE HEIR MARRIES TELEPHONE GIRL HE MET IN NORTH WOODS

Rochester, Mich., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Daniel G. Dodge, 21 years old, heir to a part of the Dodge motor millions, this afternoon married Miss Laurine MacDonald, Gore Bay, Ont., telephone operator with whom he fell in love while on a north woods vacation three years ago. The wedding was at Meadowbrook Hall, the estate of Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson, mother of the bridegroom. Among the guests were the bride's parents, John A. MacDonald, Manitoulin Island tugboat captain, and Mrs. MacDonald. Dodge is the beneficiary of a trust fund, amounting to $9,331,600 at the last accounting, left him by his father, the late John F. Dodge.

WIDEN HUNT FOR CLIPPER IN HOPE 15 MEN ARE ALIVE

MANILA, Aug. 3.—[Wednesday.]—(AP)—Still hopeful that fifteen men aboard the missing Hawaii Clipper might be alive and drifting with ocean currents, navy officers today ordered a widened search by planes and surface craft.

They directed the search be swung northward of the place where last Friday the clipper in a last routine radio report said she was flying 9,100 feet above the sea. This was about 500 miles from Manila on the Guam leg of the flight from Alameda, Cal.

Samples from an oil patch on the waves some 400 miles east of San Bernardino strait, were being brought to Manila for analysis. Officials hoped the analysis would show whether the samples contained aviation gasoline or aviation oil. If they did it would almost prove they came from the clipper, since no other plane was that far seaward when the big ship disappeared.

2 Rebel Cruisers Reported Raided by Bombing Planes

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

GIBRALTAR, Aug. 2.—It was reported here today that the Spanish rebel cruisers Almirante Cervera and Canarias were attacked by government bombers off Cartagena last Sunday. It is not known whether the ships were hit.

ZURICH, Switzerland, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Twelve persons were injured today when police clashed with members of the Fascist "national front" who defied an order forbidding them to demonstrate.

Police charged the crowd with nightsticks after the demonstrators refused to disperse. The frontists, many of them women, stood their ground fighting back at the police. Thirty were arrested. Police charged that Deputy Wilhelm Tobler, chief of the "national front," called upon his followers to march "against the present political system against all resistance."

The "national front" is the largest movement seeking to overthrow Switzerland's traditional democracy. It has its headquarters in Zurich and is powerful in eastern Switzerland where the German language is spoken.

INNER TUBE RAFT UPSETS IN LAKE; YOUTH IS SAVED

Unable to swim, James Lucky, 18 years old, 3321 Sheffield avenue, enjoyed himself in Lake Michigan yesterday by floating about on an inflated inner tube north of Belmont harbor.

In maneuvering his craft Lucky slipped out, floundered as he sank, and called for help. A companion, Sig Olson, 23, 3115 Sheffield avenue, heard him and leaped into the water.

Olson brought Lucky ashore and began administering artificial respiration to the unconscious youth. He continued this until the arrival of Capt. John Scanlon and a fire department rescue squad who succeeded in reviving Lucky.

French Military Plane Crashes; 2 Flyers Killed

ORLEANS, France, Aug. 2.—(AP)—A nightlong hunt by soldiers in the forest of Orleans brought the discovery today of an army pursuit plane which had crashed, killing two occupants. Authorities said both men, army captains, were killed instantly.

SUBWAYS' NEED SHOWN IN LOOP TRAFIC SURVEY

Tubes Designed to Move Greatest Numbers.

Where do the people in the loop come from and how do they get there?

The answers to these questions and many other facts concerning the riding habits of loop goers have been determined by city traction engineers. They are the findings on which part of the city plan for subway construction and transit modernization is based.

Philip Harrington and Charles E. DeLeuw, engineers for the city council's local transportation committee, yesterday analyzed the results of a detailed trafic study made by the city last year. Its purpose was to determine just where the loop goers came from and how they traveled.

The survey showed that between 7 a. m. and 7 p. m. on an average week day, approximately 842,000 persons rode into the district bounded by the Chicago river on the north and west, Roosevelt road on the south and the lake on the east. They came in street cars, automobiles, buses, and on the elevated and railroads.

Street Car Lines Lead.

The street cars bring more people to the district than any other single class of carrier, it was found. On the typical day, the car lines brought in 249,000 riders, or approximately 30 per cent of the total.

Street cars	249,000
Private cars and cabs	227,000
Elevated railway	203,000
Railroads	104,000
Buses	57,000
Total	842,000

Those riding in street cars, automobiles, buses and elevated trains numbered 736,000.

Approximately 40 per cent of these came in from the north side, 33 per cent from the west and 27 per cent from the south.

The street cars carried their biggest load from the west side. The elevated's heaviest trafic was from the north side. So was the bus company's; and the largest number of automobile riders came from the north.

Autos Used Most in North.

Automobiles brought in more from the north side than any other classification. The street car trafic from the west and south sides exceeded any other kind from those sections.

The trafic survey showed that more vehicles are coming into the central district than ever before, but not as many people as in the period from 1926 to 1929. All the gain in incoming vehicles in the last ten years was accounted for by automobiles.

De Leuw said that the smaller number of persons entering the district does not mean that loop business is on the downgrade over a long swing. He attributed the drop chiefly to two factors. First, general business conditions are not as good as they were nine or ten years ago. Second, the downtown business district is expanding north and west of the river.

Service for Greatest Numbers.

The proposed State street subway, De Leuw said, will serve the maximum possible number of local transportation riders. He pointed out that nearly two-thirds of the elevated's trafic is on the north and south side divisions. The State street subway is to be for north and south side elevated trains. West side elevated trains then will be able to move more quickly through the loop because the number of trains using the structure will be reduced.

The proposed subways in Jackson boulevard and Washington street are for east-west street car lines. The maximum number will be benefitted here, also, he said, as the greatest west side riding is on street cars. The removal of these car lines from the surface, in turn, will clear streets for the benefit of automobile riders.

3 Ticket Agents Identify Pair of Youthful Robbers

Three ticket agents of the Illinois Central railroad last night identified Thomas McGrath, 17 years old, and Howard Wong, 16, a Chinese, as the youthful bandits who had robbed them recently. They were arrested Monday. Both live at 6426 Stony Island avenue.

2 STATE HIGHWAY OFFICIALS ADMIT DESTROYING BIDS

Two state highway officials took responsibility yesterday for destroying paving estimates the federal grand jury had demanded in its investigation of Cook county paving projects. The officials are Thomas H. Harvey, junior highway engineer, and James Smith, office engineer of the highway division. They told their story to Warren Canaday, first assistant United States attorney, and then appeared before the grand jury.

The government is investigating because federal funds are to be used for the twenty-eight paving projects involved. After the first bids were rejected as too high, contractors cut their prices a total of $472,000. When the government sought to learn whether there had been collusion it was found that twenty-three of the twenty-eight original estimates had been destroyed. Highway division officials said they were no longer needed.

ENDS HIS LIFE AFTER HIS AUTO HURTS TWO GIRLS

Last Friday night on the Southwest highway, west of Oak Lawn, Karl M. Guenther, 50 years old, collided with another automobile, injuring two young sisters. He fled but another motorist caught him after a chase at high speed.

Guenther was to be arraigned today before a justice of the peace. Yesterday he shot and killed himself in his home at 8007 Kingston avenue.

In a note to his wife Guenther blamed the accident on his drinking, a weakness he said had brought misery to his family. Not wishing to cause his wife further heartaches, Guenther wrote that he acted as "judge, jury, and executioner." "The evidence is heard," he added, "there is no appeal." He was assistant freight agent for the Elgin, Joliet, and Eastern railroad.

JOKE WAS ON HIM, SISTERS SAY, BUT THEY ARE IN JAIL

Scaring a man into handing over his money and taking his pants off may be just a girlish prank to Connie and Gene Jordan, but it made Arthur Stayart pretty mad. Connie and Gene, who are 18 and 21 years old, respectively, and live at 4152 Kenmore avenue, went riding early yesterday with Stayart, who is 45 years old and a retired salesman.

There was a little drinking. Then Connie, who was seated in the back of Stayart's car, pretended she had a pistol and forced her host to hand over his money. When he asked what he should do next, she made him take off his trousers. This angered Stayart who grappled with the two girls until a Summerdale police squad came along.

"There's nothing for any one to get mad about. I saw a movie that had a fake holdup in it and I thought it would be fun," she explained.

Follow Road Rules for Autos, Cyclists Warned

Cyclists were warned yesterday by the Chicago Motor club that they must conform to nearly all trafic regulations that guard the safety of motorists. Provisions of a city ordinance passed recently follows:

Bicycles must follow the same rules as automobiles on one-way streets. They must be equipped with a white front light and a red reflector or light on the rear, and must have warning horns or bells. They must be operated as close as possible to the right hand curb and not more than two abreast.

2 PEDESTRIANS IN 60'S KILLED BY AUTO TRAFIC

Woman Is Struck Down in Front of Home.

Mrs. Lillian Levy, 65 years old, 1828 South Hamlin avenue, was killed yesterday when she was struck by an automobile in front of her home. The driver was Frank Slipiecka, 4700 Jackson boulevard.

Henry Gadke of 3326 Walnut street was fatally injured at Lake street and Kedzie avenue yesterday when struck by an automobile driven by Stephen Berry, 4949 Diversey avenue. Gadke, who was 60 years old, died in the Garfield Park hospital.

Fred Grumley, a real estate dealer, died in the Oak Park hospital yesterday of injuries suffered July 23, when he was struck by an automobile driven by Richard Kisselburg, 515 Propect avenue, Elgin. Grumley lived at 3103 5th avenue. He was 57 years old.

Student Priest Dies.

Frederick D. Breit Jr., 28 years old, died yesterday at Hillsboro, O., of injuries suffered in an automobile accident Sunday. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Breit, 1030 Ridge avenue, Evanston. Breit had been studying for the priesthood in St. Joseph's Dominican priory at Somerset, O.

Injured when he was struck by an automobile near his home at 3608 Archer avenue, Joseph Yaskovich, 56 years old, died yesterday in the County hospital.

Colman Stamm of 1521 Menard avenue was killed early yesterday near Edwardsville, Ill., when he was struck by a truck. Stamm and his wife and two children were returning from St. Louis when they halted their truck and trailer at the side of the road. Authorities said Stamm stepped in front of the trailer's rear light, obscuring it, and a moment later he was hit by a truck driven by Eugene Wernie of Highland, Ill.

Dairy Driver Fatally Hurt.

Emil Poppey, 35, driver for the Bowman Dairy company, was fatally injured yesterday when his truck crashed through a mail box at Halsted and 139th streets in Riverdale. He was taken to the Ingalls Memorial hospital, Harvey, where he died last night. Poppey lived at 10200 Lowe avenue. There were no witnesses to the accident.

William Ehnert, 13 years old, was critically injured yesterday at Forest avenue and Victory street, Waukegan. He was riding a bicycle when he made a U-turn into the path of an automobile driven by Miss Lorraine Barnstable, 26, of 309 South Victory street, Waukegan. The boy was taken to St. Therese hospital in Waukegan. His home is at 540 Archer avenue, Waukegan.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 481 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 370 were killed in Chicago, where 11,016 were injured in the same period.

FIND BOUND BODY OF MISSING GIRL; MAN IS HUNTED

Mystery in Disappearance and Slaying.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—The body of Betty Schnaidt, 17 years old, missing from here since Thursday, was found near St. Charles, 140 miles away, today. Search was under way for a youth known as Earl Young, 28 years old, alias Andrew Riska for questioning in connection with the case. It has not yet been determined whether the girl was raped. Several of the girl's organs were sent to the university at Vermillion for analysis to determine the cause of death.

Authorities announced late tonight that Young broke jail at Lebanon, Pa., May 18 and is wanted there for assault to kill, burglary, larceny, and other charges. He also is wanted in Hutchinson, Kas., and Louisville, Ky., assault cases. A picture of Young was identified by four persons, who drove the suspect from near the lake where the girl's body was found to St. Charles.

Disappearance Mysterious.

The girl's body was found in a clump of clover near Lake Berry, a short distance west of St. Charles. Its arms and feet were bound with heavy cord. A towel was knotted around the throat and the girl had been gagged with a man's handkerchief.

The girl disappeared under mysterious circumstances last Thursday night. She had been engaged to stay with a boy, 5 years old, by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Nelson at their home here. Late that evening she talked with her parents by telephone from the Nelson home.

When the Nelsons returned home at midnight the girl was gone. The Nelson boy was asleep in his bed and the house was locked. There was no evidence of a struggle, nor had the neighbors heard any disturbance.

Remember Suspicious Youth.

When the body was found by a farmer near St. Charles, authorities remembered a youth, later identified as Young, who had aroused suspicion in towns in that vicinity over the week-end. He had been questioned but not held by police in Gregory, 20 miles west of St. Charles, Saturday, when he stopped to have a car repaired. He was last seen at Bonesteel near St. Charles. The car later was found abandoned.

The girl's father, W. F. Schnaidt, said he was certain that his daughter had been kidnaped. Betty has three sisters living at home here.

Figures in Trial

(Story in adjoining column.)

Barbara Carroll, daughter of former Deputy Sherif Francis Carroll. The father is on trial at South Paris, Me., for slaying of Dr. James G. Littlefield.

MYSTERY THIEF STRIKES 3D TIME ON GOLD COAST

For the third time in five weeks the mysterious burglar of the Gold Coast struck again yesterday. Each time he has baffled police by leaving no hint of how he gained entrance to an apartment.

His latest victim was George Artamonoff, 1315 Astor street, head of the export division of Sears, Roebuck & Co. During the afternoon or evening the thief broke in, ransacked the apartment, and stole a collection of old jewelry and jade which had been garnered from Switzerland, Mexico, and China. It was valued at $3,000.

On July 28 the burglar stole possessions worth $1,100 from the home of Stuyvesant Peabody Jr. at 63 East Division street. Exactly a month earlier he obtained $100 in cash and $635 in gems from the home of John B. Erskine at 17 East Division street.

YOUTH SWOONS AT NEW TRIAL IN DOCTOR SLAYING

Unable to Go on Stand Against Deputy.

South Paris, Me., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Paul Dwyer, 18 years old, who is serving a life sentence for the slaying of Dr. James G. Littlefield, collapsed in court today as he was about to testify against the man whom the state now accuses of killing the elderly physician. A doctor said Dwyer would be able to testify tomorrow.

The present defendant is Francis M. Carroll, church deacon, former deputy sherif, and father of Dwyer's one time sweetheart, Barbara Carroll. Dwyer, 18 years old, had confessed killing Dr. Littlefield and his wife and driving with their bodies in the physician's car for three days through six states. Later he repudiated the confession and named Carroll as the slayer.

Previously Special Prosecutor Norman Ingalls pictured Carroll as a bully who had frightened Dwyer into confessing the crimes and fleeing with the bodies of the couple. Carroll, the prosecutor said, killed Dr. Littlefield to prevent the physician from making public the sordid story of his treatment of his daughter, Barbara.

The prosecutor said Carroll demanded from Dwyer letters in which the girl had told of her hatred for her father.

Carroll, Ingalls said, finally agreed to meet the youth at the home of Dr. Littlefield, The prosecutor quoted the physician as threatening to send Carrol to the state prison.

Prosecutor Describes Slaying.

Dwyer, the prosecutor said, will testify how Carroll flew into a rage, beating the doctor with a wrench and a revolver, and finally strangling him with a strap. Carroll then demanded his daughter's letters from the youth.

Dwyer, the prosecutor said, complied, but managed to withhold several letters from the father. These letters, Ingalls said, will be shown to the jury. It was Carroll, the prosecutor said, who placed the body of Dr. Littlefield in the physician's own car and forced Dwyer to drive off.

TEACHER'S SHOTS EMPHASIZE 'NO' TO FORMER BEAU

When Miss Esther Stover, 23 years old, a school teacher, says "no" she does not, as the old song goes, mean maybe. Seven months ago Miss Stover said "no" to her former sweetheart when another young man won her affections.

But the former suitor, Miss Stover yesterday explained to the Lake county sherif, was a bit stubborn. That's why Miss Stover let go with her revolver early yesterday in her lonely home at Skokie road and Washington street, west of Waukegan.

The ex-boy friend, she said, continued to come around the house despite her refusal. At 1 a. m. yesterday, after he smashed three basement windows and threatened to break in the door, Miss Stover said she fired two shots to scare him. It did. He left.

POSTMASTER'S WIFE ENDS LIFE.

Mrs. Isabella Z. Daly, wife of Postmaster Joseph P. Daly of Waukegan, was found dead in the gas filled kitchen of their home at 309 Franklin street there yesterday. The jets of the gas range were open. She was 41 years old.

Two Boys in Stolen Car Confess Trafic Holdups

Fillmore street police last night arrested two boys, 17 years old, who admitted committing several robberies of motorists who stopped for trafic lights on the west side in the last two months. The boys are Charles Gintz, 4727 Adams street, and Edward Trein, 4429 Gladys avenue. They were driving a stolen car and had a revolver in their possession.

Gets 3 Years for Taking Social Security Funds

Walter W. Goralski, former deputy collector of internal revenue, was sentenced to three years in federal prison yesterday for embezzling approximately $2,000 in social security funds he had collected. Judge J. Leroy Adair of Springfield, presiding in federal court here, denied him probation. Goralski, who is 50 years old, lives at 4650 Wrightwood avenue.

AFTER A FASHION

No. 1

By CALEB

"I'M UP HERE near the North Pole and sadly in want of silk stockings (which I need for my personal morale). Please send me a dozen and a half pairs like the ones I bought in your store some time ago."

The envelope, addressed to our personal shopping bureau, bore an Alaskan postmark—and the letter itself carried the unmistakable, centuries-old stamp of femininity—a woman careful and concerned about the details for a costume even in the snow-swept wilderness of an Arctic countryside.

The letter continued in some detail to describe the shades and texture wanted, and the package was dispatched the same day, beginning the trip by plane, ending probably by dog sled. "Send silk stockings which I need for my personal morale," the letter said, and in its few lines told tersely and fully the old, old story of fashion and style.

From time immemorial, costume has meant more to womankind than simple, exterior adornment. Clothes to a woman have always been an outer expression of her inner self. What matter if fur-lined moccasins and heavy parka must be worn whenever one leaves her house "up near the North Pole"? Silk hose are as essential there to the woman used to them as they are in a Chicago drawing room. Perhaps no one besides herself will see them. No matter—she has her "personal morale."

Costume thus becomes for women a problem both fundamental and urgent. It has been so at least for as long as history has been written and probably much longer. A new dress or ornament imparts to its wearer a deep, inner satisfaction essential to her fullest happiness—not to be realized from any other source.

Fashions were not invented by modern couturiers or department stores. They outdate both by at least a thousand years. Through the centuries, change and alteration—sometimes rapid, sometimes slow—have always been a part of them. Invariably a marked reflection of each historic period is discernible in feminine fashions. The character, the architecture, the mode of life, the foibles, and the very destiny of nations have all been mirrored in the clothes of their women.

BRIGHT LIGHTS THAT SPELLED KVALE GO DIM

Jaz Age Idol Returns Ill and Broke.

BY DORIS LOCKERMAN.

Twelve years ago it was called jaz. Names such as Paul Ash, Jo Oliver, Isham Jones, Coon-Sanders beckoned in electric lights and ruled the dance halls and cafés.

At the McVickers theater, a melting saxophone packed the ailes. The player was Al Kvale, a tall, smiling young man with dimples and weary eyes. His song was "Looking at the World Through Rose-Colored Glasses."

Kvale was 28 years old. His father was the Rev. O. J. Kvale, United States congressman who campaigned as the "dryest of the drys." Young Kvale was a graduate of Beloit college, a scholarly boy who had studied law at the University of Chicago.

Elopes With Follies Beauty.

Six years before he had eloped to Crown Point with Billee Stanfield, golden haired Ziegfeld Follies beauty. Within a year she sued him for divorce, charging him with constant intoxication and cruelty. He settled for $1,000, shrugged his shoulers, and went on playing his saxophone.

His popularity grew. Fans besieged him backstage, crowded around his taxi, tried to crash his hotel suite.

In 1929 he married again. This time his wedding was a social event in Zanesville, O. His brothers, Paul, a Minnesota congressman, and Walter, a doctor, witnessed his marriage to Esther Mae Ransbottom. Kvale announced he and his bride would live quietly in Chicago, and he would continue his work as bandmaster.

Drops out of Sight.

Two years ago, Mrs. Kvale was granted an uncontested divorce. She charged desertion. Al, she said, was conducting an orchestra in California. None of his friends knew where, nor did they learn. Swing supplanted jaz. Kvale's membership in the Musicians' union lapsed.

Yesterday, Kvale was admitted, a charity patient, at county hospital. He was thin and wracked with convulsions. Dr. Walter Kvale hurried to Chicago from Mayo clinic, and last night transferred his brother to St. Luke's hospital. No diagnosis has been made of his illness.

4 BURGLARS, AGED 17 TO 20, HELD IN BONDS OF $160,000

Bonds of $160,000 were set for four youths held to the grand jury yesterday. Police said the gang committed several robberies and forty burglaries. Most of the burglaries were in the Beverly Hills section.

Those held, and their individual bonds, are: Michael Burke, 17 years old, 8423 Kerfoot avenue, $50,000; Robert Toosley, 20, of 2744 West 98th street, $10,000; Robert Graettinger, 18, of 9772 Vanderpoel avenue, $30,000, and Jay Munson, 18, of 7624 South Union avenue, $70,000.

Burke and Munson were arrested in a stolen car by Homewood county highway police. They implicated the others. All were arraigned before Judge Charles S. Dougherty in the automobile court.

BIRKENHEAD, England, Aug. 2.—Work on the interior of the new Mauretania has been started after the 33,000 ton ship was launched last week. The new liner, which will replace the first Mauretania, former holder of the Atlantic speed record, will be put into trans-Atlantic service next year. She is the largest liner ever built in England, and will be the largest ship using the London docks. The ship will operate in the Cunard-White Star line service on the London New York run.

opposing resumption of the inquest. The executors' counsel today obtained permission to question Dr. Lawson and Dr. Herbert A. Bruce, former lieutenant governor of Ontario, on the issue of whether Dr. Lawson attended Mrs. Sidley during her last illness. Dr. Bruce had supported the coroner's statement that he did not.

Attorneys for the crown, who are interested in all the circumstances of Mrs. Sidley's death and in her financial affairs are opposing the injunction that seeks to prevent the inquest. They fought the executors' move to question Drs. Lawson and Bruce until they learned that it probably will speed the case. The two will be quizzed tomorrow.

RAPIST IS FREED AFTER MIND TEST UNDER NEW LAW

The new state law designed to prevent insane sex criminals from being turned loose upon society at the end of their prison terms was invoked yesterday against a Chicago rapist. He convinced Will county authorities that he is sane and was granted his freedom from Stateville penitentiary.

The rapist is Frank Pianetto, alias Milke Campagna, 27 years old. He was sentenced to five years in prison in October, 1934, on the charge that he and two other men raped the young mother of two children. Good behavior shortened the sentence.

The sanity test was given by prison physicians. On their testimony, Pianetto was found sane in the Will county court before Judge George N. Blatt.

The proceedings were required under a law passed at the special session of the legislature in June. The bill makes it mandatory for the state department of public welfare to demand a sanity hearing for sex criminals whose prison terms have expired. If the criminal is found insane or feeble minded, he is to be committed to a state institution.

Plane Designer Plans Own Plane; It Crashes; He Dies

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Capt. F. Howter Barnwell, 58 years old, chief designer for the Bristol Aeroplane company and a pioneer in British aviation, was killed tonight when a plane designed by himself for his own use crashed at the Bristol airport. Barnwell was considered one of the world's leading plane designers.

NEW KANGAROOS GIVE CITY JUMP ON AUSTRALIA

Chicago Now Has More of Them than Sydney.

BY MARCIA WINN.

With a hop, skip and many jumps, 24 kangaroos leaped in unison yesterday for the first time in four months.

The kangaroos, six of whom jumped with full pouches, are part of a large shipment of Australian mammals and birds received at the Chicago Zoölogical park in Brookfield. Together with the 19 old residents, kangaroos from southeastern and central Australia, the newcomers, captured in western Australia, make the Brookfield collection the largest in the world, unexcelled even by Sydney.

Outjump Jumping Beans.

What this means, to the zoo-goer, is that here he may see more good, clean jumps per minute than in a can of Mexican jumping beans. The new kangaroos, according to Robert Bean, assistant director, who brought them here from New York, are almost too full of zest.

"One jump," he said, "and they were out of their traveling cages and in the Australian yard of the zoo. The four big red ones started in with 25 foot jumps, and the others trailed them around and around.

"They're a herd animal," he explained, "and play follow the leader. When one starts, they all start. If you get one wild, silly one, they all will jump—and that's what they're doing today."

Baby Catches the Fever.

Even one of the baby kangaroos caught the fever. A wild malicious glint in its eyes, it jumped furiously in and out of the maternal pouch. The other five contented themselves with inquisitive outward pokes of their heads.

"They're almost too enthusiastic," Mr. Bean sighed happily, "but after all this is their first liberty since April 1, when they were shipped. They have to try their legs."

The kangaroos, a total of 11 species, were only part of the shipment, which bristled with rarities. In it, also, were a male giant eland, mate for the two lonely females received in 1937; a pair of Nyalla antelopes and a Nile bushbuck.

Rare Storks and Geese in Lot.

Before noon, a pair of jabiru storks, too, were at liberty, five feet tall with bare black neck and great reddisn pouch shining against their white feathers. And a pair of rose breasted geese from Siberia, as beautiful as their movements are slow. And a pair of Russian Turkestan giant porcupines, three feet long with 18 inch quills. And, last, a scarlet robin, a sandtailed finch, a pair of Barrakand parakeets and one of chestnut-breasted teal.

The cost? Four rare Western tiger cubs born two years ago at Brookfield.

If you think this unimportant, consider the fact that two new tiger litters were born at Brookfield recently and that another is on its way and that with these, the zoo undoubtedly can buy a dinosaur.

U. S. CLASH NEAR, KRASCHEL FAILS TO STOP STRIKE

Peace Breakdown Leaves Him in Dilemma.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 3—[Wednesday.]—[Special.]—Secret conferences held in a hotel room here by Gov. Nels Kraschel were ended at 12:30 o'clock this morning with a solution of the tense C.I.O. strike at the Maytag Washing Machine company in Newton apparently as far away as ever.

Madison Hill.

As the meeting broke up after nine hours of almost uninterrupted conferences, Gov. Kraschel cautioned all persons who participated to say nothing to newspaper men. The governor said the conferences would be resumed today.

From good authority it was learned that the Maytag company had submitted a proposal to the union which would allow a return to work by the 1,400 men who have been kept idle nearly three months but that the C.I.O. representatives had balked at accepting its terms.

Seeking Way Out.

The conferences were said to have been instituted by Gov. Kraschel in an effort to avoid a showdown between his state authority and that of the federal government. The governor sent the Iowa National Guard to nearby Newton to keep the Maytag plant closed and had previously indicated he had no fear of the impending clash with the national labor relations board.

However, he went into swift action yesterday following word from Washington that the NLRB hearing which his troops halted in Newton had been ordered resumed here tomorrow morning in the Des Moines federal courthouse.

Confer with Attorneys.

With the governor at the conferences today were Lieut. Gov. John Valentine, Attorney General John H. Mitchell, and Maj. Gen. Mathew A. Tinley, commander of the National Guard troops which now control the city of Newton and Jasper county.

The state officials conferred from time to time with Edward W. Ford of Chicago, attorney for the Maytag company, and with John Connolly Jr. of Des Moines, attorney for the C. I. O. union. Also called in by the governor was Frank Wilson of Albia, Ia., president of the United Mine Workers of America and a member of Gov. Kraschel's arbitration board in the Maytag dispute.

Labor Board Decision.

Gov. Kraschel refused to comment on the decision of NLRB to reconvene its hearings in the case tomorrow at the federal court building here.

In announcing that the hearing would be transferred to Des Moines the labor board in Washington said that while it recognized that a governor had broad discretion to declare martial law it could not acquiesce in the use of martial law to suspend those civil rights which are guaranteed to employés by the national labor relations act.

"Any other course would be a subordination of the national to the state authorities in matters affecting national sovereignty and of the civil to the military authorities in times of peace," the board's statement said. "Both are abhorrent to American institutions. Both have been held improper and illegal by our highest courts."

Willing to Avoid Conflict.

The board said it did not concede the validity of the order which closed the hearings in Jasper county.

"Nevertheless, in the interests of speedy performance of its duties and the avoidance of all unnecessary conflict with military authority," the board continued, "it is prepared to accommodate itself to the situation in so far as it is convenient to do so without serious interference with the performance of the duties imposed upon it by congress under the national labor relations act."

Disbarment Is Recommended

Basis of Action

Disbarment of three veteran Chicago lawyers was recommended to the Illinois Supreme court yesterday. The action grew out of disclosures in federal court that they split their fees with William H. Malone, former chairman of the state tax commission. The attorneys are:

John W. Ellis, 67 years old, who was a master in chancery for the Circuit and Superior courts for twenty-six years, and formerly represented the Pullman company in tax matters.

Thomas D. Huff, 66 years old, who prior to 1930 was counsel for the Chicago Surface Lines in tax matters.

Frank L. Tuttle, 53 years old, formerly a tax attorney for the Pullman company and the North Shore Gas company.

Their disbarment was recommended by the grievance committee of the Chicago Bar association, acting as commissioners for the high court. Basis of the action was the testimony of the three lawyers before a federal grand jury and later in federal court trial of Malone for income tax evasion. On June 1 Malone began serving his two year sentence on the charge.

Bottles Win Cut After 26 Years.

A bushel basket full of medicine bottles yesterday helped Thomas D. Harmon, retired postal clerk, win a reduction from $25 to $15 in his monthly remittance to a wife he divorced 26 years ago. He holds the Cook county record for long term alimony and support payments.

After he paid out more than $4,000 for a marriage that lasted sixteen months, Harmon years ago filed a petition to dispense with the payments. That attempt and four subsequent attempts failed.

Yesterday, with his total payments topping $8,000, Harmon was in court with his sixth attorney, Sol R. Friedman. Harmon feebly mounted the witness stand before Master in Chancer Isadore Brown.

Medical Expenses High.

Attorney Friedman brought up the bushel basket full of medicine bottles. Harmon, 66 years old, had emptied most of the bottles in efforts to ease his diabetes and pernicious anemia. Medical expenses take $25 a month. When he has also paid $25 to his former wife, it leaves him $50 in pension money for his living expenses, he testified.

Mrs. Bridget Harmon was called to the stand. From her it was learned that she has $1,200 in a south side bank and also is the owner of property returning her $20 rent each month.

Master in Chancery Brown ruled that Harmon could pay $10 less each month if he pays $125 in arrears. His order was signed by Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski, making it effective at once.

Plans to Take Appeal.

"I'll agree, if I have to pay the $125 myself," Attorney Friedman said. "He hasn't the money. But I'm going to take an appeal to the Appellate court to wipe out the injustice of Harmon's paying anything at all."

Mrs. Harmon is 58 and lives at 7627 Aberdeen street with her married daughter, Mrs. Josephine Scahill. In 1927, when the girl was 18 years old, Harmon tried to have the support payments stopped. A court said he would have to continue the payments, but in the name of alimony instead.

Grocery Manager Beats Young Bandit on the Draw

When he attempted to hold up the manager of a grocery store at 332 East 58th street yesterday afternoon, James Raul, colored, 19 years old, was shot three times. At the robber's command to raise his hands, the manager, David Frankie, 6612 Normal avenue, seized a pistol which he keeps under the counter and opened fire. Raul fell without using his pistol. He was taken to the Bridewell hospital, seriously wounded.

CALL GRAND JURY TO END LOMBARD LABOR TERRORISM

Union Official Arrested at Court as Slugger.

The Du Page county grand jury today will open an investigation of the labor terrorism in Lombard. One of the first witnesses called will be Warren B. Bolton, a Lombard trucking contractor, who was brutally beaten July 27.

A third man was arrested yesterday in connection with the slugging. He is Thomas Humphries of Downers Grove, business agent for the Du Page Building Trades council. He was pointed out by Bolton outside the courtroom of Judge William J. Fulton in the Wheaton courthouse.

Charge Assault with Weapon.

Humphries was taken before Justice of the Peace William H. Johnson on a warant charging assault with a deadly weapon. Bond was set at $1,500.

The two other men arrested on warants obtained by Bolton are Roy Leverenz, a business agent of the trades council, and William Oetke, a carpenter, said to be a member of the carpenter's union. They are both at liberty on bonds. A fourth man, named Shannon, is being sought.

The grand jury was called into session for today by State's Attorney Russell W. Keeney of Du Page county. Subpenas to testify were served yesterday on Bolton and William Wallace, a contractor. The labor violence has prevented Wallace from constructing two homes in Lombard.

Sherif Promises Guards.

At a meeting of the village board attended by Wallace and Bolton last night, Sherif Arthur Bennett promised to hire extra deputies and provide a 24 hour guard at the project. The sherif said that his men would also protect all trucks delivering material. Wallace said he planned to resume work tomorrow morning.

Wallace is a member of the Landis Award Employers' association. He charges that several of his employés and subcontractors have been slugged.

Humphries was seized in the courthouse yesterday while Judge Fulton was continuing to Aug. 18 a petition for an injunction filed by Wallace. Wallace seeks to restrain interference and violence by the trades council pickets. The union has denied his charges and has filed a counter plea for an injunction to restrain Wallace from interfering with the pickets.

Technicality Delays Hearing.

The continuance was caused by a technicality. In the injunction suit filed July 7 Wallace recited that he was building two homes on a contract for James Fallis, 2214 Estes street. Since then Fallis has withdrawn from the contract and the work is now being done for Fred and William Zerhoot, also Chicago contractors.

Judge Fulton said that Wallace's injunction bill would have to be amended to contain the names of the Zerhoots.

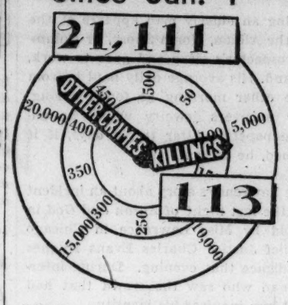
Unions Allege Conspiracy.

A. C. Lewis, union counsel, declared out of court that Wallace and his associates were engaging in a conspiracy against Du Page unions. Lewis asserted that Wallace, in obtaining the original contract from Fallis, had stated he would employ union labor, not members of the Landis Award association.

"My judgement is," Lewis wrote in a letter to THE TRIBUNE, "that no union man had anything to do with the assault on Bolton. When the trial comes up, I think the evidence will show that conclusively. . . . The labor unions in Du Page county are honest. There is no graft and racketeering in them. The men are decent good citizens. The officers are high minded gentlemen."

THE CRIME CLOCK

Chicago's Record Since Jan. 1



"Half of all the crimes in Cook county are committed by repeaters."—The Chicago Crime commission.

STATE RESTS IN BRICK SLAYING TRIAL OF RAPIST

The state rested its case yesterday against Robert Nixon, 18 years old, young colored rapist, who is on trial for the murder May 26 of Mrs. Florence Johnson. She was beaten to death with a brick while Nixon and a Negro companion, Earl Hicks, 19 years old, were robbing her home at 4631 Lake Park avenue.

The last witnesses of the day were State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, who testified Nixon told him the police had not abused him in eliciting his confession; Edward E. Wilson, colored assistant state's attorney, who corroborated Courtney's statement, and Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan, who told of the Negro's arrest, his confession, and the corroborative evidence found as a result of the confession.

The state abandoned its plan to put Hicks on the stand against Nixon, feeling his testimony would be unnecessary. The defense will open this morning and is expected to conclude its case today.

LOYAL WORKERS PICKET PICKETS AT DRUG STORES

Pickets who have been parading in front of five Hartman drug stores for the last two or three days found they had company yesterday at two of them. Picketeers at the stores at 68 East Van Buren and at 2059 Madison street were followed yesterday by employés. The pickets' signs said the stores were unfair to the Soda Fountain and Luncheonette Employés' union, A. F. of L. The employés' signs said there was no strike and no quarrel between company and workers. The pickets aren't speaking.

THE NEW DEAL GOVERNORS AND THEIR BAYONETS.

New Deal Gov. Earle of Pennsylvania has used his controled legislature in an attempt to prevent a grand jury from functioning under the constitution of the state. The evidence which the public prosecutor would have presented to the jury, and may, in spite of the legislative acts, has to do with the governor himself. Mr. Earle took what he thought was the quickest road to immunity, an amendment to the law. He hoped it would stop the prosecutor and the jury. He wishes to be investigated by his own general assembly. Judge Paul N. Schaeffer says the legislature can do all the investigating it wants to but cannot stop the grand jury. He has ordered the impounding of the prosecutor's evidence to prevent its misuse by the governor. Mr. Earle's next move is to call out the troops.

New Deal Gov. Browning of Tennessee says the federal courts cannot stop him from sending the National Guard to the primary polling places. Federal Judge Martin has directed the United States marshal to mobilize a force to resist an invasion by state troops. The judge issued an injunction to keep Gov. Browning's armed forces out of Memphis, where New Dealer Crump, the boss, takes votes out of barrels as a wizard does rabbits out of a hat. They are all New Dealers in Tennessee, but it is the bitter war of brother against brother. Tennessee is going out again.

The republic seems to be falling apart. Civil war has started on a dozen fronts. New Deal governors are in rebellion against their own state courts, against the federal courts, and against the New Deal administrative departments. New Deal Gov. Kraschel has led Iowa into secession. He has put the state under martial law and closed down the National Labor board hearing at Newton. He has nullified the federal labor act. The board attorneys in Washington say he hasn't a leg to stand on. "I've one good leg," said the governor. "It's the National Guard." There's a bit of Calhoun in Kraschel. Mr. Roosevelt admires Andrew Jackson. The two appear to be meeting again. Iowa is going out of the Union under a New Deal governor.

Rhode Island, under New Deal Gov. Quinn, went out some time ago when it submitted to the reichsfuehrer motion that the state troops used as storm troopers were superior to the state courts. The Supreme court was thrown out and pensioned to clear the way for dictatorial government. New Deal Gov. Murphy of Michigan, as commander in chief of the state's regiments, stopped court processes and subdued the local law enforcement officers. New Deal Gov. Davey tried to do the same thing in Ohio. Minnesota has been recognized as an independent, unconstitutional satrapy under New Deal Govs. Olson and Benson.

Nothing like this has happened in the republic since '60 and '61. The New Deal governors are so many Mexican provincial leaders and generals taking the field as revolutionaries with their armed followers. They have heard much from Washington about the superiority of personal government, the divine right of executive will and the inferiority of judicial decision to autocratic determination. They are filled with the spirit and resolve of the revolution. The day is won by the man who gets there fustest with the mostest men.

The United States is being ruled by New Dealers with bayonets. They have rebelled against the laws, the courts, and the constitution. They've even rebelled against their own laws. They are the natural progeny of the New Deal.

The next thing will be the actions of the National Guard. It was not recruited to overthrow the constitution but to defend it, not to oppress the people but to protect them. The New Deal is heading into revolution or anarchy.

EDEN OVER THE RIVER.

The Hudson has become the Jordan river of the new era and we're all waiting to see which side of it is the one to be on at the dawn of the better day. On the east bank is Mr. Roosevelt at Crum's Elbow, on the west bank, at Krum's Elbow, is Father Divine and numerous angels, working and singing: "Peace! It's wonderful!"

Roll, Jordan, Roll! More Strength to Your Elbow!

The dispute over the name of the point has extended a number of years between Howland Spencer, the owner of the west side, and Mr. Roosevelt, the occupant of the east side. Mr. Spencer said his right to the title Krum's Elbow extended back to Hendrik Hudson and always had been recognized. Mr. Roosevelt's Elbow was formerly known as Crook's Point. He envied Mr. Spencer his Krum and not so long ago the federal commerce department's geodetic survey put up brass discs on the west side officially designating it as Spencer and transferring Krum, now spelled Crum for some reason or other, to Mr. Roosevelt's east bank.

Mr. Spencer, who was a friend of the Roosevelts in boyhood, thereupon relinquished his claim and the other day gave his share of the 500 acre estate on the west shore to Father Divine of Harlem, who has been seeking locations for his economic Eden in the country. The Father and his angels have moved in and started joyously to work. Mr. Spencer has retained a small holding in common socage. Although not an angel otherwise than as a donor, he says his confidence in Father Divine's Utopia as a better planned society than that of Mr. Roosevelt's is such that he wishes to have a part in it. Among the angels already on the west bank are Miss Peace Harmony, Miss Ruth Victory, Miss Faithful Love, Miss Redeemed Love, and Miss John Jacob. Love, it's wonderful.

Mr. Spencer says that it is going to be a wonderful experiment, that Father Divine is a great man, and that his philosophy is terrific, so much more profound than Mr. Roosevelt's that it is amazing. His angels eat well, they sing, and they work. On the other bank they don't plant cotton, they don't plant 'taters, and them as does will be soon forgotten. They'll be crossing the river and we're waiting to see which side they choose for the more abundant life.

THE BOGY OF SCARLETT O'HARA.

Norma Shearer, chosen to play Scarlett O'Hara in the long delayed production of "Gone with the Wind," with Clark Gable as Rhett Butler, has withdrawn from the cast, according to Hollywood report, because her fan mail is heavily against her taking the part. The producer, David Selznick, almost outdid all the publicity value of delay and indecision by holding off production of Margaret Mitchell's novel on account of alleged indecision in making up his cast. The millions of readers who were eager to see a play made of their favorite piece of fiction were properly tantalized for a while, but they were approaching the point of forgetfulness and of diminishing returns when Gable and Miss Shearer were selected.

Movie stars must have been in a great dilemma, willing to play in what might be a sure fire success but reluctant to step into the shoes of two such un-fairybook characters as Scarlett and Rhett. Scarlett was far from being a hopeless and unregenerate hellion. The script writer would have had no difficulty in making her loyalties transcend her devilties, but if Rhett ever came out with any logical qualities with which the great sentimental American public could find itself sympatico, he wouldn't be the gentleman the author invested with so many attributes of a big town vice racketeer.

Actors, who live on fan admiration and from it derive their box office attraction, feared they would never purify themselves for subsequent theater work if they made a good embodiment of the worst that was in the principal people of "Gone with the Wind." It's probably highly creditable to the American public that it wants its favorites pure, or at least more sinned against than sinning. Miss Shearer apparently has decided, unless we are all being taken in by the ingenious press agent, that Scarlett would stick to her for the rest of her professional career and damage it.

"Gone with the Wind" has pushover elements of success based on the dictum that the conquered always console themselves with legends of their heroism and the conquerors never trouble to contradict them. That always makes a good war. If Mr. Selznick waits long enough he may be able to cast Shirley Temple as Scarlett.

THE ACCIDENT REPEATER.

A drivers' license law was enacted at the recent special session of the Illinois legislature on the theory that the elimination of incompetent and reckless drivers would reduce the annual automobile massacre.

On somewhat the same common sense theory Otto Jelinek, trafic engineer for the park board, has directed a survey of the 40,000 trafic accidents which occurred in the parks in 1935, 1936, and 1937. He was trying to find out what kind of a driver it is who gets into trouble. He was interested particularly in the repeaters—i. e., those who had had more than one accident in the period under study. There were about 900 of these individuals among the 40,000 and they were responsible for considerably more than their share of the damage.

He found that the driver who has had an accident tends to repeat. The more accidents he has had the greater the probability that he will have another. Thus, of every ten drivers who have had two accidents, one driver had a third one. But of every ten drivers who have had three accidents, two have a fourth. And of every ten drivers who have had four accidents, three have a fifth. And so on.

These facts should have their meaning for the individual driver and for the community. Any driver who has had even one accident will do well to assume that there is something wrong either with his habits at the wheel or with his nervous, mental, or muscular organization. When he has had more than one accident within a period of five years he will, if he is intelligent, proceed on the theory that something is wrong with him and will conduct himself accordingly. If he continues to drive he should limit his speed to 35 miles an hour on the open road and correspondingly less in trafic.

The present law provides for cancellation of the license to drive upon conviction in court of serious violations of trafic regulations. If further studies bear out the preliminary conclusions reached by Mr. Jelinek, it would be advisable to impound the licenses of accident repeaters also, whether or not they have been convicted of trafic offenses.

Editorial of the Day

DAVEYESQUE.

[Cleveland Plain Dealer.]

Characteristic is the Davey performance in the James D. Bowman case in the liquor department. Bowman, an inspector, appears to have lost his job because he dared to try to organize civil service employés to resist the governor's illegal 5 per cent assessment for campaign purposes. It doesn't matter to Davey that Bowman is protected in his civil service status and, under the law, cannot be removed without a hearing.

Bowman, a Lyndhurst man, is charged with faking an $11.80 expense account. One might believe this to be the real reason for his dismissal, were it not for the fact that when Joseph Malden Jr. was shown by the senate investigators to have submitted an expense account supposedly representing money spent on state duty at a time when in reality he was operating a campaign headquarters for Davey, Malden was not penalized for the offense.

In fact, Malden was kept on the pay roll. As late as Monday he was campaigning for Davey in Canton, though nominally engaged in liquor law enforcement.

We do not pretend to say whether under the law Bowman forfeited his position. It does, however, strike one as a bit odd that his decapitation should follow so shortly on his effort to organize resistance to an illegal action. Particularly is this odd when the case of Malden is recalled. It smells Daveyesque.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U. S. Pat. Office.

Every morning an elderly man appears at the beach—either the Albion, North Shore, or Columbia—with a prospector's sieve and goes to work, panning the sand. His average daily haul is from $2 to $4. The other morning he found a ring. He frequently uncovers jewelry which he advertises in the papers. After thirty days, if it is still unclaimed, he sells it.

It's Gertrude Lawrence's story about an incident that occurred the last night of Susan and God in New York, told by Miss Lawrence in Chicago yesterday. Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes was in the audience that evening. During intermission a woman who saw the crowd that had gathered about him inquired his identity.

"Chief Justice Hughes," she was told.

"What's he doing?" she asked.

"Well, the crowd has recognized him and he is signing autographs," the other patiently explained.

"My goodness, you'd think he was Robert Taylor," said the first woman disgustedly.

AMERICAN DUSK.

Out of the prairies the west wind sweeps—
Caressing the trees on its way.
Up from the river a low mist creeps—
Born of the dying day.
Soft through the brushwood an antelope slips—
Sniffing its way to a stream.
Nuzzling the water, it eagerly sips—
Then fades, like a golden eyed dream.
Over the west lands the twilight falls—
Sifting the hazy places.
Out of the prairies the west wind calls—
Erasing all yesterday's traces. . . .

Pioneer Grandmother.

So, these fellows with grandmothers who smoke cigarets, drink Scotch highballs, and play poker, think they have something—well, listen:

How'd you like to meet up with one who at 75 strode out into two feet of snow in felt boots at daybreak, shoveled the snow off the pile of second-growth oak saplings and chopped a box full of wood for the breakfast fire. Meanwhile grandpa shoveled a path to the barn and hayed and corned the horses. Then grandma came out and helped pail eight cows, feed fifty chickens and thirteen hogs. After that they went in and had breakfast—corn cakes, hominy, sauerkraut and sow-belly. After she did the dishes, she hoofed it a quarter of a mile down the road to daughter Jane's house to help her with the warshin' and the kids; back home to get Pa his dinner and then some more wood choppin' and water pumpin'.

In the good old summertime you'd see grandma out on a hayrack loadin' hay while Pa pitched, and when they got it to the barn Pa pitched again and grandma did the distributin'. In between she hoed corn, tended the garden, raised the chickens, cooked, canned, and helped Jane with her cannin' and cookin'; and when the barn dance season opened grandma stepped out with the best of the young uns. Cocktails? Golf? Poker? I wish you could have seen the grandma I knew swing an axe at 75! Her hobby was children. She bore 13 sons and daughters and raised every one of 'em to man and womanhood, through fever and ague, malaria and typhoid, hell and high water. Cocktails! Poker! Golf! Phooey! She went down swinging at 93—no called strikes on her.

Hungarians who share the district in the vicinity of west North avenue with German residents like to drop in at the Budapest Casino for a glass of beer or a bottle of wine and the gypsy music. The proprietor, Julius Rikk, a temperamental looking man with a long lock of dark hair slanting across his forehead as he plays impassioned Hungarian rhapsodies on his violin, is part of the three piece orchestra, which includes piano and cymbala. Goulash, chicken paprika, and stuffed cabbage are dinner specialties, with linser torte, apple or cheese strudel, and imported Liptauer cheese for dessert. Late at night you see the customers eating rye bread sandwiches and radishes with their beer and wine, and waltzing to Mr. Rikk's music.

MORE ABOUT BEAUTY AIDS.

COSMETICS used in good taste are highly desirable, if made of pure and nonirritating materials. We may expect that toilet accessories will be in demand always—just as they were in Cleopatra's time. But no chemical can achieve the impossible and, as has been stated repeatedly, the clearness of one's complexion depends more upon nutritious food and good hygiene than upon all the creams and lotions—"preservers of youth"—which may be applied. The skin reflects with unerring fidelity the state of one's health.

Every now and then there comes a request for some recipe to obliterate "enlarged pores." What are these gaps or craters in the cuticle? Can they be eliminated?

They are not, as many suppose, outlets of the sweat glands. What our lady friends are concerned with are hair follicles—each of which should contain a baby hair. In some cases the opening is large enough to accommodate a full-grown hair, although there may be none. Follicles which are empty, yet sizable enough to hold heavy bristles, seem to be large pores, but unfortunately they are not elastic, hence they cannot shrink. In fact, the cells about them are horny—somewhat similar to the finger nails. While it is impossible to contract these tiny pits, certain mechanical or chemical treatments may swell the surrounding tissues so that they will be less prominent.

One method consists in patting the area with the fingers tips, which brings about enough response from the blood vessels to result in some puffing. Lotions and creams, however, offer a simpler plan. Tincture of benzoin is our chief reliance, although both alum and zinc—long reputed to possess astringent powers—are usually included. These cause just enough irritation to promote a slight raising of the skin and disguise the difficulty.

Another troublesome blemish is the lowly freckle, and "removers" of these innocent spots are sought. Those who are blond, with fair skin and light hair, freckle at the slightest exposure to light. We may as well admit at the outset that pigment is too deep to be reached by superficial applications. True enough, the outer layers may be affected, but not the lower corpuscles which carry the coloring matter.

Bleaches, after all, are only surface irritants, followed by a peeling of the horny layers. If the chemical is strong enough—for example, ammoniated mercury—inflammation [dermatitis] may result. Peroxide or a perborate may be tried, either a liquid or a cream, but we must recall that if the former has been kept for any length of time or has been exposed to light or heat, it loses its power.

"My skin is so dry," is a common remark and many who make it are victims of hard water. The fault may lie with the individual, however, in failing to remove all traces of soap. If thorough rinsing is carried out scrupulously, little trouble will result. Some semi-solid oil such as lanolin may then be applied, allowed to remain on for five minutes or more, and then wiped off with soft paper tissue. The procedure ends with patting with the finger tips, and the whole operation may be repeated several times.

Still more frequent is the call for a remedy to combat an excessively oily skin. Here the usual recommendation is to bathe both the face and the scalp with moderately warm soapsuds. A heavy lather is essential, and one should not stint on the soap. Complete rinsing is again the essence of treatment. If sulfonated oil is utilized, this is easily washed away. Later an astringent lotion is applied, and tincture of benzoin, with a small amount of glycerin in a low dilution of alcohol, is satisfactory.

The use of face powder is as old as civilization. Women of both Greece and Rome employed tinted powders to lighten or whiten the cheeks. The most inert substance is the best. Occasionally orris root, rice powder, or wheat starch may be dissolved by perspiration, thus giving the complexion a mottled appearance. Some ingredients also may be responsible for the development of a sensitivity, with symptoms similar to hay fever. The ordinary constituents of a good face powder are talc, titanium dioxide, clay, and zinc stearate. There is no danger that pores will be clogged or blackheads invited.

One should be interested less in the attractiveness of the package or the perfume than in the careful compounding of all materials which are to be rubbed into the epidermis.

NEURITIS HOME TREATMENT.

J. F. writes: I have neuritis of the right arm and shoulder.

1. Is there any home treatment for this condition?
2. What is the cause?

REPLY.

1. Rest for the parts and the application of heat may be carried out in the home. In some cases additional quantities of vitamin B may be added to the diet.
2. There are many causes of shoulder and arm pain—bursitis, inflammation of the joint, cervical rib, arthritis, as well as true neuritis [inflammation of a nerve]. Some toxin may be responsible. If the condition does not clear up within a reasonable period consult your physician.

WEIGHT LIFTING.

W. D. writes:

1. What are the good and bad effects of weight lifting?
2. Does a strenuous routine promote health?
3. Is it advisable for a boy of 16 years to lift weights?

REPLY.

1. Systematic weight lifting adjusted to the power of the individual will develop the muscles of the legs, trunk, and arms. If the load is too great there is a tendency to the development of hernia.
2. Never.
3. Not if breathlessness or a sense of strain ensues.

COOKING PORK.

W. H. T. writes: After I read your article on the importance of cooking pork thoroughly, I wondered what effect the curing of meat [as in ham and bacon] would have on the worms? Does it kill them and make the meat safe, even if it is not cooked thoroughly?

REPLY.

All pork products should be cooked adequately even though they have been "cured." This includes ham and bacon.

A WAY TO RESCUE THE RAILROADS.

Chicago, July 31.—I note the letter of Henry F. Gilg attacking the policy of Interstate Commerce Commissioner J. B. Eastman as an advocate of government ownership of railroads, in which he also takes to task the railroad unions for their support of this policy as well as their lack of support of the Pettengill long and short haul bill.

The unions are not necessarily backing any policy of Mr. Eastman's, neither are they as yet advocating a permanent return to government ownership. If Mr. Gilg could have been a train service employé during the period of government operation he could readily understand that it was not government operation that was at fault but purposeful inefficiency of many railroad executives whom the government left in to operate the railroads.

As to the Pettengill bill, I wish to say the brotherhoods actively supported it. That bill was item 3 of President George Harrison's long term program for rehabilitation of the railroads. Even had this bill passed the senate it would be illusory to say that it would restore more than 700,000 railroad jobs, inasmuch as there were only 900,977 persons employed on railroads in the United States last April. It is far fetched to say that passage of this legislation would have practically doubled it.

I would suggest Mr. Gilg's perusal of President Harrison's program for rehabilitation which, if enacted, would alleviate any fear of government ownership, he advocating among other measures a reorganized financial structure of unsound roads, regulation of water carriers, adoption of the Pettengill bill, restriction of highway transportation of freight to 300 miles, stopping the development of additional waterways, as well as several recommendations for an emergency program.

WHAT C. I. O. DID FOR HIM.

Chicago, July 30.—Yes, "A. R.," I, too, am under C. I. O.'s thumb, and here is how they have dominated me.

In 1934, when some of the workers in our plant started to organize, I was working for $16.20 a week. Now that our plant signed a contract with the C. I. O. they make me take $30 a week for the same work. That, in itself, is almost unbearable. Why won't they let me have my $16.20?

They take 25 cents a week from me in dues and only raised my wages $13.80 a week.

Then they make me take a vacation with pay. They have made the company put in a new first aid room; they have secured a shower bath; they have been instrumental in having lots of safety devices installed; they go by seniority rights; they make me take time and one-half for overtime; they voted in a government supervised election 257 to 2 for the C. I. O. Yes, "A. R.," I am glad you feel sorry for folks like us. It's terrible! A. W.

GRATITUDE OF GREAT REPUBLIC.

Riverside, Ill., July 29.—In your today's issue you favor us with an account of the demise of a world war veteran named Wagner. Destitute and unable to procure employment, he ended his life with a pistol shot. Your journal has been mighty glib about the "gratitude of the great republic" and the necessity for better and fuller patriotism and Americanism, but this gratitude appears to be of a peculiar character if a vet needs to take his own life. One case like this does more to procure a thousand Oxford pledges than the exhortations of a thousand pacifists. SKEPTIC.

MAKING FARM PARASITES.

Sullivan, Ill., July 28.—I note that a case worker in Sullivan says that one-fifth of the farm families are on relief. I suppose she is counting only those considered as paupers. It would be interesting to know just how many farmers are really on relief, regardless of what variety. But in my opinion the Wallace system has placed more than 75 per cent of the farmers in this county in the class of parasites. The most dangerous and greedy seem to be the class that is called intelligent; people who have plenty are getting the most of the taxpayers' money, following a plan made by stupid Wallace and Ed O'Neal and put over by President Roosevelt. This has been possible only because of the class of people we have elected.

Only three men from Illinois had the intelligence to vote against the idiotic farm bill now in operation.

Aside from the fact that it permits many of the unworthy to get funds from the public treasury, of what benefit could the law possibly be to agriculture?

CLYDE O. PATTERSON.

TATTOOING.

Chicago, July 28.—Of all professions and trades listed in the phone book there isn't one tattooing artist. Many famous people have been tattooed, including ex-Kaiser Wilhelm and the late King George of England.

The new fad of tattooing social security numbers has revived this ancient but rapidly dying art.

Some movie stars have had their lips tattooed red. Many people object to tattooing on account of identification, but if one has no criminal intentions he has nothing to fear. TATTOOED GYPPO.

A TASTE OF BUROCRACY.

Chicago, July 29.—Burocracy at work: 31 notations, most of them repetition, for placing applicant on hourly job at which she made about $2. The Free Employment Service discourages temporary jobs; too much trouble for these high pressure placement people. The private employment agencies willing to take on this work and keep people busy in times of widespread unemployment are balked at every turn. This work is a financial loss to agencies, but it creates good will among patrons and gives people an opportunity to work and retain their self-respect rather than accept the doles handed out by politicians. It also gives them an opportunity to vote as they wish, which may not be so pleasing to some of our nit-wit politicians.

DISGUSTED.

FLORAL PIECES IN CEMETERIES

Chicago, July 29.—The floral setup or wire design, after being placed on the grave, is taken by certain help at the cemeteries and resold for almost nothing to racketeers who camouflage these designs by winding new paper on them and reselling them to the next buyer as brand new ones.

Being a wire worker I can safely state that if this racket was stopped I and many other employés could work full time and at better wages if the public would demand new frames which, after all, they are entitled to because that is what they are paying for. Please help us stop this type of business people and help create new jobs and living wages.

You, the public, are paying for new goods and getting gypped.

VALIDITY OF WILL.

Chicago, July 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—During the world war, while residing in Canada, my father had to make out a will, in which he left his estate to my mother.

Since living in the United States, however, he has acquired additional property and [1] we would like to know if this same will covers this later estate and [2] if same is valid in the United States? We cannot convince him he should draw up a more specific and newer will [3] for the reason mainly that he is not yet a citizen. He took out first papers many years ago but this lapsed and he is now preparing to take out final papers.

4. Is there danger of losing property by not being a citizen? If will is made and purposely left unwitnessed, [5] is same valid? At the time he took out his first papers he gave his age a few years younger to correspond with his employment.

6. Would it be unlawful to take the chance of leaving the final papers the same way, or should this be explained and the correct age written down?

7. Is one required to produce a birth certificate upon examination by the judge, especially if single? E. A. T.

1. Depends on the wording of the will.
2. It probably is valid here.
3. We do not see that this has anything to do with it.
4. Not at the time of death. An Illinois statute authorizes forfeiture for long holding of real estate by aliens.
5. No.
6. We cannot undertake to advise you in adjusting your course to such previous perjury. We advise you to employ an attorney.
7. It is not clear what kind of examination you mean.

MAKING OF WILL.

Des Moines, Ia., July 28. — [Legal Friend of the People.]—A wishes to make a will and wants to name B as executor. B lives about 300 miles distant in another state.

1. Is this legal?
2. Can he name B without informing him?
3. If B should refuse to serve what action would be taken to probate the will?
4. Does this state allow a per cent to the executor?
5. If so, how much? T. J. O.

1. Illinois does not permit nonresidents to serve as executors.
2. Yes, except as to the point above stated.
3. Where the named executor is disqualified or refuses to act, the court will appoint on petition an administrator with the will annexed, or if there are no resident parties eligible, the public administrator will act.
4. Yes.
5. The statute says not over 6 per cent of the personal property.

TVA COMMITTEE HEARS STORY OF PHOSPHATE DEAL

Expert Admits He Didn't Know Cost of Land.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—The story of the Tennessee Valley authority's purchase of 553 acres of phosphate land, at a net profit of $527,185 to the International Agricultural corporation of New York, was told to the congressional investigating committee today by Dr. Harry A. Curtis, TVA chief chemical engineer.

One phase of the narrative that elicited questions from the investigators was Curtis' declaration that at the time the deal went through he did not know how much the corporation had paid for the land and did not look it up, although he was chief negotiator.

It developed from figures presented by Curtis that the corporation, now reduced to an alphabetical formula "IAC" in the hearings, paid $148,387.50 for the land. It was testified that the IAC acquired title to the phosphate desposits in 1934, the year after TVA was created, all except a tract of 70 acres which was bought in February, 1936. The acreage had been held under options by the company.

Calls It Bargain for TVA.

In 1927 TVA bought the property for $678,459.80, Curtis said. He argued TVA had got a bargain. The corporation had asked $750,000. But Curtis got the price knocked down to the $678,000 figure, he testified. This, he said, was based on a price of eleven cents a ton for the phosphate rock in the property.

In reply to questions, Dr. Curtis said if the company had held out for $750,000 he would have recommended the purchase to the TVA board as the best phosphate property in Tennessee.

"Did you inquire what the company paid for the land?" asked Francis Biddle, committee counsel.

"No," replied Curtis. "I assumed at the opening of negotiations I. A. C. had bought the land for a low price."

Curtis testified Director Harcourt A. Morgan, the fertilizer man on the TVA board, once asked him how much the company paid for the land, and he gave a similar reply and the question was dropped.

Order Records Brought In.

At the request of Representative Charles A. Wolverton [R., N. J.], supported by Representative Ewing Thomason [D., Tex.], further hearing of Dr. Curtis was deferred until Thursday morning.

All letters, files, telegrams, and memoranda passing among the agricultural corporation and Dr. Curtis, Harcourt Morgan, and other TVA officials were ordered brought in by tomorrow morning. Wolverton said he desires to study these records.

Curtis was asked by Wolverton whether a better land deal might not have been made if the purchase had been handled by the land acquisition department of TVA.

"It's a question of geology, of prospecting, of chemical analysis," replied the chief chemist, who has charge of the fertilizer works at Muscle Shoals near Wilson dam. "We bored holes and analyzed."

Procedure Criticized.

Q.—Are you a geologist? A.—No.

Q.—Well, then, what's the difference between you and the land acquisition men? A.—I left it to our geologist.

Q.—Well, they, the land acquisition, have good geologists, too. Couldn't they have made a better bargain? A.—This concerns a hundred things about which land acquisition knows nothing.

"I find it strange," said Wolverton, "that both this case and the Berry marbles cases were handled without going into the land acquisition."

Dr. Curtis testified the land in question, near Franklin, Tenn., some twenty-five miles south of Nashville, had been known as phosphate land for forty years. The grade of rock did not measure up to old processes in the phosphate industry, he said, but new furnace processes made it a valuable property.

It also was brought out in the inquiry that to date TVA has spent a total of $895,909.90 on phosphate land purchases.

LEADERS EXPLAIN RELATION OF TAX BODIES TO TRADE

The relation of taxing bodies to business and the effect of taxation upon business were discussed last night in a radio interview sponsored by the citizens' committee on public information. Those taking part were Mayor Kelly, William E. Clow Jr., president of James B. Clow & Sons, and William A. Lewis, secretary-treasurer of the Allied Printing Trades in Chicago.

The purpose of taxation—conservation of the city's assets and building for the future—was viewed critically and weighed in the balance of modern conditions. Mr. Clow spoke as a business man and Mr. Lewis as a representative of labor. Another in the series of discussions of Chicago affairs will be broadcast next week.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Silent Partner

INVOKE COURT AID IN CITY'S WAR ON WEED HAZARDS

150 Offenders to Face Arrest.

Aid of the courts will be enlisted today in Chicago's weed control campaign. Property owners who have failed to cut weeds more than thirty inches high are to be arrested on complaint of the board of health. They are subject to a fine of from $5 to $100.

Efforts to rid the city of weeds have been hampered this year by the failure of the Works Progress administration to aid city officials. Work on private property, it was explained, is "objectionable" to WPA officials in Washington.

Removal of high weeds is desired because they aggravate hay fever and obscure motorists' vision at street intersections. Physicians have described them as a menace to health. The Chicago Motor club recently asked that they be cut down to prevent automobile accidents.

Orders Drastic Measures.

Drastic measures to spur the war on weeds were ordered last evening by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health. He became impatient at reports from his inspectors on the progress of the weed eradication program. Of 150 property owners who got warnings last week, he was informed, only seven have complied.

"We have waited long enough," he asserted. "Under the terms of the city ordinance passed last year we can prosecute the property owners for failure to heed our warnings. That seems to be what we must do."

He asked Assistant Corporation Counsel Milton Smith to obtain warants for the arrest of the offending property owners. Smith said he will do this today after receiving final word from inspectors that the weeds are still standing. The names will be supplied by the health board.

Asks Citizens to Aid.

Dr. Bundesen also asked all citizens to coöperate in the drive to force property owners to comply with the ordinance.

"The ordinance is drawn so that any citizen can file a complaint that noxious weeds are being allowed to grow in the city," he explained. "Citizens should go to the nearest police station to report violations and get warants. Assistant corporation counsels will prosecute the cases in the municipal courts."

The budget of the board of health provides for only ten inspectors. They are responsible for all sanitary inspections. The work on weed eradication has been an added duty and their progress has been slow. The board also must make a title search or pay to have one made. This is an additional expense and has further hampered the campaign, he said.

SEEK A TRANSIT PERMIT WITHOUT EXPIRATION DATE

A transit unification ordinance should be in the nature of a continuing right to the use of the streets without a definite expiration date, company representatives urged yesterday. They met with members of a council subcommittee to make plans for the drafting of a settlement ordinance providing for combining the street car, elevated, and bus systems.

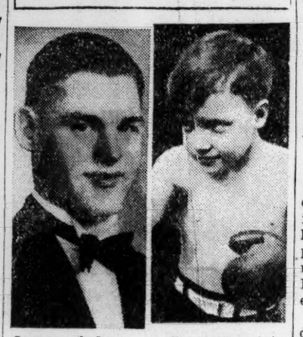
Company spokesmen told city officials that future financing may be impossible if the franchise is made for a limited period. Surface lines' representatives said they have been unable to do any public financing since 1918. The work on the new ordinance will be resumed tomorrow.

WILMETTE NAMES A MICHIGAN MAN TOWN MANAGER

Adolph J. Koening, 47 years old, last night was appointed acting village manager of Wilmette at a meeting of the village board. His salary will be $4,200 a year. As soon as he has fulfilled the residence requirement Mr. Koening will become the village manager.

He was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation in 1936 of Boyne Platt. Since then the village president, Harry C. Kinne, had been acting manager. Koening, a graduate of the University of Michigan, is a former city manager of Fort Atkinson, Wis., and Plymouth, Mich.

Killed in Elevators



Lawrence Anderson. Raymond Read.

A man and a boy were killed yesterday in separate elevator accidents. They were Lawrence Anderson, 22 years old, 2427 Erie street, and Raymond Read, 8, of 841 Windsor avenue.

Raymond, an only child, was crushed against the first floor ceiling of an apartment building at the Windsor avenue address. Policeman John Kelly of the Town Hall station said he apparently had just stepped into the elevator as it went up. Mrs. Read, who witnessed the attempt to rescue her son, collapsed and was taken to Lake View hospital.

The other accident occurred in a freight elevator at the Arnold Brothers Meat Packing plant, 660 Randolph street. John Taylor, manager, refused to talk, but Des Plaines street police said Anderson was trapped between the elevator and the second floor for nearly two hours when he slipped while opening the car door. He died a few hours later in Presbyterian hospital.

HUNT FOR HAVENS FOR EXILES TO BE LED BY AMERICAN

LONDON, Aug. 2.—(AP)—George Rublee, veteran trouble-shooter for the United States government, today was slated for election as permanent director of the inter-governmental committee on refugee relief projected by the Evian-les-Bains conference.

Rublee's election by acclamation tomorrow was expected following nomination by Myron C. Taylor, chief of the American delegation to the conference held July 6-14 in Evian-les-Bains, France. Representatives of 27 nations are to participate tomorrow in the setting up of a permanent refugee committee.

Rublee, former legal adviser to the United States embassy in Mexico City, was understood to be President Roosevelt's choice for the job of directing the search for new homes for refugees from greater Germany. He is a native of Madison, Wis., and was an adviser to the American delegation to the London Naval conference in 1930.

EXPLAINS WORK OF FOUNDATION IN MILK INQUIRY

Correspondence and activities of the Milk Foundation, Inc., were explained to the federal grand jury yesterday by Carl Deysenroth, executive secretary of the Foundation. He was the only witness before the grand jury, which is investigating reports of a milk monopoly.

Deysenroth's organization is operated by the Chicago Milk Dealers Bottle exchange and the Pure Milk association, which is the dairy farmers' organization, according to Leo F. Tierney, special assistant attorney general.

Charles A. Stayart Given Customs Office Promotion

Joseph A. Ziemba, United States collector of customs, yesterday announced the promotion of Charles A. Stayart to deputy collector of customs in charge of the entry division of the Chicago customs office. Mr. Stayart, who has spent thirty-five years in the customs service, succeeds Neil E. McKellar, who recently became assistant to Mr. Ziemba. Mr. Stayart was in charge of customs importations to Chicago during A Century of Progress exposition of 1933 and 1934.

Twins Born in Peoria to Mother Who Is 12 Years Old

JEWISH LEADERS MOURN DEATH OF LEON ZOLOTKOFF

Father of U. S. Zionism to Be Buried Today.

Leaders of the Chicago Jewish community will attend funeral services for Leon Zolotkoff, nationally known Jewish editor, author, and playwright, at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the Jewish People's institute. Burial will be in the B'nai Brith cemetery.

Mr. Zolotkoff, who was 71 years old, died Monday at his home in Amityville, N. Y. Founder of the Jewish Courier and considered the father of American Zionism, he had confined his activities since 1920 to New York.

Born in Vilna, Poland, then a part of Russia, he was educated there and at the Sorbonne in Paris. After a career as a journalist, author, and dramatist in St. Petersburg, Mr. Zolotkoff came to Chicago in 1887.

Establishes Jewish Courier.

The following year he established the Jewish Courier, to spread Jewish culture through the medium of Yiddish. In 1896 he was graduated from the law school of Lake Forest university, thereafter adding the study of law to his other interests.

From the first, Mr. Zolotkoff took a leading part in Jewish community life. His writings, both serious and humorous, under the pen name "Zakoff-Gadol," were well known to the Yiddish reading population of the country.

He was a delegate to the first International Jewish congress at Basel, Switzerland, in 1897, and to four thereafter.

Once Assistant Prosecutor.

Mr. Zolotkoff served as an assistant to Charles S. Deneen, then state's attorney, from 1904 until 1910, when he sold the Courier to the owners of the Tageblatt in New York and became editor of the latter publication.

He returned to the Courier as editor in 1915, resuming his law practice, until 1920, when he moved again to New York. There he became editor of the Jewish Daily News, and at the time of his death was a contributing editor to the Jewish Morning Journal.

Among his best known works were an historical narrative, "Joseph de Castre"; such plays as "Samson," "The Heroes of Zion," and "Zalmen Troubadour," and a novel, "From Vilna to Hollywood."

1,300 TO WIND UP C. M. T. C. TRAINING WITH BIG REVIEW

Thirteen hundred young men from Illinois and Wisconsin, who have been encamped since July 6 at the Citizens Military Training Camp at Fort Sheridan, will have their big day tomorrow, on the eve of returning to their homes.

Brig. Gen. Carl Truesdell, commandant of the post, announced that the citizen soldiers would display their proficiency at drill in a formal guard mount at 8:30 a. m.

This will be followed at 9:30 by awards to the outstanding campers for proficiency as soldiers, athletes, and scholars. Then the fourth year campers will take command of the regiment in a final review before high ranking officers of the regular army.

The awards include scholarships to the Universities of Chicago, De Paul, Loyola, Marquette, and Lawrence college, and a $100 credit for freshmen and sophomores at Ripon college.

NEW APPROACH TO PEACE URGED BY CUMMINGS

Peace is not a gift, but an achievement, Attorney General Homer S. Cummings said last night before members of the Chicago Bar association in the association clubrooms.

"The world will have peace when men deserve it," said Mr. Cummings. "Art, music and science are international. Law is not international. In that may lie the answer to our many problems of world order."

Mr. Cummings spoke at a dinner in honor of Lord Macmillan, one of the seven lords of appeals in ordinary, which body is the closest equivalent in Great Britain of the United States Supreme court. Lord Macmillan, as one of the law lords of the British privy council, is also a member of that body's judicial committee, which is the supreme judicial tribunal of the British empire.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Mary M. Goodrich.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary M. Goodrich, 78 years old, daughter of Alden Merriman, a pioneer educator of Chicago, will be in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Luella McInnes, at Belvidere, at 2 p. m. today. Burial will be in Belvidere cemetery. Mrs. Goodrich died Monday in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Marie Ferguson, 933 Michigan avenue, Evanston. She had lived in Chicago most of her life. Her father was the first principal of the Skinner school on the west side, opening it in the '60s. Surviving are another daughter, Miss Pauline Goodrich, and a son, Charles E. Goodrich, of Ithaca, N. Y.

Dr. William J. C. Casely.

Dr. William J. C. Casely, former Chicago police surgeon, died yesterday at his home in Marengo. Dr. Casely, who was 76 years old, was graduated from the Chicago Medical college in 1885. For the next eleven years he was the examining surgeon of the police department, and then moved to Marengo to practice. Surviving are his widow, Emma, and two sons, Robert E., and William. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2:30 in the home with burial in Marengo cemetery.

James S. Hopkins.

Funeral services will be held in Aurora today at 11 a. m. for Attorney James S. Hopkins, who died late Monday night at his home, 109 North Lake street, Aurora. Mr. Hopkins was the son of the late Senator Albert J. Hopkins of Illinois. He had retired several years ago from his Chicago law practice. Surviving are one daughter; Mrs. Josephine Dunn of Chicago; two brothers, and a sister.

William G. Smith.

William G. Smith, for forty-five years an insurance adjuster in Chicago and a resident of Austin for thirty years, died yesterday after a short illness. His home was at 5113 Washington boulevard and he was 68 years old. His widow, Mary O'Mara Smith, and one son survive. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 9:30 a. m. in St. Thomas Aquinas church.

Jackson Miller.

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Jackson Miller, a retired newspaper executive, who was controler of the CHICAGO TRIBUNE from 1908 until 1911, died of heart disease here today at his residence after a long illness. He was 71 years old and had lived in New York for twenty-five years. About ten years ago he was with the Brooklyn Daily Eagle.

Mrs. Julia Kelley Roche.

Mrs. Julia Kelley Roche, 90 years old, one of Kane county's oldest native born residents, died yesterday in her home at 525 Regent street, Elgin. Nine children, 26 grandchildren, 16 great grandchildren and one great-great grandchild survive. Funeral services will be held tomorrow from St. Mary's church with burial in Mount Hope cemetery, Elgin.

Mrs. James K. Armsby.

News of the death of Mrs. James K. Armsby was received by friends here yesterday. She died Monday in her home at Ross, Cal., where the family has lived for a number of years since leaving Evanston. Her husband, founder and chairman of the California Packing company, died three years ago.

Ocean Liner Captain Ends Life with Gas in His Home

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Capt. Harold L. Winslow, 40 years old, of the United States Steamship Lines, was found dead of gas tonight. Detectives said he had committed suicide. He was discovered in the kitchen of his apartment by a watchman. He was seated on a chair with his head stuck in a cooking range. Gas was escaping from five open jets. Since May 15 Capt. Winslow had been standby master of the liner Pennsylvania, which was tied up pending disposal by the maritime commission.

UNION SUES C. I. O. FOR $1,000,000 ON CHARGE OF LIBEL

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—(AP)—The National Association of Industrial Insurance Agents filed a $1,000,000 libel and slander suit against the Committee for Industrial Organization today, alleging that C. I. O. officials have referred to the association as a company union.

The association has been handicapped, its complaint in District court said, by accusations that it was promoted by the large insurance companies for which its members sell policies. Such charges are "in no wise" true, it added.

Founded eighteen months ago, the association has about 10,000 insurance agents on its rolls. Attorney Horace C. Young said one point the suit would settle was whether the C. I. O. can be sued as a legal entity, although operating on an unincorporated status.

WIDOWER OF 60 DROWNS TRYING TO SAVE WOMAN

While teaching his woman companion to swim, John H. Millsaps was drowned yesterday. She was rescued from the clay hole at Chicago road and Sibley boulevard in Dalton.

Millsaps was 60 years old and a widower. With him was Sally Finicke, 40. Both lived at 4721 Lake Park avenue. Her beginner's strokes carried her into water 40 feet deep. She screamed. Millsaps tried to save her but was carried under.

A swimmer at the other side of the pool quickly reached her and brought her to shore. He was Lyle Rounine, 16002 Lexington avenue, Harvey. It was an hour before Rounine recovered Millsaps' body. Dalton firemen could not revive him. Millsaps' son, Jefferson, an attorney, was notified.

SITDOWN STRIKE BY MOTHER OF 7 STAYS EVICTION

Mrs. Marie Emmel, who, with four of her seven children staged a sitdown strike in renters' court last week, was granted a sixty day stay from eviction yesterday by Judge Eugene L. McGarry. Accompanied by only three children, Mrs. Emmel, who lives at 2239 North Sawyer avenue, told the court she had been unable to find a new home she could afford. Her husband, Karl, makes $55 a month as a WPA worker. Attorneys for the Home Owners Loan corporation, owners of the building, said the Emmels have not paid their $35 a month rent since May 1.

California Bakes in Heat for Second Day; 11 Die

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 2.—(AP)—California and much of the western slope sweltered again today, gripped for the second day by the season's most severe heat wave, with eleven deaths in southern California and Arizona attributed wholly or in part to the high temperatures. Los Angeles' maximum was 94, one degree below yesterday's season high.

Yacht Races Hold Interest of Cape Cod

BY JUDITH CASS.

A LETTER from Cape Cod, where many middle western as well as eastern families have summer homes, brings news of some of the seasonal activities. One of the highlights of each summer is the Edgartown regatta which was held last week-end. Edgartown is on Martha's Vineyard, an island a few miles off the Massachusetts coast.

Going over from the cape for the regatta were many young Chicagoans, among them Morris Eddy, who is spending the summer with his mother, Mrs. Augustus W. Eddy, at her home in Osterville. Duncan Browne, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Duncan H. Browne, who have been members of the Wianno colony for many years, was a member of the crew of one of Wianno's star boats. The T. Kenneth Boyds of Winnetka, who have a summer home at Oyster Harbors, raced their senior Quip.

Following the fleet in their new 60 foot yawl were Mr. and Mrs. Franklin L. Whitcomb of Cotuit. Expected soon at Cotuit to enjoy this ocean going racing yacht called Onywhya, meaning "dancing feather," are Mr. Whitcomb's father and brother, Franklin L. Whitcomb and Carter P. Whitcomb of Chicago, who also have summer homes at Cotuit.

An invitational tennis tournament at Wianno in which he was taking part kept Thomas F. Geraghty Jr. from the regatta. He is spending the summer at the Wianno club with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Geraghty, of the Ambassador East hotel.

Mrs. John E. Warner Visiting Mrs. Eddy.

Mrs. John Eliot Warner and her children, Barbara and Silas, are visiting Mrs. Eddy, who is Mrs. Warner's sister-in-law. Near to Mrs. Eddy's home in Osterville is the charming home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed which last summer was remodeled to be more than ever a perfect gem of Cape Cod architecture. From their open porch overlooking East bay Mr. Goodspeed can view his new 30 foot fishing boat riding at anchor.

Mrs. David A. Crawford and her daughter, Elizabeth, a debutante of the season, are spending several weeks at the Oyster Harbors club. Mrs. Crawford's two sons, David and Edward, are in summer camp nearby at Eastford, Conn. Other young Chicagoans at the camp are Augustus Eddy Jr. and Claud Oldenburg, son of the Swedish consul.

Active in the affairs of the Wianno club are the Edward C. Crossetts, who last week acted as judges in a tango contest. Miss Carolyn Crossett has returned to her parents' Wianno home from a trip to the Gaspé peninsula. Another daughter, Mrs. Edward S. French, and her two boys are expected in Wianno this month. Her sister, Mrs. John L. Mothershead Jr., has taken a house in Centerville for the season.

The David Danglers are entertaining as house guests Mr. and Mrs. Alfred H. Granger, formerly of Lake Forest, who have taken up farming in a gentlemanly way at Roxbury, Conn. Miss Cynthia Cook of Geneva also is a guest at the Dangler home, which is in Oyster Harbors. Young Henry Dangler spends most of his time yachting at the Oyster Harbors club.

The Francis P. Butlers are occupying the Oyster Harbors home of her sister and brother-in-law, the Robert Donners of Buffalo, N. Y., while the latter are in Europe. Another sister, Mrs. T. Richmond Wells of New York, will join the Butlers and Miss Judy Butler later this month.

Reveal Engagement of Miss Doris Benson.

From their summer home, Spikeswood, in Woodruff, Wis., Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Benson of Winnetka have sent word of the engagement of their daughter, Doris Davey, to James Winchester Hardy, son of Mrs. Chauncey Hardy of Sterling.

Mr. Hardy now is visiting his fiancée and her parents. Miss Benson attended the Baldwin school, Mount Holyoke college, and Oxford university in England. Mr. Hardy is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin. No plans have been made for the wedding.

Hear Swing Music at Ravinia Tonight.

Ravinia festival boxholders, guarantors and subscribers will mingle with jitterbugs and other cognoscenti of swing music tonight at Ravinia park, where Benny Goodman is to give a concert. The quiet park will swing to its farthest corners, aided by an amplifying system installed for the occasion.

Mr. Goodman and his band already have appeared at Carnegie hall in New York and at the Boston Symphony hall.

Tomorrow night the park's traditional classical music will return with an all-Wagner program conducted by Eugene Ormandy, the Chicago Symphony orchestra performing.

Mrs. Charles W. Dempster, who has taken the Wayne Chatfield Taylors' house in Lake Forest for the summer, will entertain at a luncheon this noon for Princess Marina Wolkonsky. Princess Wolkonsky, who has recently returned from a visit with Dr. Roy Sturtevant and his family at their summer home in New Hampshire, will talk on "Life in Russia Before the Revolution."

Mrs. Harold C. Cheney will give a luncheon in her home in Barrington today for Mrs. John Skillman. Mr. and Mrs. Skillman [Barbara Barnhart] have recently moved to Barrington from the north side, where they have been living since their marriage a year ago.

Paul Muni in Famous Characterizations.

Louis Pasteur. "The Good Earth." Emile Zola.

Column on Paul Muni.

Paul Muni.

He will read all of the standard works on Beethoven and much that is not standard. He will read Beethoven's letters, his notations on his compositions, and everything else that will give him an understanding of the great composer.

That will be only part of Muni's preparation. Once he is steeped in the character he will go to work on his script. His wife will tell you that Muni reads a script over and over again, first familiarizing himself with every line that every other player in it will read.

Once he has saturated the bulk of it, he goes to work on his own lines until he has become fluent in them. Then he actually starts rehersing, reading his lines into a machine that plays back his voice to him, so that he can correct every inflection that does not satisfy.

No wonder then that Muni's screen portraits are the most polished and finished of the modern school. Genius is the capacity for taking infinite pains. Muni has that capacity and demonstrates it in his preparation for every rôle. He can't understand players who refuse to do what he does.

Muni and his wife live simply and quietly, far from Hollywood. He got the magnificent home in which he lives at a bargain price. The woman who owned it had two homes, one in Palos Verdes and one in Beverly Hills. Neighbors never saw her. A servant answered the door, transacted all the business of the home.

Then one day this strange woman went to her Beverly home, turned on the radios she had installed in each room, and while the radio sets cascaded a torrent of shrieking sound she killed herself, dying as strangely as she had lived.

Tenant Muni does not live strangely. He and his wife are very happy, and at peace with the world. Money means very little to him and he will tell you why. "Beyond a certain amount money begins to lose its value. Not long ago we went to a hotel. I wanted to engage a single room because that's all we wanted. The hotel had set aside a suite for us and I didn't have the courage to tell the clerk we didn't want the suite.

"I would willingly have paid him the money for two rooms if he had let us live in a single room. We ate in our rooms, and the waiter and captain stood right by our chairs.

"I would have liked to say certain personal things to Mrs. Muni, but they would have sounded stupid to the waiter and the captain, so I didn't say them. It was the same at every meal. On the beach I met a chap who was staying at a smaller hotel. His room had the same view of the ocean that we had. I think he had a much nicer time than we had. We spent more money for the things that he got for less money and less nervous irritation. I am sure that money, beyond a certain point, devalues itself."

Genuinely modest, and bothered by adulation, Muni is proudest, I think, of the very wonderful letters he received from all over the world after "Pasteur." There are letters from boys who said they had decided to become bacteriologists or doctors as a result of the film.

"Perhaps one of those boys will find a cure for cancer or invent something to relieve the pain of millions of people," Muni reflected. "If an actor could be the indirect cause of that it would be very wonderful."

I like to visit him because of the stimulating effect he has. Yesterday we drifted off to a discussion of the Bruno Hauptmann case. "I've never been able to bring myself to believe that one man could have committed that crime," he said. "No doubt he was connected importantly with it, but there must have been others." We argued it pro and con.

The thing that struck me most forcibly was that he was the only actor in Hollywood who would think of the Hauptmann case.

He loves his home very deeply, perhaps because it is the first real home he and his wife have ever had. The blue Pacific, lapping at the hills upon which the house stands, is the proper setting for him, or so it always has seemed to me. Directly across the stretch of water are the Malibu mountains.

On the three occasions on which I've visited him the Malibu mountains have been hidden by mist. "On a clear day," Muni says earnestly each time you visit him, "the view of those mountains is magnificent."

Just between you and me, I don't think the mist has lifted since he moved in some years ago. He repudiated this idea with great indignation. So we have compromised. On the next clear day he is going to telephone me and I will ride out immediately. I will keep you informed from month to month on this.

AS CHILDREN:

Mike O'Mara	Scotty Geckett
Marty Malone	Mickey Rentschler
Jerry Donovan	Tommy Bupp
Helen McCoy	Juanita Quigley
Joe O'Mara	Dickie Jones

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

KIND: Underworld melodrama.

ACTING: Victor McLaglen as a racketeering czar, William Gargan as a policeman, Paul Kelly as a priest, and John Gallaudet as Mike O'Mara's brother—also on the emergency squad — are excellent. Beatrice Roberts, a newcomer, as the girl in whom all the men are interested, has an arresting personality, much warmth and should go far.

DIRECTION: Able.

STORY: Pretty ordinary. The action carries five people—four men and a girl, from childhood in the slums—the "Death Avenue Gang" the five dubbed themselves—to hectic reunion in the big city. . . . All become involved in murder and resulting chaos. Two of the men are claimed by death. . . . A halting romance between Helen and Mike finally turns out rosily.

DIALOG: Sorta phoney.

AUDIENCE APPEAL: You will probably like this movie for the sake of the players — and for very little else.

"BOOLOO."
Produced by Paramount.
Directed by Clyde E. Elliott.
Based on story by Clyde E. Elliott.
Presented at the Garrick theater.

Capt. Robert Rogers	Colin Tapley
Kate Jaye	Jayne Regan
Sakai Chief	Michio Ito
Rod De Souza	Herbert De Souza
Nah Laku	Fred Pullen
Native Girl	Mamo Clark
Maj. Frenton	Claude King
Col. Stanley Jaye	William Stack
Ferguson	John Sutton
Governors—Ivan Simpson, Lionel Pape, Napier Ralkes, Phil Smalley.
Ah Lee	Himself
Radio Operators—Clive Morgan, Colin Kinny.

KIND: Jungle stuff gone Hollywood.

ACTING: That's all right. Humans and animals both show intelligence and the latter hand you a couple of laughs.

DIRECTION: Far better than the story deserves.

STORY: Goofy. The son of a deceased and once famous hunter goes forth into the Malayan jungles to clear that father's name. Because the elder Roberts, in a story his son had later written for him, had stated as fact that over there was to be found a white tiger to which the Safari tribes sacrificed beautiful girls. This book, titled "Booloo," had resulted in his father's picture being taken down from the walls of a London exploration society, members of same believing it to be just a lot of baloney. . . . Son Robert Rogers shows 'em!

PHOTOGRAPHY: Not bad.

SCENERY, SETS, ETC.: Just that. I understand that considerable authentic camera stuff secured by the author who really did some jungle photographing, was scrapped and local [California] color substituted.

AUDIENCE APPEAL: Velly weak.

See you tomorrow.

Cries for Ice Heard as Heat Moves on City

Yesterday was one of the hottest days of the summer. Beaches and parks were jammed with families seeking relief from blistering winds from the west. Lakeside dwellers sipped cool drinks and mopped perspiring brows. Cooling units worked overtime.

And in the crowded areas, there was no stir of the hot air that settled like a blanket over tiny rooms. There were no fans, no air conditioning. There was no ice.

And today will be hotter. THE TRIBUNE's free ice fund, depleted by emergency pleas from the sick and aged, will again be besieged with the cry for ice, ice for babies, ice for packs, ice for heart patients.

Yesterday's gifts from TRIBUNE readers were:

Anonymous	$ 15.00
Edith Whitlock	10.00
J. V.	5.00
P. F. M.	5.00
B. F. G.	2.00

Paris Stylists Agree on 'Pop Bottle' Dress

PARIS, Aug. 2.—(AP)—A new silhouette, emphasizing the hips and tightening the waist, has developed from new Paris fashion collections.

A higher neck and more elaborate collars accompanied the new trend. Swanky hairdressers have followed the move, decreeing more curls higher on the head.

Heim named a new wide hip silhouette after a popular soda maker, laying further stress on the "pop bottle" effort of the new dresses with narrow skirt hems and widely shirred out hips.

Novelties include Astrakan muffs that collapse like Chinese lanterns and fur scarfs which can be used as hat trimming. Multicolor harlequin diamond motifs are inset in day and evening bodices—chiffon diamonds in satin dresses and fur diamonds in wool coats.

Big gauntlet gloves of plain and striped fabrics match tweed morning ensembles. Fur trimmings include Persian lamb, sealskin, and broadtail fox. A new skunk cape has long front ends in a shawl effect.

Edwardian lines in black flares were noted in some evening suits. Evening dresses of magenta satin and bordeaux velvet carry out the new silhouette in bow tied skirts. There is much use of bloused backs and large mutton leg sleeves in day wear.

Betty Mead Will Bow

[Moffett Studio.]

A debutante of the season who also is an accomplished horsewoman is Miss Betty Mead, daughter of Mrs. Edward H. Bennett of Lake Forest. Mr. and Mrs. Bennett will give a tea at their Lake Forest home on Oct. 15 and a dinner-dance at the Blackstone hotel on Dec. 26 for Miss Mead.

Hollywood Rumors Link Sigrid Gurie and Doctor

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Romantic rumors today linked Sigrid Gurie, film actress, and Dr. Laurence C. Spangard, her physician. Both pointed out, however, that Miss Gurie's divorce from Thomas W. Stewart does not become final until next July.

Fur Bargains Plentiful in August Sales

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Lured back to town by rumors of important new fall clothes, as well as all the latest excitement over the fur coat showings, this fashion sleuth is glad to be able to gloat over the new arrivals. Everything looks new, slick and tremendously worth having . . . sleek black dresses give you the urge to dispense with any amount of food to keep slim enough to wear them with the right sort of snap.

Stunning hats, big and little, cause the most phlegmatic soul to remember that a new hat can accomplish a lot of magic.

And the current showings of fur coats certainly are a threat to the last penny from the most determined hoarder. New pelts, new sleeves, the new blouse backs, skins manipulated as smoothly as soft fabric, new colors and new silhouettes are worthy bait for a trip to town.

No hardships, this annual August hunting expedition for a winter coat, dizzy as the entire stunt seems to the nonunderstanding populace. In August you will find the latest creations of all the designers. You shop in the coolest spots in town, in air conditioned havens, while the rest of the world swelters as you shop. You find the best bargains of the season, and this year you'll really find bargains . . . some of the price marks made us gasp they're so moderately reasonable for all the swank and high fashion.

August is the time to select your coat and have it made to suit your own particular needs and clothes allowance . . . they'll execute your orders, working leisurly and expertly before the rush begins.

Look for shiny black fox; for all the delightfully honey beige tones in long fluffy furs; for cross fox short coats, for blue fox, red fox, for the largest collections of fine Persian lamb, caracul, safari brown and sooty black sealskins, for beautiful models in mink.

Now is the time to look for quality furs, for novelties; short boleros, capes, chubby hip length coats. Spend your money for monkey skin, for leopard, for skunk, guanaco [dyed like luscious blue fox], lapin, squirrel and muskrat dyed and worked like mink.

Stylists and Entertainers Aid Morris-Salomon Fund

Style designers and talent from the amusement field will join business men in a party at the College inn of the Hotel Sherman tonight. The party will raise funds for the proposed monument to George Washington and two men who helped finance the revolution—Robert Morris and Haym Salomon. The statue is to be erected in Grant park. The style creators of Chicago in the wholesale district will present a special tableau.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Now in midsummer is the time to take stock of what the sun has done to your hair. If it's the least bit sun baked don't wait until just before you have your fall permanent to get it in shape. A couple of efficient reconditioning treatments right now will be well worth every penny they cost.

After a couple of sun baths we found our own hair beginning to get floor-moppish. It was amazing to see what one professional scalp treatment did to erase the damage.

You can't brush your hair as well as an operator standing over you can. You probably don't have the sturdy professional type of brush in the first place. And certainly, when you must work with arms overhead you don't have the necessary elbow grease. One good twenty minute professional brushing is worth ten of your own efforts at brushing luster back in.

Pretty much the same is true of massage. When you massage your own scalp the chances are that you go at it pretty gingerly and in a hit or miss fashion. The skilled operator knows where all the muscles and nerves are; she knows exactly the spots to work on. She knows, too, what preparations are needed for the individual condition. There is a wealth of products available now, from oils to astringents, that can work miracles if skillfully selected and applied.

But the best thing about the professional treatment, if you ask us, is that vigorous brushing. It leaves the scalp tingling and polishes dry, dull hair to a high sheen.

SYNOPSIS.

On board the S. S. Panama Queen, sailing from Los Angeles to New York, via Panama, are Anne Sydney, who has a part in a Broadway play, and her crippled and embittered sister, Mena; Arnold Vernon, elderly, rich English motion picture producer, and his coldly beautiful wife, Claire; Isobel Butler, who has a stateroom next to the Vernon suite, and hopes to get in pictures through him; and Alex Reed, young surgeon returning to work after two years' illness. Isobel meets and arouses Vernon's interest. Anne and Alex are mutually attracted. Mena spitefully tells Alex that Anne is a heartless flirt. Pride causes Anne to hold herself aloof from him. Dr. Neil Andrews, a friend of Alex's, joins the ship in Mexico. He wants to get married and thinks Anne meets his ideals. Isobel and Arnold Vernon fall in love. He tries to buy his freedom from Claire. When she refuses he threatens to make a new will disinheriting her. The ship fights through a terrific hurricane. Isobel finds Vernon in her cabin, unconscious, hit by a storm tossed trunk. She sends Claire to him and struggles to find a doctor. Claire takes a loaded pistol, wrapped in a towel, from the purser's suite and shoots her husband, leaving the weapon in Isobel's wardrobe. She then tells Alex she found her husband wounded in Isobel's cabin. Flagg, the purser, reveals that the day before Vernon had made a new will leaving everything to Isobel. Alex operates on Vernon. The captain starts an inquiry. The stewardess reports that she found a towel of the purser's in Claire's room and that Claire had given her an emerald ring to keep silent. Claire charges the stewardess stole the ring. Anne agrees to give Neil an answer to his proposal in a month. Neil tells Alex that he and Anne are secretly engaged. A color photograph Anne took of Claire proves Claire had the emerald ring after the date she said it was missing. Claire insinuates she has other emerald rings.

INSTALMENT XXXIX.

CONFESSION.

Claire began to walk up and down through the luxurious rooms, but they seemed to close in on her—grow smaller and smaller. She sat down—could not sit still—got up again. She would suffocate if she did not feel the cool salt wind blowing into her lungs.

She went out on the veranda deck and lay down on the wicker chaise longue. Shaking inside as if with some strange virulent fever, she pressed her hands over her heart, fought to calm herself, to draw self-control from the serene empty spaces of the sea.

Gradually her inner tumult died. The movement of the water hypnotized her into a trancelike waking dream.

The day moved on. The sun reached the meridian—began to descend. Claire's head swam—the blood roared in her ears—her body was assailed with recurring waves of nausea. But she did not move from her place or put a finger on a bell. If she sent for food she would have to meet the accusing gaze of uncomprehending eyes—eyes that neither knew what she had had to endure, nor cared. It was the eyes that she couldn't stand.

She fell asleep thinking of them—dreamed of them staring at her everywhere she went—there were bowls of them in the shop windows staring as she passed—she ran from them headlong to the shelter of the woods. But she had not escaped them. They were there in clusters hanging from the trees.

"He saw you do it."

While Claire slept her affairs were being discussed over the air. Capt. MacKenzie always turned to the purser in time of trouble.

"This is a nice howdydo, Flagg. We've got McGonaghan coming out with the immigration officials. He'll bring press photographers with him and he'll question everybody and turn my ship upside down. There won't be a newsrag in the states from coast to coast that doesn't show his ugly mug at work investigating attempted homicide on my ship."

The captain's voice was shaking with emotion. Flagg kept his face straight. He thought the captain worried unduly. It was no slur on a commander's reputation if his ship were the scene of a scandal.

Flagg said—"Well, maybe we can do something."

"Yes," said the captain, refusing to be comforted. "That's fine and high sounding, but what can we do?"

"I've got a good idea. It means a bold bluff, but I'll do it if you'll let me."

"I'll try anything ye say in reason, Flagg."

"Well, this is the scheme. It depends on whether Mrs. Vernon did it, but we'll soon see. I was in Miss Butler's stateroom this afternoon and I figured the way he was lying and the way he was shot from above and behind, if he opened his eyes he could see his assailant in the wardrobe mirror—— "

The captain lowered his head on to his big freckled hands and gazed out under his eyebrows. "Aye, aye, Flagg, I begin to see what you're driving at—— "

"Mr. Vernon began to talk this afternoon. I don't think she's been told. Suppose we tell her—suppose we tell her the old man says he opened his eyes and saw her—— "

The captain banged a fist on the table. "All right, Flagg. They can't hang us for trying it on her if we prove to be wrong. But we might be right and I'd give an eye to put something over on Mr. McGonaghan."

Claire was awake when they came knocking at her door. At first she ignored the knocking, heard the door handle tried, and then she could not ignore it any longer for it became too noisy and persistent.

She went to the door, pulled back the bolt and threw it open in a quick burst of temper. "O, it's you, captain," she said with mock politeness. "To what do I owe this unusual honor?"

The captain stepped into the drawing room and Flagg followed him. Flagg saw with a shock that Claire was actually wearing another emerald ring. The captain, however, had not noticed it. He was too intent on the business in hand—he was, in fact, exceedingly nervous.

He said, "It's your husband, Mrs. Vernon. He's been talking this evening. Mr. Flagg will tell you. You ought to be prepared—it's something verra, verra serious."

She gripped the edge of the table and clung to it tensely. "Don't tell me my husband is going to die?"

"No, Mrs. Vernon," said Flagg, looking at her sternly. "He's going to live. And that's too bad for you. He said tonight he was conscious when you fired at him. He opened his eyes as you stood behind his head. But he could see you in the mirror and he saw you do it!"

Claire cried out and put a hand over her mouth. Her face was chalk white and her eyes wide with terror as she backed away from them. "No—no—he wouldn't betray me like that—I don't believe it—— "

Flagg knew a moment of pure exultation. "Your faith in his chivalry is very touching, Mrs. Vernon—but that chivalry has been strained too far—for he certainly told—— "

She looked at them—from one to the other—"O, God, I went mad when I found him in that woman's cabin—I didn't know what I was doing—the hurricane was driving me crazy—don't tell any one about this—— " She was wringing her hands together, and the insecure emerald fell from its setting and fell to the floor.

Capt. MacKenzie said severely, "You know very well it will have to be told. Other people have already suffered the indignity of suspicion on account of your—your inhuman behavior—— "

"What am I to do?" she moaned, "What am I to do?"

The captain made a sound like the growl of a bear. "Sit here and figure out what ye're going to tell to a judge. Come along, Flagg, and write this down before you forget the way she said it. They'll be needing you for a witness, I'm thinking—she'll be cooking up something and changing her mind—— "

They left her standing there staring at them, apparently incapable of motion. Flagg whispered outside the door—"Don't you think we ought to put a stewardess in there to keep an eye on her now?"

"Aye—we'd better. I think that's a job that would be rather appreciated by Miss Fitch."

Flagg could have told the captain that the last person in the world to appreciate being shut up alone with the woman she had helped to incriminate would be the rather timid and diffident Miss Fitch.

However, the old man was so elated by the ironical idea that Flagg decided to let it go and not tell him. And, anyhow, Mrs. Vernon would be as tame as a lamb. It would be some time before she got over the shock and back to her old form.

Claire, however, was already pulling herself together and cursing herself for losing her presence of mind. "Suppose they were bluffing me," she said aloud, "how awful—suppose they were bluffing me—they were—they were—I know Arnold was absolutely unconscious—— "

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Unfinished—Some Fun, Eh?

Character Is Built in the Child's Fiber

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"My people-in-law think I'm too strict with our little girl. They think she should be allowed to do as she pleases now and that when she is older she can be taught to obey and be truthful and helpful.

"When I say to them, 'What kind of character will she have?' They say, 'O, you have plenty of time to form her character—wait until she's older.' But I believe she should be trained now. I am not severe with her, but I do not want her to run our family [there are many adoring grown-ups in it] just because she is so cunning and little. What do you think about this?" writes a mother.

My answer is: She can't begin too early, and character isn't a thing apart, with separate training. That latter idea particularly is a mistake, because character is something that is built into the very fiber of your child as you go along.

You can't decide when to begin to build your children's character. You're building it up in spite of yourself all along the way.

You begin to build it up at the beginning by every act that concerns your child. Character, I like to say, is built in, not up. It is part of every day's doings. It is a permeating thing. You can't help training your child for some sort of character—either good or undesirable.

We are apt to think of character as shown only in big moments—crises, emergencies, or heroics. This is not true. Character may be evidenced in small things as well as large. It is not concerned just with unselfishness, truthfulness, courage, and chastity. It is tied up with the humble, ordinary every day acts of life.

Music Dealers See Mystery Machine—12 Instruments in One

It looks like a spinet, but in reality is twelve instruments in one, ranging from a violin to a bagpipe. It is played, however, much like an organ.

This is the new "mystery" instrument unveiled yesterday at the 37th annual Music Industries convention in the Stevens hotel. The development of the Rudolph Wurlitzer company, it has so many possibilities that no one can decide on a name to go with them. Thus, it is still unnamed.

Its presentation was made before some 2,000 music dealers. Dr. Bruno Helberger, inventor of the mystery, demonstrated it.

As he played, his audience stirred in wonder, then sank back to listen. For the mystery, critics said, was what musicians down through the ages have sought futilely to produce: A single instrument with the versatility of the organ and the direct expressiveness of, say, the violin.

It can produce the delicacy, the quivering ecstasy of the violin—by pressure of the finger tip. It can produce the skirling of the bagpipe, the silver breathiness of the flute, the rumble of the bassoon, the blare of the saxophone—by pressure of the finger tip.

It can produce, too, the tone colors [as musical timbres are termed] of the tuba, French horn, trombone, cello, English horn, clarinet, and trumpet. Not exact duplications, its makers say, but potentially as fruitful. And the standard piano tone.

The new instrument is almost as small as a spinet, which it resembles. It has the conventional piano keyboard, but, in front of it, another keyboard with a flat [but flexible] playing surface. On this the black and white notes are marked, but not raised.

summer with a series of sales of exchange goods. There will be a sale tomorrow and Friday at Draper hall in Oconomowoc.

Mrs. William M. Spencer is opening her Lake Geneva home, House in the Woods, next Tuesday for a sale. Mrs. Sangston Hettler, Mrs. Philip K. Wrigley, Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, Mrs. Earle J. Zimmerman, Mrs. Daniel Peterkin Jr., and Mrs. Henry H. Porter are some of the women who will assist.

There will be two sales at Charlevoix, Mich., one at the inn on Aug. 16, another at the Belvidere hotel on the 19th. Mrs. Henry Barkhausen is opening her Harbor Point, Mich., home for a two day sale Aug. 23 and 24.

Mrs. Frank Reynolds is president of the board of the Emilie Lehmann Peacock Camp for Crippled Children at Lake Villa. She and the directors and associate members are meeting this afternoon at the Lake Villa home of Mrs. Otto Lehmann. From Mrs. Lehmann's the group will go to the camp nearby to see a play presented by the children and return afterwards to Mrs. Lehmann's for tea.

John B. Mordocks Parents of Son.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Mordock became the parents of a son, their first child, in Cumberland, Md., yesterday. Mr. Mordock is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Mordock of Winnetka. Mrs. John Mordock is the former Miss Nancy Douglas James of Cumberland. Mrs. Charles Mordock left last night to see her grandson.

Mrs. Tracy L. Turner Jr. again is spending two weeks at St. Luke's hospital. She has been ill of a heart ailment since last January, but except for two or three trips to the hospital has been recovering at home in the Edgewater Beach apartments. It is expected that Mrs. Turner will be able to be up and about after she leaves the hospital this time.

Mr. and Mrs. Barret Conway and Miss Betty Conway leave today for Sun Valley. They will be away for two weeks.

Miss Kay Goodman has left to visit her grandmother, Mrs. William O. Goodman, at her summer home in Westbrook, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence W. Scudder have gone to Chocorua, N. H., for the rest of the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Nitze arrived at home from a trip to Europe on Sunday. They left at once for their summer home in Estes Park, Colo. Their daughter, Mrs. Walter P. Paepcke, will return from Europe the end of next week.

More News of Trips Abroad.

Other European travel notes: Dr. and Mrs. Rudolph Ganz have sailed in the Normandie to be away until Sept. 6. They will spend several weeks in Switzerland visiting their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Anton Roy Ganz.

The Charles H. Morses and the Charles H. Swifts took the Europa. The Salzburg festival was their destination. The Morses will return in October.

The Edwin J. Mossers sailed in the Rex on the southern route, bound for Juan Les Pins on the French Riviera for their usual summer visit. They will return in October.

The George E. Frazers of Winnetka and Edmund, George Jr., and Richard are at their villa near Cannes. They will be away until Sept. 15. Edmund, who is in his second year at Harvard, has been elected to membership in the Illinois Society of the Sons of the American Revolution.

David Adler sailed on Saturday for five weeks in Italy.

Frock for Town and Country

FROCK IN JUNIOR SIZES.

For town and country, a smart two piece frock with decided snap. It's the versatile type of dress that mixes well in any wardrobe company. That is, the skirt can go with other toppers in your collection, and the jacket can do duty with your suit. Together they are a superb outfit. This ensemble may be made of cotton, linen, silk or pastel woolen, and if you're looking forward to your autumn wardrobe, remember the delightful combinations of plaid and plain woolens which are going to be popular again.

The sleeves are squared off at the shoulders. The neckline may be high and round, with a shirtwaist collar, or it may be square, with no trimming at all. Buttons are a handsome trimming down the front of the blouse, which is nipped in at the waistline. The skirt has no plaits, but is cleverly paneled to achieve a slim fit through the hips and flare at the hem.

Style No. 2782 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17, and 19 years. Size 15 requires 3⅛ yards of 39 inch material.

Mutual Taste Excellent, but Often Barrier

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"We always do everything together."

This phrase is the proud boast of closely knit families, sympathetic sisters, inseparable girl friends. It is taken for granted by congenial married couples. Yet it isn't always a sign of the richest and finest relationship. It can be a symptom of narrowness. It can reveal a lack of personal initiative and independence. Loyalty doesn't demand that people be Siamese twins.

We know a wise mother of two daughters, one vivacious and the other very reserved. All their lives she has encouraged them to cultivate separate crowds. She knew the retiring girl would be put in the shade by her sparkling sister. Uneven competition might have provoked sisterly jealousy. As it is, they are good friends and have lots to tell each other when they come in from their different dates.

It is nice to have a chum, but two girls who are completely satisfied with each other's companionship often fail to make other friends. Business girls sharing an apartment together hamper each other socially and have less fun if they don't stand out as individuals. If both must always be invited together, they are frequently left out.

Mothers and fathers who enjoy keeping their families together sometimes prevent their sons and daughters from marrying. In any case, they hamper the development of their children. They never give them a chance to acquire social poise among strangers.

Family loyalty is splendid, sisterly affection beautiful. Friendship is lofty and inspiring, but don't be afraid to find new friends. Don't be afraid to do things alone. In the happiness of a union of mutual tastes and pleasures, people forget there are joys in reunion, too.

White Polish Lovely Against Tanned Hands

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Summer tanned hands demand a different shade of nail polish.

There is an exciting new white nail polish on the market. Your men friends, shy of innovations probably will receive it dubiously. But it is very striking. Imagine white nails against golden brown skin when you are wearing a crisp linen dress or a creamy evening gown!

If you prefer waiting until more adventurous sisters break the way for a white manicure, at least put aside your gentle pinks and sharp cerises until autumn and lily hands are "in" again. Be careful your nail polish doesn't make your bisque hands look yellow. Select the shades with yellower tones to them. Let your hands and nails be an ensemble. Let your manicure keep up with the season.

Summer shades in nail polish may take a little longer to dry, but the warm August days make it easier to relax and be lazy while you wait.

Incidentally, remember that your hands are inclined to grow much browner than your arms. While you are enjoying a sun bath, put on cotton gloves to insure an even tone between hand and wrist.

Dig in the garden. It's healthful. But wear gloves for your nails' sake, or be sure to use a hand brush vigorously afterward.

An indolent afternoon is just the time to try out a new shade of polish to catch the eye for this evening's dance.

File the nails to a smooth oval with a final touch of the emery board. Soak in warm water. Apply your cuticle remover on cotton wrapped around an orange wood stick. Clear away memories of the garden from under your nails. Then apply your new shade of polish in three strokes, leaving the moons showing nicely. Wipe off the top of the nail with the cleansing tissue.

There! don't your hands look nice?

Keep your figure trim! Use the exercises of United States Army cadets. Thirty of these exercises are given in the illustrated booklet, "West Point Exercises." Quick dinners for guests aren't, or shouldn't be, much more trouble to prepare than quick dinners for the family. An understanding guest won't expect an elaborate meal, and will applaud the hostess' ability to turn out a satisfying three course dinner within an hour's time.

This menu won't require more than an hour, if the cook has her groceries ready at the start of the 60 minute process of cooking.

SHORT CUT DINNER FOR GUESTS.
Grape Juice
Breaded Veal Chops with Savory Sauce
Browned Potatoes
Buttered String Beans
Peach Muffins
Cantaloup Ring with Lemon Sherbet
Hot Coffee

To prepare the chops, dip them in egg and fine crums and brown on both sides in a little hot fat. Cover, reduce heat, and cook gently until the chops are tender, about 25 minutes. Place on a hot platter and spread thinly with a sauce made by blending together two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons chili sauce, two tablespoons catsup, and a little horseradish, if desired.

Cook the potatoes in boiling salted water until tender, drain, and brown for a minute or two in the fat left in the pan after cooking the meat.

To save time, canned string beans may be used in this menu. Add salt, pepper and butter, and have the vegetable very hot. The whole string beans, placed lengthwise in serving dish or on the plate if it is served from the kitchen, look very attractive.

Of course, cucumbers and tomatoes make a very ordinary salad but, ordinary or not, this is one of the best salads it's possible to make. A decorative note may be added if the cucumbers are fluted with a fork before they are sliced. In this case, they aren't peeled. The prongs of the fork are drawn lengthwise to cut grooves through the skin, which gives a fluted edge to the cucumber slices. I'd suggest romaine or chicory, perhaps even spinach or young turnip tops, as the salad green, as a change from lettuce.

Peach muffins may be made by slicing fresh or canned peaches into a plain muffin batter just before putting it into the tins, or by pressing the pieces of peach into the dough after it has been spooned into the muffin cups.

If commercially made lemon sherbet isn't available, another fruit juice sherbet will do as well in the cantaloup ring.

I'm suggesting hot coffee with this meal since the dessert is a cold one, and since the appetizer is a cold beverage.

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Tribune Charities, Inc.]

If you don't get to that mailbox some time today with your letter, you're going to be mighty sorry, boys and girls! You're missing an opportunity to see your favorite—little Shirley Temple—playing in her newest film with Jimmy Durante, Edna May Oliver, and a number of other famous people.

The name of the film is "Little Miss Broadway" and it's full of music and dancing, and comedy—just the kind of picture for children.

On Thursday, Aug. 11, 100 boys and girls will go with me to the Roosevelt theater to see this movie. If you'd like to be one of them, write your letter just as fast as you can and get to the mailbox with it. My guests will be selected tomorrow morning, and they'll be the youngsters who've written the most enthusiastic letters concerning the party.

All you have to do is tell me why you think you'd have fun at a party like this. Be sure to do it all by yourself. Tell me your full name, address and age, and be sure to have your letter reach me tomorrow. Please don't ask for invitations for friends—each child must earn his own invitation by letter.

The address is Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: My bridge career, until a very recent session, was characterized by a phlegmatic live-and-let-live philosophy. I didn't greatly care whether partners played by rule or by ear. A sort of pleasant coma settled on me whenever I sat at a bridge table. But that was before I 'saw the light!'

"Last night my wife butchered a contract in her customary cheerful manner. By some miracle [which I still am trying to understand] I saw her error! A veritable thrill went through me. Your repeated preachments about safety plays, and the iniquity of unnecessary finessing, bore fruit at last on my hitherto barren limbs. This was the hand.

"The bidding was [I think] quite normal. My wife, sitting South, opened with one spade. I bid two diamonds. [The opponents passed throughout.] Wifey bid three diamonds, I went to three spades, and she made it game in spades.

"West led out the jack of clubs. East won and, after a huddle, returned a low club. My lady deliberately ruffed her own club king in dummy [with a glance that was supposed to assure me she knew exactly what she was doing] then led a trump and finessed! West pounced with the queen and quickly shifted to a low heart. The king was assassinated and East cashed the queen for the setting trick.

"Now, as I have intimated, where finesses were concerned I used to be able to take 'em or leave 'em alone. But suddenly I saw just how bad a finesse can be.

"The great danger of this hand was that the trump queen and the heart ace were 'wrong.' If West took the lead with the trump queen he certainly would shift to hearts. Of course, if West had the queen twice guarded nothing could be done about it, but it would be fatal to permit the unguarded or singly guarded queen to win. But the real point was that if East had the queen it would do no great harm to let him make it! East couldn't lead through the heart king; hence, if the finesse would succeed, so would the cashing of the ace and king! And, in addition, this latter play would be the only possible safeguard against West's taking the lead. Ah, me! It's all so simple, when one thinks about it! Blasély yours,

"J. J. K., Boston, Mass."

My correspondent's analysis is, of course, correct. At rubber bridge the correct method of playing the trump suit was to lay down the ace and king—not to finesse. If this left the queen still at large in East's hand it would be only an unimportant trick, but meanwhile declarer would have taken as much precaution as possible against letting West, the danger hand, take the lead.

The Housewife

Inexpensive china is becoming so good looking that it is hard to tell it from porcelain. Of course it is earthenware, but it is finished in a lovely, creamy white. And the set we saw displayed recently had a scalloped border, quite deep, in beautiful pastel colors.

The tints are light green, a lovely, soft turquoise blue, yellow, and light pink. A twenty piece set [for four] costs a ridiculously small sum. There are cereal or berry dishes, cups and saucers, plates, and bread and butter plates. They are attractive enough to give as a wedding present. Or save your better china by using these pieces for breakfast and luncheon.

BARE NEW POLICE SCANDAL FACTS; ALLMAN PIQUED

Focus Inquiry on Mystery of Missing Guns.

An angry flush reddened Police Commissioner Allman's face yesterday as he heard details of the Town Hall police scandal presented before the police trial board. Not bound by the strict rules governing the Criminal court trials of the case, the hearing brought out new points.

Commissioner Allman.

Two suspended detectives are being tried on six civil service charges connected with the alleged holdup of a handbook employé last Feb. 26. They are Earl Flannery and Frank McKune.

The trial board is composed of the members of the city civil service commission. They are Joseph P. Geary, president; John E. Brennan, and Wendell E. Green, colored. Green is a Republican. The other two are Democrats. They have the power to punish offending policemen by dismissal from the force or suspension without pay.

Lieut. Goudie Questioned.

How Lieut. Romaine Goudie of the Town Hall station handled the matter was learned when he faced persistent questioning by Green. The detectives are charged with freeing two prisoners turned over to them by uniformed policemen after the supposed holdup attempt.

He was asked what happened after the uniformed policemen told him about the missing prisoners. They were Kenneth Peters and a man known as Tip, still a fugitive. [Peters later was fined $100 on an assault charge for his part in the case.]

"I talked to the uniformed men," Goudie testified. "They said no guns were displayed by the prisoners, but that they took guns from the prisoners' pockets and turned them over to Flannery and McKune."

McKune Off; Escapes Quiz.

Q.—[by Green] Did you ask Flannery whether he got the guns?

A.—He said he didn't get any.

Q.—Did you ask McKune whether he got them?

A.—That was McKune's day off.

Q. [by Geary]—What connection did a detective's day off have with so serious a matter?

A.—Well, that was his day off.

Q.—Did you tell Lieut. O'Brien, who relieved you at midnight, what had happened?

A.—No. I was through at midnight. I waited until 12:25 a. m. and as O'Brien hadn't shown up, I went home.

This brought surprised interjections from the commission members. Commissioner Allman's face became a dark red, but he said nothing. Lieut. Goudie said he had told Sergt. Michael Ahern, now a lieutenant, to tell Lieut. O'Brien about the case.

A new point was brought out when the commissioners delved into the mystery of the missing revolvers. McKune's gun, said Lieut. Goudie, had been stolen three months before the alleged holdup.

"On last Dec. 7, when McKune was having lunch in a drug store at Wilson avenue and Sheridan road, he hung up his overcoat with his service revolver in the pocket," Goudie said. "He went to the wash room and when he returned the gun was gone. It was reported at the time."

"Huddle" Idea Gets Laugh.

This revolver, also, was never found. Asked for his opinion as to the missing guns which the uniformed men said they turned over to McKune and Flannery, Lieut. Goudie suggested that the detectives and the uniformed men be placed in "a huddle" until they agreed on what had happened.

Guffaws broke from the police officials present.

Attorney James M. Burke, counsel for the suspended detectives, demanded to know why the uniformed men had not been suspended. They did not mention the alleged holdup attempt until several days later, he pointed out.

"They are good men," said Capt. Patrick O'Connell. "They were only giving McKune and Flannery time to clear up the matter."

O'Connell, Supervising Captain Joseph Goldberg, and Peters gave testimony similar to that heard in the Criminal court two months ago.

REDSKINS SIGN BAUGH FOR 3 YEARS AT RECORD SALARY

PASSING ACE TO LEAD PROS IN ALL-STAR GAME

Mayor for Kipke

"As a football player and coach, Harry Kipke has brought fame to Michigan. Detroit and Michigan can now repay their obligation to Harry Kipke by electing him coach of the All-Star football team in the game against the Washington Redskins, sponsored by The Chicago Tribune, in Soldiers' field, Chicago, on Aug. 31.

"Kipke's chances to win the appointment as head of the All-Star strategy board rests with every Detroiter. Don't let 'Kip' down. Remember a vote for him is a vote for Detroit and Michigan. Cast your ballot for Harry Kipke today."

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Sammy Baugh, the outstanding passer of all time, today signed a three year contract with the Washington Redskins, whom he led to the National Football league championship last fall.

The contract, according to George Marshall, Redskin owner, who closed with the former Texas Christian star this afternoon, calls for Washington to pay Baugh the largest guarantee ever offered a professional football player. The amount was not made public. It gives the Redskins exclusive rights to Baugh's services, enabling them to dictate his athletic endeavors, his radio appearances, movie contracts and all magazine and newspaper articles.

He's the Best There Is.

Signing of the slender Texan, whose passes defeated the Green Bay Packers, 6 to 0, in the Chicago All-Star game last fall, guarantees Baugh's appearance in this year's game in Chicago on Aug. 31. Baugh will report to Coach Ray Flaherty on Aug. 12 to begin training. At present he is playing baseball with Rochester in the International league.

Marshall's announcement ended a holdout siege Baugh started several weeks ago when he announced he would remain with Rochester until he received what he had asked. Baugh's demand was not made public. His salary last season is believed to have exceeded $12,000, which included a reported guarantee of $8,500 given him in lieu of a three-year contract after he had climaxed his sensational collegiate career with a spectacular demonstration in the All-Star game.

He Reaches the Heights.

The contract was signed after Baugh assured Marshall his baseball contract with Rochester stipulated he was to be released when the Redskins went into training for the Chicago game. Baugh went to Rochester from Columbus in the American Association, where he had been sent by the St. Louis Cardinals after failing to measure up to major league standards as a hitter.

Baugh became a national hero last Sept. 1, when he surpassed the renowned Arnie Herber of Green Bay in a passing duel in the All-Star game. He went on from this game to more impressive performances in the National league, climaxing the season with an unprecedented demonstration in the playoff game in which the Redskins defeated the Chicago Bears for the championship and the right to play the All-Stars this year.

In the playoff game he threw 33 passes, completing 18, for a total gain of 335 yards and three touchdowns. He carried the ball only three times, making advances of three, twelve, and seventeen yards.

M'MILLIN TAKES LEAD

Bo McMillin of Indiana has regained the lead in the national poll that will decide a staf of five coaches to lead the college All-Stars against the Washington Redskins in Soldiers' field, Aug. 31.

Votes poured into Chicago yester-

ATTENTION, MUSICIANS!

As in previous years, a 200 piece All-College band is being organized to play and maneuver between halves of the Washington Redskins College All Americans football game in Soldiers' field on the night of Aug. 31. All college and university band men in Chicago and vicinity who have had experience in marching and maneuvering are eligible. Applications for membership in the band should be mailed to G. C. Bainum, Director, Northwestern University Band department, Fisk hall, Evanston, before Aug. 10.

The contest ends at midnight Sunday. Choose three coaches in the order of your preference. First place counts three points; second, two, and third place, one. The coach receiving the greatest number of points will win the poll. Send your selection to the All-Star Game Editor, The Chicago Tribune.

REDSKINS SHORT IN NUMBERS BUT LONG ON POWER

They'll Shoot Works in All-Star Game.

BY GEORGE HALAS.
Head Coach, Chicago Bears.

The numerical advantage of the 68 All-Stars, with six or seven topflight men available for every position, means far more than merely having fresh replacements ready if the heat wilts the players.

It is also a tremendous advantage in preparing for the game with the Redskins in Soldiers' field Aug. 31, because the brain trust which directs the All-Stars can hold frequent, hard scrimmages within the ranks. If one player is disabled there are plenty of others available for his position.

Danger of Serious Injury.

With a long, hard campaign ahead of them in the fall, the Redskins hesitate to risk serious injury to key men by the knock-down, drag-out scrimmages which help toughen up a team. Consider what a death blow would be dealt to their hopes if Sammy Baugh were badly hurt prior to the game, or during the game, for that matter. Sammy is tall and slim but he is wiry. He is so wiry, in fact, that he can take a lot of bending and the chances are 100 to 1 against his being hurt by a legitimate tackle.

The prayer of league followers is that he will be available throughout the game, escaping the fate of Arnold Herber of Green Bay in last year's All-Star contest, when he was forced out of the game for good in the second quarter with a badly torn shoulder.

A third big advantage in the size of the All-Star squad is the fact that frequent changes in the team on the field upsets the attack of the professional eleven.

Strategy Is Nullified.

For example, an experienced Washington tackle, by trial and error, may discover a weakness in his opponent or devise a method for drawing him out of position so that he is open to a better blocking angle. At the moment when the Redskins are ready to take advantage of this knowledge or situation the opponent may be replaced by a new man.

Similarly, in a well planned, deceptive attack, one play as the phrase goes, "sets up another." Washington may run a number of similar plays until a certain defensive man is lulled into believing that he has the maneuvers figured out. Suddenly, with preliminary moves that look precisely like the preceding plays, the Redskins may strike in an entirely different manner. What good is all this missionary work if a new man takes the place of the man who was about to be fooled?

Whether the All-Stars have a squad of 68 or 168 fine performers, with all the advantages of numbers, I believe that this game will have to be credited to the victory column of the National football league.

An Elegy in A Flat.

In some bright spot with joyous throng, my arm around a girl.
But that, forsooth, you will agree, takes youth and cash galore,
Which in my state it's plain to see exists for me no more.
Alas! alac! it's evident, although I have the urge,
The nap is off my benny and a shine is on my serge.

Time was, it seems but yesteryear, I had both friends and dough,
Wore stylish suits and fuzzy hats, attractive you may know.
But now I sit in idleness recalling other days,
Reviewing deeds of bygone years that merit any praise.
Those days are gone, I must admit, I cannot make a splurge
For the nap is off my benny and a shine is on my serge.

But why should I bemoan my fate, my age is seventy-three,
I have a home I'd hate to leave, a mind that's clear and free
From prejudice and vain regrets. I only wish to live
A few more years of happiness the Lord can only give.
I envy none, not even when I sing this mournful dirge,

A Layman's Prescription.

Dr. Cutter in his column on the editorial page advised one of his questioners the other day that drinking three or four glasses of carbonated water a day was healthy. That's a health hint I've been advocating for years. Only I have found that by adding three fingers of Scotch you can make the water much more palatable. However, this has never been known to harm the water in any way.

The Tragedy.

A child possessed of an immortal soul,
Whom, by their marriage promise, they had sworn
To lead each day toward his eternal goal;
But lo! before he came to reason's light
They wrecked his home by merciless divorce,
Denying him through greed his primal right

And if the child goes down before the blast
Of sin and shame that sweeps across the land,
If his immortal soul is marred at last,
Who of his fellow men will understand
That life for him was blighted in the bud

STRATTON RIDES TO VICTORY ON SIX RUN INNING

Kuhel Clears Bases with Triple.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox, who for a week had been wandering aimlessly in the woods, losing six straight in the meantime, found their way back into the clear yesterday. They accomplished their escape from the deep timber with the assistance of Connie Mack's obliging Athletics, who didn't kick up much of a fuss over being 8 to 4 victims in a series opener.

There was reason, of course, for the Mack men being nice, mild fellows during the proceedings. One was that they were severely jolted early in the argument by a six run blast. Another was that Monty Stratton, ace man of the Sox staf, was operating against them. They hit him in the first inning and again in the ninth when a few blows were of no consequence, but in between he pitched seven innings in which there were only four hits.

Kuhel Busts One.

The six run affair which simplified Stratton's tenth victory of the season, was enacted in the third when Almon Williams, who still hopes to score a success in 1938, suffered the consequences of four hits and three passes, a matter in which ten batters were involved. The choicest of these four timely wallops was a triple by Joe Kuhel, which came with three mates on base. Despite this assault, Williams lingered around for more and finally got it in the last two innings, although in a mild way.

The Macks collected a triple, double, single, and pass in the first inning, but out of all this they got only one run. Finney opened with a triple to right center. Moses fanned and Werber flied to short right. Berger and Walker discussed the advisability of making the catch, but meanwhile the ball plunked to the ground for a single, Finney scoring. Werber wasn't satisfied with his luck; so he tried to reach second and was nailed. Brucker then doubled to center and Johnson walked. Chapman's pop up to Appling relieved Stratton for the time being.

Here Come Six Runs.

Williams gave the Sox only a pair of passes and one single in the first two innings, so undoubtedly was more than surprised by the activity which resulted in six runs in the third. It started with Berger's single and pass to Owen. Walker singled to send Berger home. Radcliff walked, loading the bases. Owen and Walker sprinted home on Appling's single. The bases were refilled when Kreevich walked. Kuhel unloaded the bags by tripling to right center. Sewell then popped to Sperry and Stratton, who started the inning with a grounder to Werber, ended it in the same way.

The Athletics couldn't get a man to base in the second and third innings, but in the fourth they made a hit and some outside assistance from an unexpected source promoted a run. The hit was Brucker's second double with which he opened the inning. Johnson flied to Kreevich, but the latter was a bit winded after his chase for the Brucker double and dropped the ball. Brucker took third and Johnson went to second on the error. After Chapman had been called out on strikes Sperry dispatched a fly to Radcliff to score Brucker. Appling threw out Parker.

Trouble Overtakes Williams.

After the third inning Williams did nobly by himself for three innings. During this time he was bothered only by two hits, a double by Radcliff to start the fifth and single by Sewell to open the sixth. In the seventh his good fortune was eclipsed by a streak of wildness. After fanning Walker, he passed Radcliff and Appling. Kreevich settled quickly for a single to right, scoring Radcliff. Kuhel also walked, but Williams changed his tactics. He fanned Sewell and Stratton. The Sox scored

BRYANT YIELDS 2 HITS; MATES ROUT HUBBELL

Jurges and Hack Get Home Runs.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 2.—Clay Bryant was just a shade short of perfect today as the Cubs kicked the stuffing out of the Giants, 7 to 0. The big right hander yielded only two hits, a single by Carl Hubbell with two out in the sixth and a double by Mel Ott with two out in the seventh. Only fifteen batsmen, the irreducible minimum, faced Clay in the first five innings and only thirty, three over the minimum, in the entire game. He walked the first batsman in the game, but the runner immediately sank in a double play, and issued one other pass to Pinch Hitter Sam Leslie at the start of the ninth. There were no errors behind him.

Clay Bryant.

Hubbell, seeking his thirteenth victory of the season, was knocked out in the seventh, during which the Cubs made four runs.

Collins Does His Bit.

The first two Cub runs were knocked in on a single by Rip Collins with two out and the bases full in the fourth, but there was much gratifying socking after that. Bill Jurges, who hadn't made a homer this year, knocked one with none out in the fifth, and Stan Hack, also a homer maiden, got one with two on in the seventh. When Frankie Demaree followed Stan's drive with a triple, which also looked like a homer, Hubbell went away.

The Cubs made twelve hits, the assortment including in addition to the aforesaid homers and the triple, doubles by Bill Herman, Hack, who also had a single to go with his extra basers, Joe Marty, and Jurges.

The happy doings enabled the Cubs to move up within a game and a half of the second place Giants and within six and a half of the leading Pirates, who lost to Boston. The Cubs will be up to the .500 mark on the trip if they win tomorrow, with four victories and four losses. They already have the losses chalked up.

Terry Just Suffers.

Today's experience naturally was quite irksome to lovable Bill Terry, the Giant skipper. It was the eleventh shutout his boys have suffered this year and the fourth straight licking the Giants have taken at the hands of the Cubs, who now are even in the season series at eight games all.

By way of venting his displeasure, Terry announced immediately after the spanking that he had suspended Pitcher Cliff Melton indefinitly. Last season, Melton's first as a National league player, he scored twenty victories and was the season's rookie sensation. He won his first six decisions this year, then folded. He has won nine and lost nine this year. No reason was given for the drastic action today.

Demaree Is Too Slow.

Demaree's slowness afoot prevented the Cubs from hopping off to at least a one run lead in the first inning. After Jurges had been called out on strikes, Herman dropped a double near the left field foul line and moved to third while Hack was being retired on a close play, McCarthy to Hubbell. Demaree sent a slow hopper toward third which seemed a certain run producing single. Frankie, however, took a long time plodding to first and when he got there found Ott had thrown the ball to McCarthy to retire the side.

For a few minutes at the start of the Giant first, Bryant had trouble finding the plate. He walked Moore and pitched three wide ones to Cis-

LONG SHOTS WIN AS HANDICAPPERS GROAN IN UNISON

The Boxer Pays $135.20 at Washington Park.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Long shots were on parade at Washington Park yesterday afternoon and the army of amateur handicappers who attempted to pick the first seven winners to earn a prize of $2,000 were in hot water from start to finish.

A total of 5,372 went out for the prize and most of them had been dusted off after The Boxer, a horse that never had won a race, galloped to victory in the third. He paid $135.20 for a $2 mutuel ticket.

Those who survived that occasion sank in extremely deep water when Gate, at $59.80 in the $2 market, bounced home in front in the mile fourth race.

Some tough old handicappers were in this gathering, however, and even after the two long shots had staged their winning performances four still were in the $2,000 struggle when the fifth race started.

Two dropped out when Panic Relief won the fifth race and Black River, the favorite, failed them. Old Colonel Ed, the favorite in the sixth race, eliminated the remaining two when he finished third. This throws $3,000 into today's pot.

An all claiming race program was offered, the fields were large and some very cheap horses were running in some of the races. A handicapper who actually was willing to go into the contest should have been awarded some sort of a hero's medal.

Boy, What a Parlay!

A $2 parlay on the first five winners alone would have won $500,000 had there been that much money in the crowd.

The Boxer, which races for Mrs. J. Grossman of New York, had every right to be at 66 to 1 odds. He had been racing against slightly better horses in his previous six starts this year, but in his last outing he was beaten off by twenty-eight lengths in a maiden race at Arlington park on July 5. If he had worked extremely fast in the meantime, the clockers apparently knew nothing about it.

Running on a good track he was away in the middle of the pack of twelve sprinters. Jocky Bobby Howell decided to follow an inside course and raced The Boxer not far out from the rail.

He saved ground in this manner and held him up far enough to challenge for the lead at the head of the stretch. The Boxer responded willingly, bounded past the early leaders, than went on to win by a length and a half.

Laddy Boy Ring Flops.

Laddy Boy Ring finished second and Polariscope third. It was a sad defeat for Laddy Boy Ring's backers. He was making the first start of his career, even though he is a 3 year old, and turned out to be the hottest tip of the entire Chicago season.

More than three thousand dollars rolled in to be bet on the unknown colt. As a result the odds against him dropped steadily down from 50 to 1 to 2 to 1 at post time.

Gato also had to be cleverly ridden by Jocky Porter Roberts to get his long shot decision. He, too, ran next to the rail all the way, moving through a narrow opening to pass half of his field and take the lead on the turn for home. Once in front he drew out and was leading by two lengths when the battle ended.

Favorite Disappoints Fans.

The best race on the program was the mile sixth race. Colonel Ed was made the favorite at 6 to 5 but he was outrun nearly all the way.

In the early stages Maleman and Rough Diamond outfooted him. He rallied on the turn and momentarily took the lead, but he could not hold it. Rough Diamond was the first to move past him, and in the final strides Mrs. C. E. Dale's Wise Will flew by him to take second money. The Colonel was third. Rough Diamond, the winner, paid $12.20.

COGHILL SHOOTS 67 TO TOP TRIAL FOR PARKS' GOLF

Johnny Coghill of Silver Lake Golf club, a member of the University of Illinois golf team, scored a 34—33—67 yesterday at Westgate Valley in the third Chicago qualifying round for the National Public Parks golf tournament in Cleveland Aug. 22-27.

Coghill's round was three under par and five strokes better than the cards of Don Walsh of Joliet and George Cisar of Marquette, who tied at 72 for second place. The nineteen qualifiers follow:

RIGGS GOES INTO QUARTER-FINALS AT SOUTHAMPTON

Southampton, N. Y., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Don McNeill of Oklahoma City, the nation's ninth ranking player, was the only outsider to reach the quarter-finals of the 48th annual Meadow club invitation tennis tournament today. Paced by top seeded Bobby Riggs of Chicago, seven of the ten seeded players gained the bracket of eight.

McNeill, unseeded because of inactivity due to an injured ankle, defeated Robert Kamrath of Austin, Tex., 3-6, 6-2, 6-1, in the third round. Riggs won his third round match in straight sets, defeating Charles Shostrom of Chicago, 10-8, 6-3.

Time, :23 2-5, :48, 1:17. Two dollar mutuels paid: High Top, $7.00 straight, $5.00 place, $3.40 show; Charlotte G., $21.00 place, $12.00 show; Fair Haste, $4.00 show. Winner trained by M. Griner. Went to post at 2:22. At post 3 minutes.

HIGH TOP, a sharp factor from the start, and kept up when between much of the first half mile, drew into command under strong pressure after straightening out in the stretch and weakened badly in the final eighth but withstood CHARLOTTE G.'S bid. Latter bettered her position gradually and finishing resolutely was wearing down the winner.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 2.—(AP)—The league leading Pittsburgh Pirates ran into a four hit pitching performance by Johnny Lanning today and dropped the series opener to the hustling Bees, 3 to 1. After a rocky start, in which Catcher Al Todd tagged him for a line drive homer into the left field bleachers in the second, Lanning settled down.

DODGERS WIN TWO.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Those amazing Dodgers pounded out a double victory over the St. Louis Cardinals today, 6 to 2 and 9 to 3, and moved back into fifth place, one percentage point ahead of the Boston Bees.

Fred Fitzsimmons stopped the Cards with eight hits, one of them Johnny Mize's 15th homer of the season, in the opener. Ernie Koy, Tuck Stainback, and Goody Rosen collected two hits apiece to pace the Dodger offense, and, in the second game, big Dolph Camilli knocked homers No. 14 and 15 over the right field wall.

Tigers Solve Gomez; Whip Yankees, 4-3

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 2.—(AP)—George Gill, Tigers' hurler, weathered a ninth inning rally by the New York Yankees and hurled the Tigers to a 4 to 3 triumph today.

Gill entered the ninth with a 4 to 1 lead. With one out Joe Gordon singled, and Red Ruffing, pinch hitting for Johnny Murphy, went out on a fly. But Frankie Crosetti hit his fifth homer of the year into the left field stands. Red Rolfe doubled, but Gill worked hard on Tommy Henrich and finally tossed him out at first. Lefty Gomez, the Yanks' starter, was touched for all the Detroit runs. Score:

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Wes Ferrell held the Browns to seven hits today as the Washington Senators won the first of a three game series, 5 to 3, but the St. Louis club protested because of a mishap in which Umpire Harry Geisel was injured and carried from the field. Billy Sullivan, Browns' catcher, knocked the umpire down in a dash for home after Oral Hildebrand had singled in the second inning. He was called out at the plate.

Stratton and Sox Defeat Athletics, 8-4

The harmless assault on Stratton in the ninth began when Nelson, batting for Parker, scratched a single with one out. Hayes batted for Williams and hit his homer into the left field pavilion. Stratton had no trouble with the next two men.

For the double header with the Athletics today, James Dykes, the White Sox manager, will pick his pitchers from among John Whitehead, John Rigney, and Jack Knott, and he hopes two will be enough. Luther Thomas and George Caster will officiate for the Athletics.

Henry Steinbacher, the Sox regular performer in right field, who twisted a wrist during the Yankee series, may be forced to spend a few more days in idleness. He took part in yesterday's practice, but gripping a bat caused him some annoyance; so he was returned to bench occupancy.

PARKER TURNS BACK SABA IN TORONTO TENNIS

TORONTO, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Frank Parker of Hollywood, Cal., and Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex., lost a total of six games today as they led the advance into the fourth round of the Canadian tennis championships.

Parker beat Nick Saba of Toronto, 6-0, 6-1, and Allison set down Jack Vanstone of Toronto, 6-2, 6-3. Bobby Murphy of Montreal, Canada's No. 1 player, whipped Army Armstrong of Oshawa, Ont., 6-2, 6-2, and Ross Wilson of Toronto, the other seeded player, beat Bill Pinkerton of Toronto, 6-3, 7-5.

DODGERS FIND YELLOW BALL IS NO IMPROVEMENT

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 2.—(AP)—The yellow ball may have its advantages against a white-shirted background, but otherwise it is neither better nor worse than the conventional sphere. That was the opinion of the Brooklyn Dodgers after they had beaten the St. Louis Cardinals, 6 to 2, today in the yellow ball's first major league test.

"I could follow it well enough from the bench," said Manager Burleigh Grimes. "I really think it would be a good ball to use against a white-shirted background, such as the one in Chicago's Wrigley field."

Tuck Stainback, Dodgers outfielder, said he noticed the dye came off the ball on the bat.

Fred Fitzsimmons, who pitched the complete game, found the dye came off on his perspiring fingers. "It made it a little harder to grip the ball," he said.

HARRISON DOUBTS AN AGREEMENT IN RAIL PAY PARLEY

Predicts Conferences Will End This Week.

Conclusion this week of negotiations over a proposed 15 per cent railroad wage cut was held to be likely yesterday by George M. Harrison, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives association. Association representatives have been meeting at the Palmer house with the Carriers Joint Conference committee, which represents the railroads and of which H. A. Enochs is chairman.

"For the first time since the negotiations have been under way, Harrison formally told the railroad officials that the 18 unions he represents will not take a wage cut. Both the railroad managements and the unions have been saying that they expected the other side to yield.

First Expression of Doubt.

Harrison's statement today was said to be the first time that he has admitted no agreement will come out of the conference. He expects to conclude his arguments by Thursday.

It was disclosed that the 18 unions at the Palmer house session have changed their strategy in which they had planned to have the head of each union give arguments against wage cuts. It has been decided to let Harrison, who is known as an able speaker, do all the talking.

In summarizing his arguments yesterday, Harrison declared that the railroads had not given any reason justifying a cut in wages.

Cites Committee Report.

Citing the recommendations made by the President to congress for the relief of the railroads, which was based on the recommendations of the Splawn committee, Harrison took up several points. The Splawn committee was a committee of the interstate commerce commission which made recommendations for the President.]

He declared that the Splawn committee calls attention to intercorporate investments totaling 2 billion dollars. He declared that interest on these investments should be given up before workers' wages are reduced.

Monsanto Chemical.

Investors' Guide: Any information you have on Monsanto Chemical would be appreciated.—R. G. L.

Answer: Monsanto Chemical company is one of the leading American producers of chemicals. It makes more than 300 items covering nearly every division of the chemical field. About five-sixths of its sales are made in the United States and the rest in foreign countries.

Roughly, Monsanto's products can be classified as follows: [1] heavy chemicals; [2] medicinals and fine chemicals; [3] coal tar intermediates; [4] chemicals for the rubber industry; [5] phosphoric acid and phosphate group; [6] plastics, plasticizers, and solvents; [7] tar acid chemicals, and [8] miscellaneous chemicals such as insecticides, abrasives, dry ice, calcium, carbide, lacquers, etc.

Sales are made mostly to manufacturers of various products well known to every one. About forty different industries use the company's products and some industries use many of them. The food industry, which buys about 15 per cent of Monsanto's total products from its American factories, uses approximately thirty-nine different items. The color and dyestuff industry buys sixty-nine different Monsanto products, and the rubber industry buys fifty-two.

Monsanto requires relatively few raw materials for its chemical making. Among the raw materials are coal tar products, sulphur and pyrites, salt, sodium nitrate, phosphate rock, and bauxite.

Reflecting the low rate of production in American industry, net income for the second quarter of this year declined to $555,424, or 37 cents a share. In the corresponding quarter last year net income was $1,441,405, or $1.29 a share. Net income for the first half of this year was $1,162,551, or 89 cents a share, compared with $2,775,259, or $2.49 a share, in the corresponding period last year.

Net income was $4,999,059, or $4.40 a common share, in 1937; $4,468,704, or $4.01 a share, in 1936; $3,843,391, or $3.85 a share, in 1935; $1,012,638, or $2.37 a share, in 1932, and $1,691,238, or $4.25 a share, in 1929. The stock was split two for one in 1929 and two for one again in 1934.

The company now has 50,000 shares of $4.50 series A cumulative no par preferred and 1,262,912 shares of $10 par common stock outstanding. The common pays $2 a year. Total assets were $52,595,854 on March 31. Current assets were $16,951,628 and current liabilities were $3,113,887.

MARSHALL FIELD THREE MONTHS' PROFIT $221,586

Marshall Field & Co.'s net profit in the second quarter of 1938 dipped to $221,586, Frederick D. Corley, president, reported to stockholders yesterday. This compared with $381,815 in the preceding three months and $655,743 in the June, 1937, quarter. Second quarter sales of $18,623,416 were 21.3 per cent less than the volume for the corresponding 1937 period.

Frederick D. Corley.

Marshall Field had net earnings for the first six months of $603,401, equal to $1.99 a share on the 6 per cent preferred stock. This was a drop of 52.4 per cent from the $1,268,746, or 22 cents a common share, earned in the first half of 1937. Sales totaled $36,654,497, a drop of 23.1 per cent from sales in the first six months of last year.

If sales of lines of discontinued merchandise are eliminated from the volume in both years, sales in the first half of this year were 12.4 per cent less than those for the 1937 first half.

Funded Debt Reduced.

Funded debt, Corley reported to stockholders, was reduced by $2,250,000 in the first six months by payment of current maturities and anticipation of a portion of the serial notes due this year and in the next three years. At the end of 1937 the funded debt was $17,000,000.

"Liquidation and reorganization of some manufacturing activities, announced earlier this year, are "progressing satisfactorily," Corley said.

A loss was reported by Anaconda Wire and Cable company for the June quarter. American Radiator and Standard Sanitary corporation, Mack Trucks, Inc., and Allegheny Steel company showed losses for the first half of this year. An interim statement by Purity Bakeries corporation showed higher earnings for the first twenty-eight weeks of 1938 than in the same 1937 period.

The Standard Oil company of California reported its second quarter net profit was $8,282,949, or 64 cents a share. This compared with $9,890,701, or 76 cents a share in the 1937 quarter. Earnings for the first six months of 1938 were $15,413,435, or $1.18 a share, compared with $17,780,191, or $1.36 a share, in the first 1937 half.

Radio Corporation Net Dips.

Lower earnings for the second quarter, compared with the like 1937 period were reported by Radio Corporation of America and the Union Bag and Paper corporation.

Radio corporation reported net profit for the June quarter of $1,086,955, equal after preferred dividends to 2 cents a common share. This compared with profit of $2,404,328 or 11 cents a share in the second quarter of 1937 and with $1,437,801 or 5 cents a share in the first 1938 quarter.

Union Bag and Paper had net income in the second quarter of $206,986, a drop of $97,264 from the profit in the June, 1937, quarter. Earnings for the twelve months to June 30 amounted to $1,375,901 against $950,390 in the preceding twelve months.

Anaconda Wire and Cable's June quarter net loss was $172,343, compared with profit of $834,042, or $1.98 a share, in the second three months of 1937. In the March quarter of this year the company's loss was $309,790.

Radiator Loses $800,000.

Loss of American Radiator in the first half amounted to $800,000, against net profit of $3,729,409, or 35 cents a common share, in the first six months of 1937. This made net profit in the twelve months to June 30 of $2,675,401, against $9,549,897 in the preceding twelve months.

Allegheny Steel company reported a loss of $756,326 in the first half against profit of $1,415,503 in the first six months of 1937.

Mack Truck's loss for the half year was $471,808, against profit of $940,260 in the like 1937 period.

Purity Bakeries corporation had net income in the twelve weeks ended July 16 of $276,112, compared with $189,521 in the corresponding 1937 period.

Net income of Electric Bond and Share corporation in the June quarter amounted to $2,310,428, or 4 cents a common share. This compared with $2,524,168, or 8 cents a share, in the second quarter of 1937, and $2,145,508, or 1 cent a share, in the March quarter of this year.

Dollars, Gold Attract Funds of Europeans

European capitalists, worried by political troubles and fears of further money tinkering, sought safekeeping for their funds yesterday by buying American dollars or gold. The dollar touched new highs for the year or longer in foreign exchange markets and gold climbed sharply in London on buying attributed to hoarders.

The British pound, one of the world's principal media of exchange, dipped to $4.90¼, off 1 3-16 cents. This price, the lowest in sixteen months, compared with a high above $5 a few months ago.

Hard hit also was the Netherlands guilder, down 0.12 of a cent to 54.74 cents. Despite government support, the French franc eased 0.00⅝ of a cent to 2.75⅜ cents.

Other Currencies Lower.

Foreign exchange dealers said weakness in the pound was aggravated by fears that the British unit was deliberately being allowed to assume its old relationship with the dollar between $4.86 and $4.87. The pound was being allowed to fall, according to rumors, with at least the tacit approval of Washington.

The rumors were fanned by the fact that the latest fall in the pound has coincided with the visit of Secretary Morgenthau to Paris. It was believed that he might be coöperating with British and foreign control authorities to steady exchange rates at levels where less fluctuating relationships could be maintained.

Gold Advances in London.

The price of gold in London advanced to $34.80 an ounce, up 2 cents from the preceding close. A large part of the hoarding demand was reported to be from continental Europe, where worry over the latest crop of war scares appeared to center.

Sales of gold at the time of price fixing were $7,579,958, the largest total since July 19, when another rush for gold was in progress. The chief advance in price, however, came in subsequent trading when the British stabilization fund refused to sell gold in the open market even when the downturn in the pound sterling gained momentum. During previous breaks in sterling, the stabilization fund had sold gold into the open market as an indirect way of cushioning the fall of British money in foreign exchange dealings.

Foreign Stock Markets Dull.

The political and monetary fears had only slight repercussions in the leading European stock markets. Business was dull and price changes were small in London as trading was resumed after the bank holiday Monday. Prices were a little lower in Paris and Amsterdam, although trading was dull.

U. S. FINANCES $6,000,000 COTTON SALES TO ITALY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—The Export-Import bank in the last year has advanced about $6,000,000 to facilitate exports of cotton to Italy, Warren Lee Pierson, the bank's president, said today. The bank is financed by the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Pierson said that during the cotton year ended in July the bank loaned between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 for cotton exports, about half of which was for shipments to Italy. In addition, the bank has loaned an additional $3,600,000 for cotton shipments to Italy since July 1, he said.

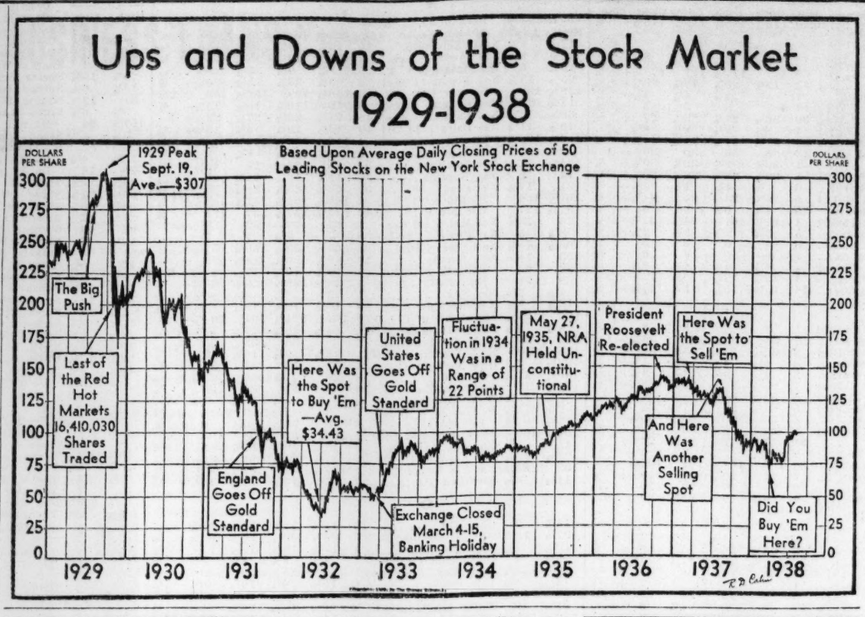
He also disclosed that commitments have been approved covering exports of railway equipment and heavy machinery to several South American countries.

Michigan Firm Challenges Illinois Sales Tax in Suit

A contention that sales in Illinois by companies of other states are not subject to the retailers' occupation [sales] tax was contained in a bill filed in the Circuit court yesterday. The Holland Furnace company of Holland, Mich., asked an injunction to restrain the state director of finance from collecting the tax from the company. A recent ruling of the United States Supreme court is cited as holding that interstate commerce is not subject to sales taxes.

2,500 Utah Copper Workers Back at Work After Layoff

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—The Utah Copper company today reopened its mine at Bingham, Utah, and its concentrating plants at Magna and Arthur, thereby restoring 2,500 men to their jobs. The company, a subsidiary of Kennecott Copper company, closed down June 16. It was announced that operations will be at about the same rate prevailing before the shutdown.



UNVERIFIED RUMORS OF PRICE CUTS HAVE STEEL LEADERS AGOG

A sensation was created in the steel industry in Chicago yesterday by reports from Cleveland, O., that the price of steel used by the automobile industry had been cut $4 a ton by the independent steel companies. Telephone wires buzzed between Chicago and Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Detroit as steel company executives tried to verify the reports.

One Cleveland report stated that the Inland Steel company, Chicago, was to lead the independent steel companies in reducing prices. This action, it was said, was to be reprisal for the price cuts put into effect by the United States Steel corporation on June 24. The comment of an executive of Inland on the report was:

"We have not cut prices, we have not cut wages, and we have not cut any capers."

The official said the price cuts of last June have added to the difficulties of operating at a profit. He said he knew of no plan to cut prices, but no one could forecast the future.

The Daily Metal Trade of Cleveland carried one report that a price reduction of $4 a ton on black steel sheets had been quoted to the leading automobile companies. Later the company withdrew its statement without comment.

GERMANY BOOSTS TAXES TO DEFRAY PUBLIC PROGRAM

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Pressed for funds to finance its tremendous public works and armament program, the German government today boosted corporation taxes for all companies in which income exceeds 100,000 marks [about $40,000] annually.

Companies previously paying a 30 per cent corporation tax will be assessed 35 per cent this year and 40 per cent in 1939 and 1940. Those now paying 15 per cent will be assessed 17½ per cent this year and 20 per cent during the next two years.

Last year the corporation tax produced approximately 1,500,000,000 marks [about $60,000,000]. Under the new rates it is expected to yield 1,750,000,000 marks [about $70,000,000] in 1938 and 2,000,000,000 marks [about $80,000,000] in 1939 and 1940.

LEGAL SNARLS DELAY WINDUP OF CHESAPEAKE

New York, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Legal complications, including tax liability, today further delayed dissolution of the Chesapeake corporation. A committee on dissolution met but C. L. Bradley, president and a director of the company, subsequently said there had been no final decision as to method. Various proposals were discussed. A further meeting was scheduled tentatively for Friday.

Robert R. Young, who, with Allan P. Kirby, controls the Alleghany corporation, which has nominal but not actual control of Chesapeake corporation, was an invited guest at the meeting, but was not a member of the dissolution committee. Young has attempted unsuccessfully to oust Bradley as president of Chesapeake corporation.

Federal Agencies Increase Holdings of Securities

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—The treasury's monthly statement on securities held as investments in trust funds and in accounts of certain governmental corporations and agencies as of June 30, made public today, shows total investments in government securities of $4,185,538,000, compared with $4,090,025,000 as of May 25.

Loss Shown by Stewart Warner Corp.

With sales in the first six months of this year falling 46 per cent below volume for the corresponding 1937 period, the Sewart Warner corporation had a net loss of $393,310, compared with a proft of $1,541,921, or $1.24 a share, in the first half of 1937. This was shown in the semi-annual report issued yesterday by James S. Knowlson, chairman, and J. E. Otis Jr., president. The report was sent to both stockholders and employés.

The second quarter loss, the report showed, was reduced to $178,144, which was 17 per cent less than the March quarter loss of $215,166.

Otis and Knowlson also reported that employment in the main plant has been increased 15 per cent from the low point in January.

Working Capital Maintained.

They said unprofitable operations had brought no impairment of working capital. In the first half year cash and accounts receivable were increased by $150,000, and bank loans were reduced by $350,000. Inventories were decreased $1,340,000. Accounts payable were decreased by $800,000. Total current assets on June 30 were $10,196,412, against current liabilities of $2,865,012.

The report said that, although ordinarily in interim reports "figures should be allowed to speak for themselves," the directors felt at this time that the drastic change in general conditions waranted "some discussion."

"Up until November of last year sales had been progressing at a rate of more than 20 per cent above 1936," the report said, "and all operating and production facilities had of necessity been stepped up to that basis of operation.

New Depression Apparent.

"At first the general feeling was that the falling off of business marked merely a temporary recession after which business would be resumed at full speed. But by January it became apparent that a real depression was upon us and that operations would have to be readjusted to a very much lower level of sales.

"From that time to this the process of readjustment has been the biggest problem before us, and perhaps the most disheartening phase of it has been the necessity of drastically reducing the number of people on the pay roll, both in factory and office."

The company made adjustments in pay amounting to 10 per cent reduc-

JUDGE ASKS WORKERS' ADVICE ON RAILWAYS' PLIGHT; NONE REPLIES

Rutland, Vt., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Federal District Judge Harland B. Howe today appealed to 50 persons in his courtroom for suggestions to help solve the financial problems of the Rutland railroad. He waited three minutes, got no response, and then announced he would be in chambers if any one thought of anything.

Those in the courtroom were principally employés of the railroad and their national representatives.

Judge Howe said the road could not pay full wages to its employés, because it has no money and no prospects of getting it. Federal Mediator George A. Clark of Washington, D. C., is here for conferences on the court's demand for a 15 per cent wage cut.

WAR ON WALLACE IS DECLARED BY TEXAS OFFICIAL

Austin, Tex., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—"War to the finish" against Henry Wallace, secretary of agriculture, was declared today by J. E. McDonald, state secretary of agriculture.

McDonald announced he will lead the farmers of this state in a "revolt" against what he charged were dictatorial and high-handed practices of Wallace in sending two departmental agents into the cotton belt of Texas to make speeches opposing Texas' domestic allotment farm plan.

"It is high time to let this young secretary, who has Mussolini inclinations, understand that he is secretary of agriculture of the United States and not of some nation which is oppressed with dictatorial forms of government," McDonald said.

As the rift with the AAA widened Ralph Moore, master of the Texas State Grange, informed Wallace that Texas cotton growers and farmers "are fast losing confidence in the compulsory farm program."

RFC OFFERS LOAN OF 9 MILLIONS TO AID RAIL MERGER

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—(AP)—The Reconstruction Finance corporation has offered to make a $9,500,000 loan in connection with the proposed merger of the Gulf, Mobile & Northern and the Mobile & Ohio railroads.

Chairman Jesse H. Jones said today the Southern Railway company, which controls the Mobile & Ohio, had expressed a willingness to sell that railroad to the Gulf, Mobile & Northern.

He added the proposed merger had been discussed informally with officials of the Interstate Commerce commission, where "it does not meet with disfavor."

Jones said proposal for merging the Kansas City Southern and the Louisiana & Arkansas railroads had not been placed before the RFC officially.

The RFC, Jones said, has agreed to make a $5,000,000 work loan to the New York Central if the I. C. C. approves.

A Greater Service to Investors

FIVE years ago, Babson's Reports broke all precedents with the announcement of a Supervised Investment Service for $120 a year. In taking that forward step, we accepted a fact well known to every seasoned investor: It is utterly impossible for anybody to supervise successfully all securities. That was why we focused our efforts on certain issues which offered the real opportunities.

Supervision Pays

The practical results of such concentration have been impressive. The recent market advance is a typical test period. The Babson Selections have leaped 39% in market value while the Dow-Jones Industrial Average has advanced only 31%. This means Babson clients' profits have been 26% greater than the market average.

Based on five years of successful experience, we are now supervising a somewhat larger list of securities. They include the market's real income-producers and profit-makers. This enlarged supervision means an even more comprehensive service to you as an investor.

Conserve Your Principal

To increase and protect your income and profits is the purpose of Babson's Reports. In the thirty-four years this organization has been serving investors, improvements have been continuous. Clients have benefitted steadily.

Write for Special Circular

Today's enlarged Supervised Service constitutes still another forward stride. Let us show you how it fits your personal needs and how it can relieve you of investment worries and burdens.

U. S. IS FACING RECORD DEFICIT OVER 5 BILLIONS

July Spending Far Exceeds Receipts.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—Indications were today that the Roosevelt depression would give the treasury a record deficit of nearly five billion dollars for the current fiscal year.

A statement issued today for the first month of the new fiscal year showed that the treasury actually spent $451,313,346 more than it took in during July. This excludes public debt retirements. In the corresponding period of the 1938 fiscal year the deficit amounted to only $268,001,924.

Since the first month's deficit represents more than 11 per cent of the total deficit of $3,984,887,600 estimated by President Roosevelt in the revised budget for the fiscal year of 1939, it is asserted here that the estimate for the year will be far short.

Deficit May Set Record.

At the same rate of spending the treasury woud set a new deficit record of more than five billion for the year. However, there are good indications that receipts from internal revenue and customs may rise during remaining months of the year. The usual summer letdown has accentuated a drop in receipts, since the serious setback in business last fall.

A treasury spokesman said the 451 million deficit for July would not upset calculations on the yearly deficit. He pointed out that social security taxes will be due in August and income tax instalments in September, tending to boost the treasury's status for the quarter.

However, it must be remembered that the administration's spend-lend spree is really just getting under way and can be expected to gain in momentum as the crucial fall elections approach.

Prepare for Elections.

It is expected no efforts nor money will be spared to give the country a semblance of prosperity prior to elections in which the feasibility of administration policies may be opened to serious questioning.

The estimated deficit of 3 billion, 984 million for the 1939 fiscal year never has been considered very definite, anyway. Mr. Roosevelt, in the past, has always underestimated deficits. The revised budget figure made in July represented an increase of 3 billion dollars over the estimate made last January when the budget was first submitted to congress.

1931	$ 901,959,000
1932	3,147,919,000
1933	3,063,257,000
1934	3,989,496,000
1935	3,575,358,000
1936	4,763,842,000
1937	2,811,318,000

Effect of Veterans' Bonus.

The 1936 deficit included an extraordinary item of 1¾ billion dollars paid as a veterans' bonus. Excluding this item, the 1934 deficit was the previous high for depression years.

There was a general decline in treasury receipts during July. Total income of $311,092,400 compared with $409,160,600 in the corresponding period of last year. Income taxes were off 10 millions at 47 million dollars. Customs fell 17 million to 23 millions. Social security taxes were 22 million lower at 31 millions.

Along with these evidences of hindered recovery were sharp increases in spending. Total expenditures, excluding debt retirements, were $762,405,700, compared with $677,162,600, an increase of 85 million.

The government spent $65,771,200 for agricultural aid in July, compared with only $26,809,300 a year ago.

Today's statement showed that the public debt on July 13 amounted to $35,075,380,400, or $285.75 per capita.

6 Month Sales of Planes Rise Almost Half

New York, Aug. 2.—(AP)—A 47 per cent increase in sales of American made airplanes and engines, compared with the same period in 1937, was reported tonight for the first six months of the year. Leighton W. Rogers, president of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, made the announcement.

Leighton W. Rogers.

His review showed 717 military planes valued at $29,285,927, and 1,134 engines for military use valued at $8,526,914 were sold.

The total for both military and commercial airplanes and engines was $73,031,806 for the period, compared with $49,450,114 for the January-June period in 1937.

Military Exports Undisclosed.

What portion of the military equipment was sold abroad was not stated.

"The American aircraft industry," said Rogers, "is coöperating fully with the state department in its neutrality policy."

Nonmilitary airplanes sold numbered 960, valued at $9,300,944, and nonmilitary engines 1,931, valued at $7,756,821. Commercial plane and engine exports were valued at $8,321,735, or 48 per cent of the total in that category.

June Exports Rise.

The commerce department reported recently June exports of aeronautic products totaled $7,952,932, or 205 per cent above June, 1937. The principal purchasers were Argentina, China, and Japan.

If shipments abroad continue at the rate of the last three months, the department said, the year's total will exceed $80,000,000 and would be slightly more than double the 1937 figure.

MEXICO TO REPLY TODAY TO HULL'S LAND CLAIM NOTE

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, Aug. 2.—(AP)—The department of propaganda and publicity announced today that a reply to Secretary of State Hull's note of July 21 would be published simultaneously in Mexico City and Washington tomorrow. Hull's note proposed arbitration of American claims for expropriated farm lands.

The United States is in danger of losing its Mexican trade permanently because of debasement of the currency leading to barter deals with Germany and Italy, it was asserted today by the Mineral Survey magazine. It said:

"The chief sufferer from barter activities will be the United States, which does not operate on the barter principle. The principal beneficiaries will be Germany and Italy."

Oil Transaction "Confirmed."

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—(AP)—The bureau of mines disclosed information today which it said "confirmed" reports that Mexico had found a market for American and British expropriated oil in Germany.

"According to information obtained through the London tanker market," the bureau said, "the report is confirmed. Several tankers have been fitted out to the account of German firms."

New York Curb Seat Sells for $12,500; Down $2,500

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Sale of a New York Curb exchange seat for $12,500, down $2,500 from the preceding transaction, was reported today.

THREATS OF WAR BLIGHT REVIVAL OF WORLD TRADE

Nations Need Peace for Prosperity.

(This is the ninth of a series of articles on the factors hindering genuine business recovery. The tenth will appear in an early issue.)

BY HOWARD WOOD.

When nations follow a policy of peace and trade they are likely to be prosperous. When they follow a policy of conquest and economic self-containment they are likely to be in bad shape economically. Indeed, in many nations today it has been the economic breakdown that has made possible the setting up of dictatorships.

Nations of the world move pretty much in the same direction. Economic developments of importance that affect one nation are likely to affect others in varying degrees.

For this reason the character of relations between nations generally during the next few years will have much bearing on the state of things economic in the United States.

Fear Another World War.

Just now the international outlook is not good. There are some encouraging situations, but most of the world is wondering whether there will shortly be another world war. When people get into that frame of mind they are in no condition to concentrate on trade and the pursuits of peace. They are frightened, and frightened men do not expand their business operations.

The Midland Bank of London has been giving much space in its monthly bulletins to the 1937-1938 recurrence of the depression in the United States. Midland is worried because it has found the American depression backwashing to European countries, particularly Great Britain and the Scandinavian nations. One reason for this alarm has been the sharp drop in American purchases of foreign goods. Our imports in the first four months of 1938 were only 648 million dollars, compared with 1 billion 66 millions in the first four months of 1937.

Nations Blame Each Other.

"Three months ago," says the Midland bank in its July review, "we showed how the slump in that country [the United States], the world's largest consumer of primary commodities, was adversely affecting both current conditions and business prospects in other parts of the world, even in countries transacting relatively little direct trade with America.

"Since then the influence of the United States as a drag on business all over the world has become still more evident, and still more perplexing as a factor in developments yet to come."

Thus we have a two sided picture. Europe blames the United States for dragging the world back into depression. The United States looks around the world and sees conquest, violations of international treaties, debt repudiation, inflation, and nations

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 2.—Prices of leading stocks gained fractions to about 2 points on the stock exchange today. Many regained the losses incurred on Monday. Although some selling appeared near the close, final prices were around the day's best levels.

Industrial shares were favorites, the Dow-Jones average rising 1.60 to 141.97. The rail and utility averages gained minor percentages.

Trading was slow until midafternoon, when traders who had taken sideline positions in the morning were attracted to the buying side. Volume totaled 817,640 shares, compared with 586,510 shares on Monday.

Best demand centered in the automobile, truck and rubber shares. Chrysler started 1 point lower, quickly rallied and climbed 2 points higher, then sold off for a net gain of 1¼ points. Aided by the 25 cent dividend payment, General Motors found good support to gain 1⅛points.

Rubber shares featured the afternoon bulge. Goodrich registered a gain of 1⅝ to close at 24¼, a new peak for the year. United States Rubber advanced nearly 2 points.

The strengthening of steel scrap prices following reports of increased production stimulated demand for steel shares. Early losses were wiped out and gains ranging from fractions to more than 1 point were substituted. United States Steel was the leader, rising 1⅛ points.

Sears Roebuck, up 1¼, and Montgomery Ward, up 1½, were leaders in the merchandising group.

New York Bonds.

New York, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Although some industrial liens touched new 1938 highs, the main trend was toward lower levels in the bond market today.

The rail group continued easy and the Associated Press averages showed utilities and foreign dollar bonds at lower levels. The low yield group held about steady.

United States government obligations were irregular, changes ranging from a decline of 4-32s of a point in one maturity to 2-32s gain in others.

Some selling in the foreign division was caused by disquieting news, including new reports of Russo-Japanese hostilities. Japan 6½s dropped 3½ points to 67½ and the 5½s lost 4½ points at 46½.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks were irregular and quiet yesterday, although trading picked up a little, amounting to 19,000 shares, compared with 14,000 on Monday. Bond trading totaled $5,000 par value against $2,000 on the preceding day.

Bendix Aviation, Borg-Warner, Hupp Motor, Marshall Field, and Commonwealth Edison made fractional gains. Chicago corporation, Utah Radio, and Armour were fractionally lower.

Advances and declines were about even, with 28 issues moving up, 27 dropping, and 20 holding unchanged.

Bank Stocks.

Three Chicago bank stocks advanced slightly in somewhat heavier trading yesterday. Shares of the American National Bank and Trust company rose $3 to $181 bid, $190 asked. Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust and First National shares each gained $1. Local investment houses, however, continued to disagree on nominal quotations for leading stocks.

TRADE SHOWS DRAW BUYERS BY THOUSANDS

Fall Market Events Get Auspicious Start.

Between 6,000 and 7,000 out of town merchants and buyers were in Chicago last night to take part in fall opening market events sponsored by the Chicago Association of Commerce. Additional thousands were here to attend other trade and market conventions.

The Association of Commerce market events are being held in connection with the Interstate Merchants' council. The council, which is the retail merchants' affiliate of the association, is holding its 34th semi-annual convention.

The association said that registrations on the first day of the convention were ahead of those on the first day of last year's midseason convention. Further, it was stated, the merchants are optimistic about fall retail trade.

Pirie Finds Optimism.

John T. Pirie Jr., speaking as president of the Chicago Wash Dress and Apparel association, said consumer buying is on the mend. The association's wash apparel show at the Palmer house has attracted more than 1,200 buyers, he reported. Pirie is director of sales and advertising for Carson Pirie Scott & Company's wholesale division.

"Buyers from practically every part of the United States are uniformly optimistic about business conditions," Pirie said. "I have found the same true of apparel manufacturers, representatives of mills and converters, salesmen, and merchants."

R. M. Henry, general manager of Butler Brothers, also was optimistic, saying that his organization's fall market opening had gotten off to a good start.

Percy Wilson, representing the Merchandise Mart, declared that there were many indications of better times ahead.

"I attribute the current wave of buying," Wilson said, "to the huge crops apparent from Texas to the Dakotas. The optimism at the mart is what I would term conservative optimism."

Style Show Is Held.

A style show is being held at the Morrison hotel in connection with the merchants' council and more than 1,200 retail dealers attended the organization's annual banquet at the Hotel Sherman last night.

Among the other conventions is the National Association of Music Merchants at the Stevens hotel, which is being attended by about 3,000 persons.

The Chicago merchandise fair at the Palmer house has attracted about 2,500 buyers. Many varieties of Christmas and other holiday items are being displayed.

Also at the Palmer house is the Chicago Linen exposition which is being attended by about 1,000 buyers.

Railroad Yardsticks—IV.

Various other yardsticks are available to the investor who wishes to make a thorough study of a railroad before purchasing its securities. Among those frequently used are revenue freight and passenger density. These figures indicate the volume of freight and passenger business done. They are valuable in learning the trend of a railroad's business and in comparing one road with another.

One of the most common ways to measure revenue passenger density is to compute the number of passengers carried one mile per mile of road. This is done by dividing the total number of passengers carried one mile by the average number of miles operated. Likewise the freight density can be computed by dividing the number of tons of freight carried one mile by the number of miles operated.

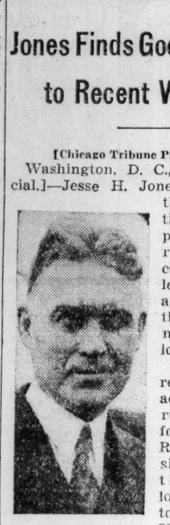
Somewhat similar yardsticks can be obtained by dividing the total freight train miles or passenger train miles by the number of miles of road.

BANKS INCREASE SHARE IN RFC'S BUSINESS LOANS

Jones Finds Good Reaction to Recent Warning.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, today reported on the corporation's lending activities and announced that banks are making increased loans to business.



Senator Shipstead, who urges rail repair loans.

Since the RFC resumed lending activities in February in an effort to stem the Roosevelt depression, it has authorized 2,865 loans of all types totaling $536,679,200, Jones' report shower. Of these, 2,508 totaling $105,203,862 were to business and the RFC share was $90,142,853. Banks participated in 400 of these business loans to the extent of $15,061,000.

Bank participations in such loans have been increasing, Jones said at a press conference late today. Reactions to his recent letter warning banks to extend more credit have been "very good" he said.

Calls It "Love Letter."

"I thought that letter was a love letter, not a blast," said Jones.

He was questioned concerning his own bank's position. A recent statement of the National Bank of Commerce in Houston, Tex., of which Jones is chairman of the board, showed that it had been reducing loans, while Jones, as chairman of the RFC, was urging banks to make more loans.

"I don't want people to do as I do; I want them to do as I tell them," was his calm reply.

He said there are about 2,500 applications for small loans now before the RFC. About 40 per cent of the business loans have been for less than $5,000 each, he said, but the average has been $40,000.

He disclosed he has conferred with Senator Henrik Shipstead [F. L., Minn.] concerning the latter's proposal for RFC loans to repair old railroad equipment. He said he looked on the proposal with favor but that RFC loans for such purposes would have to be made to a "suitable" borrower. Such equipment must be free from mortgage, he said.

Will Vacation in Europe.

In connection with his report on loans since February, Jones announced that the RFC between Feb. 19 and Aug. 1 loaned 45 million dollars to railroads, 6 million to closed banks, 1 million to an insurance company, 25 million to the Federal National Mortgage association, 36 million to the RFC Mortgage company, 150 million to the Commodity Credit corporation for a wheat loan, and 39 million for purchase of securities from the PWA.

The regular monthly report of the RFC, submitted to President Roosevelt today, showed loan authorizations of $43,135,000 in June, including $17,600,000 in loans to business.

THREATS OF WAR BLIGHT REVIVAL OF WORLD TRADE

Nations Require Peace for Prosperity.

There are two ways in which the problem can be approached for solution:

1. Induce the warlike nations to calm down sufficiently to get a policy of peace and trade in motion, the assumption being that as people in various nations get over their acute war scares a situation favorable to renewal of trade will be set up.

2. Get genuine recovery started in some important nation and let it filter into the rest of the world.

Premier Chamberlain of Great Britain is on the first tack. By following a policy of appeasement and compromise with the bellicose dictatorships he is striking for a balance in European relationships. His task is a difficult one because he needs time—at least two years—to complete British rearmament.

Look to United States.

Many British economists and political leaders believe, on the other hand, that something must be done quickly if the world isn't to spin to economic misery in another vicious spiral. Most of them look to the United States as the best hope.

"I have been asked repeatedly in this country what America can do to help relieve the dangerous world situation," said a noted member of the British parliament at a private forum in Chicago recently.

"My answer has been: 'Restore your own prosperity. A prosperous America will do more to improve world conditions than any other single development."

If some way be found to work away from warfare and national economic self-sufficiency and back toward the ways of peace and trade, the world might well be on the way toward a long period of genuine good times.

Alternative is Chaos.

If this is not done the prospect will continue to be that of conquest, debt repudiation, inflation, regimentation of business by political groups, and a decreasing standard of living.

"What is essentially required for a speedy recovery is a period during which private industry can carry on its affairs with a reasonable expectation of reasonable profits and with a minimum disturbance from fluctuations in costs and fears of international complications," said the financial committee of the League of Nations in a report issued two weeks ago.

WHEAT RALLIES AFTER SLIDE TO SEASON'S LOW

New seasonal low levels were touched early yesterday by all deliveries of wheat and the new crop futures of corn. Selling pressure, however, was not heavy and later sufficient buying developed, as the result of the strained political situation in the far east and the strength in securities, to bring about a fair rally.

Closing trades in wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade were ¼ cent higher to ⅝ cent a bushel lower. Corn was unchanged to ⅛ cent higher. Price changes in oats and rye were largely confined to small fractions of a cent a bushel.

Threshing returns from Kansas, Oklahoma and Nebraska continue to be disappointing. The C. M. Galvin-James E. Bennett & Co. report issued yesterday placed the winter wheat crop at 672,000,000 bushels, or 43,000,000 bushels less than was indicated on July 1. Spring wheat was increased 5,000,000 bushels during the last month to 257,000,000 bushels. The total harvest of all varieties of wheat was estimated at 929,000,000 bushels, compared with 967,000,000 bushels a month ago. The 1937 harvest was 874,000,000 bushels.

UNION TANK CAR COMPANY

Chicago, Ill., August 2, 1938.

The Board of Directors of Union Tank Car Company has declared a quarterly dividend of Thirty Cents (30c) per share on the outstanding Capital Stock of the Company, payable September 1, 1938, to stockholders of record at the close of business August 15, 1938.

Checks will be mailed by The Chase National Bank of the City of New York, Transfer Agent.

C. W. ROCHETTE, Secretary.

LOWER STEWART WARNER LOSS IN SECOND QUARTER

tions for salaried employés, and necessarily cut working hours of those employed on an hourly basis, the report said.

Reductions for executives and key employés who are compensated both by salary and by bonus, will range from 15 to 40 per cent below a year ago.

Cites Higher Wages, Taxes.

"Higher hourly rates during the last several years, which are further increased by social security and unemployment taxes on the one hand and the demand for lower prices in order to stimulate sales on the other, render the problem far from simple," the statement said. "But the facts remain that we are apparently getting closer to a correct understanding and possibly a solution."

A letter to "the four thousand picked employés of Stewart-Warner corporation," was sent with copies of the earnings statement.

"Attached is the six months' report to stockholders which is being sent to you so that you may understand just what we are all up against," the letter said. "Hundreds of us employés are also stockholders and know that Stewart-Warner is not owned by any large capitalists, but by some 17,000 people who have put their savings into this business, just as they might have put it into a bungalow.

$3,500 Investment Per Worker.

"The $14,000,000 which these 17,000 people have placed in our hands provides the buildings, machinery, and the capital which we need and use. It represents an investment of over $3,500 in tools and equipment for each employé.

"In simple language, what we are saying to the stockholder is, 'We are sorry, but we can't pay you any return on your money,' and the stockholder is in the same position as a man who has put his money into a bungalow and finds he has a tenant who can't pay his rent.

"And we are saying, 'Not only can we pay no rent, but we have lost a little more than $60,000 a month for you this year.' However, we have this advantage, we still have our jobs and it is up to us to lick this situation. Let's put our backs into it!"
